Cotton Pique Is Versatile

COTTONS keep squarely in the spotlight of fashion's favor this season because they are so admirably styled and practical for many types of apparel. Pique has been prominent for several seasons and now continues its popularity with interesting variations of the mode in wide-wale fabrics.

show in detail one of the new summer models in wide-wale pique that are so smartly styled and refreshingly youthful. The sleeveless dress in this ensemble is made up of the fabric in egg shell shade which harmonizes with the light kaffir brown of the cape coat. An interesting feature of this ensemble is the scalloped treatment in both the dress and coat.

Zinnias Great and Small

For the hot summer months there is no more gorgeous gardening material than the zinnias, rivaling the dahlias in their giant forms and the pompon chrysanthemums in the tiny Lilliput strain. The newest strain comes from California breeders and is known as the dahlia flowered type, a quilling of the petals relieving the formality of the older flat petaled type.

hot its feet are cooled with plenty of moisture. The picotee type is one of the later developments in this plant, each petal being edged with a deeper color than the ground color. Another new type is the Achievement or Victory strain of quilled zinnias, the quilling giving the flower something of the appearance of a cactus dahlia. Plant zinnia seed now. It can be planted in the open and will be ready to give its display beginning in July.

FLESH AND ORCHID WEDDING FAVORITES

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—Flesh and orchid chiffon are much used this spring as costumes for wedding attendants. At a recent wedding where apple blossoms, pink roses and ferns were the decorations the matron of honor was garbed in flesh-colored chiffon with hat and slippers to match. She carried pink roses. The maid of honor was in pale orchid chiffon with hat and slippers of a deeper shade. She carried opheia roses.

IS YOUR TITLE INSURED?

A man of moderate means can ill afford the cost of lengthy litigations which are sure to be forced upon him should any flaw come to light affecting the validity of his title. It is much more economical to pay the small premium for the absolute and permanent protection of a title insurance policy.

Nelson Rockefeller's Bride-to-Be His Sweetheart of Maine Beaches

PHILADELPHIA, June 7—(AP)—The wedding here on June 23 of Miss Mary Todhunter Clark and Nelson A. Rockefeller, second son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will mark a new chapter in a tale of romance which had its beginning on the beaches of Maine.

It was not far from there that the young scion of the house of Rockefeller was born.

Both are fond of horseback riding, tennis, photography, swimming and hikes through the hills.

Both families spent the summers there several years ago. Miss Clark and Nelson were very young then—he is only 21 now and she is 22.

But each summer they met again and the romance blossomed.

Made Debut in 1926
Miss Clark made her debut at a tea here in October, 1926. She is identified with the activities of the younger social set in this city and New York.

During the last two years she has been responsible for much of the social work sponsored by the Junior League.

In dramatic productions presented by the league she has taken difficult parts and has appeared in specialty dances at the Junior League Cabaret, the Easter Ball and the Devon horse show calendar.

She was graduated from the Foxcroft School in Virginia in 1925, where she played basketball. A year later she took a degree at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She has traveled extensively in Europe.

Her mother is the former Miss Elizabeth W. Roberts, daughter of the late George R. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania railroad years ago.

Father An Attorney
Her father, Percy Hamilton

Mary Todhunter Clark, of Philadelphia, and Nelson A. Rockefeller, second son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who will be married June 23.

Clark, head of a banking firm which bore his name. He is a widely-known attorney.

Miss Clark has six brothers and one sister.

The Clark-Rockefeller engagement marks the second alliance of the Rockefeller family with members of Philadelphia families.

Amira Rockefeller, daughter of Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, married M. Roy Jackson, master of the Radnor Hunt club.

The wedding ceremony will be performed in St. Anaph's Protestant Episcopal church, in Bala, a suburb, by the rector, the Rev. Benjamin N. Bird.

The Clarks have been lifelong members of the church.

It is said here that the couple will spend their honeymoon on a seven months' cruise around the world, making lengthy stops in China and India.

On their return, it is stated, they will occupy a $75,000 home which the father of young Rockefeller is building for them on the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, N. Y.

always there should be good lights and a small stand or table near the bed, and another group near a window, where one may rest and relax. A comfortable chair, stool, table, flowers and good lights make up such a group. If the room is large enough a chaise longue and a small desk with the necessary companion pieces are really quite essential.

Decorations For The Home

The entrance hall is your first introduction and should be pleasing, restful and dignified. The size of the hall determines, of course, the amount and arrangement of the hall furniture, but the average entrance hall should contain a console, cabinet or table, an interesting chair and a good mirror. Wall hangings are to be preferred to pictures in a hall and an interesting arrangement of cut flowers always extends a hearty welcome.

In fact, flowers should be used in every room and their containers and arrangements studied as carefully as the Japanese study them for flowers speak a universal language understood by every one, and besides they soften all hard points in a room and intensify the good ones.

For the dining room there is little to be said except that it must be well balanced and restful without a jarring note to mar the enjoyment of food or to handicap hospitality and conversation.

