Medford Girls Join University Cruise to Hawaii June 25

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, June 14.—(Special)—In a few days from now Winifred Andrews, Myrtle G. Tobey and Anita Mohr will be making in the warm, mild sunshine on the beach at Waikiki, in famed Hawaii, acquiring a healthy coat of tan and enjoying themselves to the utmost in the warm surf. Evenings they will join others on the University of Oregon school cruise at parties at the Royal Hawaiian hotel, one of the most beautiful places in the world, while mornings and other odd hours will be taken up with their studies on the campus of the University of Hawaii.

They will leave with approximately 100 other Oregon summer school students and a faculty of 10 on the S. S. Niagara from Vancouver June 25. The students will arrive in Honolulu a week later and will remain there for 38 days.

Not only will the visitors lead an enjoyable life, but they will have the opportunity to see at first hand one of the most unique experiments in sociology in the world. Here in Hawaii the occident truly meets the orient, and Caucasians, Japanese, Chinese, Filipinos, Koreans, the native Hawaiians and a number of other races live and work and play in harmony and in equality. A real lesson in racial tolerance can be learned by a visit there.

Volcanic action is entirely probable, since the crater Kilauea is about to erupt again, and this will be a long remembered sight. Even should the volcano be inactive, the region there is of great interest.
