

CHI POLICE HEAD QUILTS UNDER FIRE

Public Criticism and Failure of Department to Cope With Gang Rule Results in Resignation of Commissioner Russell.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 16.—(AP)—William F. Russell announced his resignation today as commissioner of police.

Facing by severe public criticism of his conduct of the department and apparent failure of the police to cope with the gang rule of Chicago, the commissioner said he had prepared a statement offering his resignation to the mayor.

Commissioner Russell's retirement carried with it the demotion of John Stege, chief of the detective bureau, whom he assigned today to the captaincy of the Irving Park police district.

In submitting his resignation, Commissioner Russell, a close friend of Lingle, gave out the following statement:

Let Others Try

"I am resigning because I can't function here any longer and because I do not want to hamper the investigation. I thought I did a good job and I am ready to let someone else try it.

"Deputy Stege (chief of detectives) is going to Irving Park so he will not hamper any investigation either.

"I have been working day and night since I took the job and lately have been working till 4 or 5 in the morning. I will not step out of the department, but will go back to my civil service rank as captain and I'll stay in the department as long as they want me. They will learn I am still the same Bill Russell I always was. I am only getting myself and Stege out of the picture.

Denied Money

"You can check up my orders, my work, my fight to get additional police. I save money out of salaries to buy 100 additional police cars and to establish the police radio station which will be opened today.

"Swanson (state's attorney) gave me the best he could and had. He tried hard and is trying, but he is hampered, too. They won't give him money to hire the best attorneys. It all resolves down to a question of finances.

"I am an illustration of man's inhumanity to man. Someone had to be the red meat. I didn't want to come here in the first place and I am glad to get out. I sincerely hope my successor will have a happier time than I have had."

JACKSONVILLE MASONIC LODGE 75 YEARS OLD

Historic Fraternal Body Holds Open House to Mark Anniversary of Organization.

The 75th anniversary of Warren Lodge No. 10, A. F. & A. M., of Jacksonville, one of the west's oldest and best known Masonic lodges is now being celebrated. Open house was held Sunday and many Rogue River valley Masons were present as guests of Warren lodge. Square and Compass members from near and far are enjoying this celebration today.

Warren Lodge was established in 1855 when Indians still roamed the southern Oregon hills and Jacksonville was quite a city. The history of this lodge is filled with colorful romance of the old mining days. During the first few months of its existence under the digger charter of the general grand lodge.

Emil Britt, well-known Jacksonville resident and pioneer photographer in that city, entertained visitors during the open house Sunday with interesting tales of early days in historical Jacksonville. During the first few months of its existence under the digger charter of the general grand lodge.

Kay seriously considered becoming a candidate for the Republican nomination before the primaries, but his physicians warned him against the rigors of a campaign and he decided not to run. It was known at the time that Senator Harry Corbett, who was a candidate, withheld announcement of his candidacy until he was certain Kay would not run.

Urged to Run

After Joseph's nomination many Republicans over the state urged Kay to become an independent candidate but he issued a statement declining to enter the list and pledged his support wholeheartedly to the Republican nominee.

Prior to the primaries Treasurer Kay appeared as chairman of every political gathering in Salem at which various gubernatorial candidates appeared to speak and introduced each one of them at such gatherings.

He has made no effort to conceal that the governorship has been an ambition with him for many years. He has been state treasurer longer than any other man in the history of Oregon, was at various times a member of the senate and house in the Oregon legislature from Marion county and also maintained other activities which have given him a state-wide acquaintance.

News of the death of George W. Joseph, Republican primary nominee for governor, at Camp Clatsop this morning, came as a shock to Medford, where Joseph had many friends and admirers. Joseph visited this city during the last primary and talked over the radio.

The tragic passing of the nominee was the topic of conversation on the streets, along with conjecture as to the nominee to be named by the Republican state central committee to fill the vacancy.

The name of Governor Norblad, who carried Jackson county by 500 votes, was prominently mentioned. There was also revealed a sentiment against the governor for his discharge of State Highway Commissioner Robert Sawyer immediately following the primary. Sawyer was mentioned as a possible choice.

The name of C. E. (Pop) Gates, state highway commissioner of this city, was also brought out as a possible selection by street talk.

The name of Tom B. Kay, state treasurer, was also advanced locally as a logical choice, and one who would unite all elements of the Republican party.

COMPANY "A" IS IN HIGH SPIRITS FOR WAR DRILL

Local Guardsmen Have Good Camp and Cook—Men Spend Holiday at Seaside and Astoria.

CAMP CLATSOP, Ore., June 16 (Sp.)—Company A, 186th Infantry, arrived at Camp Clatsop on schedule time and with a 10 percent company, three officers and 60 men, and immediately erected tents and within three hours after arrival the company was comfortably located.

The first day in camp, Wednesday, June 11th, was entirely given over to establishing camp, preparing mess system and doing the hundred and one things necessary in establishing camp, including physical inspection. Every member of both of the Medford companies was found to be in tip-top shape and above the average of past years at camp.

Rain, as usual, greeted the arrival of the troops, but the weather has cleared up and now with clear skies and cool weather the boys are snapping into the training program in fine shape. Physical exercises, lectures on hygiene and demonstrations of the proper care and use of equipment have been on the program for the past several days.

The 186th regiment, of which the two Medford companies are a part, staged a regimental parade Friday, and Saturday the first big event of the week was held—the bridge inspection in shelter tents. After it was over pastes were given to all soldiers and there was a big exodus to Seaside and Astoria and nearby points of interest. This was the first leave for most of the boys and the camp was deserted over the week end.

Many improvements are noted in camp this year, principal of which are the new bathhouses, with hot and cold water showers.

Company A has a new cook this year and all of the boys say that they are eating better than ever before. Everything seems to be moving more smoothly, the morale is high, and all in all "a good time" seems to be had by all. Fewer of the boys are answering "sick calls" and those who have had to consult the medics have only had minor ailments like blisters on their feet or slight colds.

Sergeant Oscar E. Sabin left camp for Medford last night, having been called home on account of sickness in his family. All of the boys regretted to see him leave camp.

Captain Carl Y. Tengwald has his Ford roadster in camp, having sent it on ahead, and it is being put to good use by the men of the company.

Corporal Clarence Williams and Private First Class Ben Forbes are expected to arrive in camp Sunday, both being unable to leave with the company when it entered camp.

Tribune Broadcast Is First Report On Death of Joseph

Medford people were informed of the death of Senator George Joseph at Camp Clatsop this morning by a special bulletin broadcast over KMED. Immediately following the sudden and unexpected passing of the distinguished Republican nominee for governor, the Mail Tribune Press and Lee Bishop of KMED's staff gave the news to the people of Medford and all southern Oregon just 15 minutes after the senator's demise.

Scores of telephone calls were received at the offices of the Mail Tribune and additional details were given.

He was prominently identified with the movement resulting in adoption of the Australian ballot, the direct primary, initiative and referendum and the recall. He made anti-assemblyism the chief plank of his platform and was bitter in his denunciation of "corrupt politics."
