Friends, Foes of Chairman Federal Farm Board Wonder How Long Service Will Continue—Clashes With Barnes Cited.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—President Hoover today nominated Chairman Legge and C. C. Teague of California for reappointment to the federal farm board. Their terms expire Saturday.

By Alexander H. George. Friends and foes of the man who has been called "agriculture's Abraham Lincoln" and "the leader of a socialist fiasco," were wondering today how much longer he would remain at the head of the government's $500,000,000 enterprise in merchandising farm products. Chairman Alexander H. Legge, of the federal farm board, who has clashed frequently and fiercely with President Hoover's intimate friend and advisor, Julius Barnes, over the board's operations in grain, will complete a year of service with that agency at midnight on Saturday.

How long he would serve was announced as indefinite by President Hoover at the time of his appointment. Mr. Legge, the chief executive then said, will be chairman of the board "for the first year at least."

While the consensus here is that Legge will serve another year, neither the president nor the chairman himself has given any official indication of what may be expected. On that subject, Legge is smilingly uncommunicative.

The board continued its operations, however, and now is preparing to assist a similar stabilization corporation to relieve the cotton emergency. Board Condemned. The chamber of commerce, at its annual meeting in April, condemned the board's policy of using public funds to participate in business competition with established agencies. Then, facing his fellow members of the chamber, Legge dramatically denounced their attitude of hostility to the board, declaring they were for farm relief "so long as it didn't work."

Both Legge and Barnes are said to have the confidence and support of the chief executive in their respective activities. They are at loggerheads, however, on the question of using public funds to finance co-operative marketing operations.

Meanwhile Legge, who left the large grain operations was an economic fallacy and if continued would prove disastrous.

WOMAN KNOWS GUILTY PERSON AVER OFFICERS

Companion of Tenino Cook Held On First Degree Murder Charge in Centralia Jail.

CENTRALIA, Wash., June 12.—(AP)—A warrant charging Agnes Stitham, 27, Tenino divorcee, with first degree murder, was issued yesterday on complaint of R. L. Pender, deputy Lewis county prosecutor and bail was set at $10,000.

She was the companion of Maynard Taylor, 27, Tenino cook, who was shot to death near here Sunday night on a side road by an unknown assailant.

The warrant was regarded as a means of holding her for further questioning. While she has maintained throughout that she did not know the stranger who attacked her and Taylor when the latter parked his car in the lonely lane, officers have held to the belief that she could name her companion's slayer if she so desired. She claimed that she was fired upon before she fled, leaving Taylor to grapple with the gunman.

An itinerant told officers yesterday that he had seen a man fleeing from the lane where Taylor was killed Sunday night.

HAWLEY BILLS TO AID OREGON LOST THROUGH PROTEST

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—Four bills of Representative Hawley of Oregon, including the Champeo memorial bill, went down in the house Wednesday and were stricken off the calendar, due to active protest by three congressmen, one of whom was Representative LaGuardia of New York. The rules of the house, taking a bill off the calendar under three objections, were enforced and will remain so unless Hawley, in the next 10 days, can move Speaker Longworth to an order suspending the rules.

Hawley got up to protest against the action, but resumed his seat after looking around the floor of the house.

ARMY LAW ADVOCATED IN CHICAGO

Business and Civic Groups Would Drive Gangsters From City—Legionnaires Offer to Bear Arms—Police Squads Comb City.

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—Police "execution squads" each captained by an officer whose courage in fighting gangsters was attested by notches on his revolver, raked Chicago today for the man who killed Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter.

By last midnight 500 hoodlums, derelicts and suspicious characters were in jail. Lawyers flocked to detective headquarters demanding the release of their clients; but no releases were made.

William Russell, police commissioner, and John Stege, his chief of detectives, were spurred to action not only by the crime itself and their own close friendship for the slain newspaperman, but by a rising flood of hostile public sentiment that gained expression in front page editorials and in statements of civic leaders.

Talk Martial Law. There was talk unofficially among business and civic groups of the possibility of martial law to supersede the police and drive the gangster out and for all from the city. One American Legion post offered the services of its members to take up arms, under proper authority, against the gangsters.

The Herald and Examiner, which has joined the Tribune and the Evening Post in offering a total reward of $55,000 for the arrest and conviction of the man who shot Lingle dead last Monday in the crowded Randolph street subway, excoriated the police department in a front page editorial. It referred to the department's "miserable inefficiency," and added:

"Chicago is disgusted with its headless, footless city administration, so stricken with rottenness that honest men in it, thinking of their daily bread, keep their mouths shut and their eyes closed."

Cops Are Killers. "Lieut. Frank Reynolds, in charge of one squad, has killed 11 criminals," Chief Stege said. "Lieut. Al Booth has killed six; Lieut. Walter Storms has killed five; Lieut. William Gusch, four; Lieut. Pat O'Connell, five; and Lieut. Andy Barry, six."

These were special squads, with orders to enter any place where they thought criminals might be quartered, without the need of search warrants or legal red tape. In addition, there were the regular cruising squads of detectives, and a special foot detail that combed the loops.

Frank J. Loesch, the aged head of the Chicago crime commission, denied published statements that he had demanded that Commissioner Russell and Chief Stege resign.

Commissioner Russell was one of the pallbearers today at the funeral of Lingle. Services were to be held at Our Lady of Sorrows' Catholic church at 11 a. m. The funeral plans were impressive.

From other parts of the country came word that gangsters fleeing Chicago were not being welcomed. Six men, presumed to be Chicago gangsters, were arrested in New York yesterday. They had $50,000 in their possession. All denied having had anything to do with the Lingle killing.

Walter D. Cline of Maskat Temple, Wichita Falls, Tex., was elected imperial outer guard of the order yesterday over Julius Hell of Tripoli temple, Milwaukee, Wis.

This was the only contest, all other officers ascending a notch toward the imperial potentateship, except in the instance of the imperial captaincy of the guard. This post, occupied by the late Clifford Ireland of Peoria, Ill., was filled by election of Andrew S. Rahn of Zurich Temple, Minneapolis.