Bedrooms are easy to arrange for most of them are planned architecturally with a place for the bed and other larger pieces, but

Berets and Scarfs Match
NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Berets and kerchiefs which match in color and fabric are increasingly popular for sports wear. Mrs. Hunter Marston wears this ensemble in brightly striped silk with a heavy wool sports suit in solid tone reflecting one of the hues in her striped cap kerchief.

At a recent luncheon Mrs. Longworth was attired in a brown cape suit with blouse of brocaded gold and tan.

Mrs. McCormick wore a tweed suit of tan mixture with brown felt hat and long light tan silk blouse with brown figures. It had a wide belt of figured tan and brown.

"Puffy"

By Nell von der Hellen

At first, he made little visits, hurrying back; then he would be gone for days, coming occasionally when Billy whistled the familiar call. At last, he came no more, and Billy wondered, sadly, if a hawk or a hunter had found him. Tame as he was, he would be easy prey for either.

The leaves dropped and the nights grew cold. One morning the ground was white with snow, and the next there was more snow. The cold was intense and many birds died.

As Billy watched the birds picking the last of the mistletoe berries, he thought of his little friend and wished that he could give him food. He took long walks whistling the old call, but very few quail he found were very wary and hid under brush.

The snow had lain two weeks and all the wild life was suffering. Whether because of this fact, or some other, Billy never knew, but one morning when he went out to feed the chickens a bevy of quail flew out of the house. One stayed behind. Softly, Billy called, and threw down some feed. Mistletoe, he waited. Was it Puffy? He repeated the whistle over and over and at last the trim little bird, head held high and top-knot erect, came toward him. Cautiously, then confidently, he approached, finally eating from Billy's hand.

As long as the cold lasted, he fed his little flock into the chicken house each night and from there, as of old, he called each morning for his feed.

GRANDMOTHER'S MITTS RE-ENTER THE VOGUE

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Black lace mitts like grandmother used to wear are fashion's latest accessory with black afternoon and evening frocks this spring.

Mrs. Findlay Westover sponsored the vogue at a recent tea for wear with a black lace afternoon frock of flowing lines.

BUTTONS AT WORK FOR CLOSER FIT

PARIS (AP)—Buttons are being brought back to working ways by the haute couture.

Some of the smartest new dresses button up the side front and sometimes up the opposite side back as well. The button-closing makes a closer fit possible than can be obtained in the slip-on hookless, buttonless dresses.

RUTH AND ALICE STEP OUT IN BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ruth Hannan McCormick and Alice Roosevelt Longworth dress in harmony as they go about together these spring days.

At a recent luncheon Mrs. Longworth was attired in a brown cape suit with blouse of brocaded gold and tan.

Mrs. McCormick wore a tweed suit of tan mixture with brown felt hat and long light tan silk blouse with brown figures. It had a wide belt of figured tan and brown.

Easy Recipes for Luncheon

By CAROLINE B. KING

I MADE the best salad the other day—and so simply, too. It almost went together without any help from me at all. First I opened a glass jar of pimiento cups and drained them well, then I marinated them in French dressing for an hour. Finally I filled them with a mixture of chopped celery.

I let this lie in cool lemon water for an hour to blanch and crisp it—mixed with chopped walnut meats (I buy mine in glass jars then I know they will be fine and fresh even in summer) and bottled mayonnaise. In the center of each filled pimiento cup I placed a sprig of crisp water cress and served my little scarlet salad cups on tender heart leaves of lettuce.

They went so well with my luncheon of Creamed Finnan Haddock on Toast, which is also very easy. I merely made a nice cream sauce and added the flaked fish from a glass jar of the Haddock, cut my toast in small squares as it is so much nicer to pick up on a fork's earned my places and in a jiffy luncheon was served.

SUNDAY BREAKFASTS HELP HOLD FAMILIES

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—The family persists as an institution because it gives satisfaction to human beings.

That is the conclusion of Porter R. Lee, director of the New York School of Social Work, who is conducting an analysis of family life based on 7,500 individual experiences.

Some of the most satisfying experiences center round family festivals such as Christmas and Thanksgiving. Picnics and Sunday morning breakfasts are other pleasant incidents mentioned.

Setting the Table
In setting the table care should be taken to place the silver so that the handles are in an even line, about one inch from the edge of the table. The knives, of course, with their cutting edges turned in, all spoons and the oyster fork go on the right and the forks on the left of the service plate. Only those pieces actually to be used are put on the table and they are placed in order of their use. The dessert spoon and fork, the fruit knife and a fork are always brought in on their respective plates. After-dinner coffee spoons belong on the saucers of the cups.

As breakfast is such a simple meal, utmost care should be taken to make it all the more attractive. Daylight is not as charitable as candlelight and every little detail is important. The gay colored linen should be fresh and newly pressed; the silver, china and glass spotlessly polished. Always serve fruit, ice cold and coffee, tea and chocolate piping hot. The exact timing of eggs is necessary and the toast should be crisp, golden brown squares.

Breakfast Makes or Breaks the Day
Breakfast can make or break the day. The first glimpse of a colorful table is like a cheery "Good Morning." Warm sunshine shimmering over the spotless silver makes the fresh flowers seem even more colorful. An aroma of coffee is in the air.
