MANY FISH TAKEN AT DIAMOND LAKE WARDENS REPORT

Yesterday was a gain one at Diamond Lake for hundreds of fishermen of Medford, Klamath Falls and Bend and despite the diligence of Deputy Game Warden Roy Parr and E. M. Brown, only a few fish law violations were discovered, as a result of which one man was fined $25 and costs in Judge Taylor's court here for violation of the bag limit and a former Medford man, visiting here from California, was fined the same sum for not having a license.

The game wardens last evening checked up on the returning fishermen for Medford, taking their stand at the point where the Diamond lake road connects with the Crater Lake highway.

This check showed $2 automobiles with 100 pounds of rainbow trout, of average weight of 1 1/2 pounds each.

Probably just as many more fishermen returned home from Diamond lake by the Klamath Falls road outlet to Klamath county and Bend with at least just as many fish.

Anyhow it is figured that not less than 2000 pounds of fish were taken from the lake yesterday.

In addition to the local fishermen it is said that 300 others from the city and valley visited Diamond lake yesterday on pleasure jaunts.

PROSPECT PICNIC OF SPANISH WAR VETS ENJOYABLE

Spanish War veterans and their families of Jackson and Josephine counties gathered for a picnic and social reunion at Prospect, Sunday. Attendance was estimated at about sixty persons.

As is always the case at such veteran affairs the matter of raising money was not overlooked and the evidences of successful fundraising would have done credit to any commissary department scouts. Of course baked beans were present in great force.

Everything was well managed, well regulated, and quite orderly—considering who were there—until after taking on ballast there was an outbreak of afternoon oratory, but Commander George Alden aroused general admiration by quickly and cleverly bringing it under control.

The excellent hospitality of Commander Jim Grieve and Mrs. Grieve was so much appreciated that it was voted to let them do it over again next year.

All Spanish War veterans and families are invited to join Rogue River camp, United Spanish War Veterans in a picnic dinner at the city park, Grants Pass, Sunday, June 15th, at 1:30 p. m. Appropriate Flag Day exercises will follow this dinner. Department Commander E. L. Clark is expected to be the principal speaker.

Sunday Excavation Work At Indian Mound Viewed; Three Skeletons Exposed

(By Eva Nealon)
While crowds of curious minded people without fears or superstitions regarding the dead of a former race, and one of a different color, gathered round the graves at the Indian mound on the banks of Rogue River at Gold Hill yesterday, Dr. L. S. Cressman of the sociology department of the University of Oregon, with trowel and whiskbroom in hand, dug the skeletons of three Indians from the ground and dusted them off for the inspection of the inquisitive whites.

Approximately 200 people crowded the grounds to view the bones and relics of the former race, which were placed beneath the sandy loam, where digging was easy, long before Lewis and Clark made their expedition to the coast, according to Dr. Cressman and other scientists who have inspected the relics brought from the tombs, discovered a year ago by Bill Hittle.

Excavations were resumed at the mound for the first time since the discovery of the Indian graves Friday of last week. The public was allowed entrance to the grounds at the foot of Echo mountain for the first time Sunday.

Dr. Cressman arrived from Eugene at noon to supervise the excavations. Mr. Hittle had shoveled the dirt to the entrance of a tomb when he arrived. A few inquisitors of the trowel into the loam dirt brought evidence of a skull.

The skeleton removed from the mound in the morning was that of a male member of the tribe. No implements or weapons accompanied his bones, indicating that he was not especially revered by his people.

In contrast to his simple burial the tomb entered when the mound was first discovered stands out as the probable resting place of a chieftain or medicine man. The smoothly polished stone pipes, knives of obsidian rock and perfectly carved arrows, scattered about the skeleton found there, were an exhibition at the grounds Sunday.

Entering the second grave the skull of a woman, too round to be normal, with teeth worn down to a thin row, was discovered with a few pelvic and leg bones, which have withstood the onslaught of time, resting beside it. The position of these bones in relation to the skull showed that in honor of an ancient belief, or perhaps to avoid further digging, the old woman was buried with her knees doubled up to her chin.

The third skull found was judged as one which housed the brains of an Indian of higher standing in the tribe, which hunted and fished in peace several hundred years ago, where their crumbling bones are now brought out into the sunshine. Two beautiful knives, chipped from obsidian rock, one of sparkling black, the other streaked with red, were placed in close proximity to the head. An almost complete set of teeth fell from the skull as it was removed from the grave. An imbedded wisdom tooth was found in the lower left jaw bone, a cavity in an incisor, and two worn down teeth described by an onlooker as "those which mark the place where an old Indian carried his pipe."

The mound in which the Indians were buried with their belongings was probably deposited by an eddy and chosen by the former race as a burial ground because of the ease with which the dirt could be removed and the beauty of the neighboring mountains and river. Dr. Cressman stated yesterday afternoon. The presence of obsidian knives in the tombs indicates that whatever the tribe, it was one which traded with the Klamath Indians as the closest obsidian rock is found in the Klamath country.

The same rock was used by Aztec and Mayan people.
