

TRAVEL RECORD SET SUNDAY AT NATIONAL PARK

Early Clearing of Snow Lures 40,000 Persons to Crater Lake in Current Season.

A new travel record was set at Crater Lake national park yesterday when the total registration for the season reached an even 40,000 persons. The visitors, travel statistics show, entered the park in 33,011 automobiles. The figures were compiled at the close of the travel day, Sunday.

An interesting point in the unusually heavy travel of the 1930 season is made by comparing it with that of last year. On the same date, June 23, 1929, the road was cleared of snow to the lake and the first car was able to reach the rim. But this season, due to the early snow removal, exactly 39,991 more souls had been registered up to the same date.

During the week ending Saturday night, 6291 persons entered the three gateways to the park. The west entrance lead the parade with 1135 cars and 3513 persons. During the same period, the southeast gate checked 315 cars and 2575 persons, and the east entrance, 76 cars and 233 persons.

East Entry Poor

The east entrance is in poor condition and has only been open to travel for a few days. No work has been done on it and park officials do not advise motorists to use it. Repair work will be started on the road soon, however, and it will be put in good shape for the year.

At one time yesterday, several hundred cars were parked at the rim. Visitors were rewarded by seeing the lake on one of its bluest and most beautiful days. The atmosphere was clear and bright. The Klamath lakes were in plain view.

The snow is melting rapidly and by the time the season opens officially on July 1 the banks will be hard to find. The trail was cleared last week to the lake's edge.

DILLARD COMPANY GAINS CONTRACT

According to the following in the Portland Journal last Saturday, a Medford engineer is the lowest bidder on a $81,970 job with the bureau of public roads:

"For grading a five-mile section the bid of $81,970 submitted by F. C. Dillard of Medford was lowest of six bids opened Friday by W. H. Lynch, district engineer of the federal bureau of public roads. The bid will be forwarded to the secretary of agriculture with the recommendation that a contract be awarded."

City Water Engineer Dillard explained this afternoon that the Portland publication that he was the lowest bidder was a mistake—that the bid was that of Dillard & Rhodes, in which he has only a financial interest. The section of road spoken of in connection with the Dillard & Rhodes lowest bid, is near Heppner, Ore., and is for the grading and graveling of it.

done while he was away, and he had heard no discussion of the subject since. However, the mayor said that there was no doubt in his mind that its sale would command a tidy sum, or that a lease would bring in a goodly income to the city.

KIWANIS DISCUSS HIGHWAY DELAYS AT NOON MEETING

Details of criminal procedure were explained to members of the Kiwanis club at noon luncheon today by District Attorney George Coddin, beginning with cases in justice court and carrying them through to circuit court. The Pacific highway improvement work south of Medford also came up for discussion and it was claimed that dilatory construction is doing much to inconvenience highway traffic. It may still be over 30 days before the work will be completed and fruitgrowers are beginning to be worried that orchardists in the southern end of the valley may suffer damage to fruit if the detour must be continued to be used. It was suggested by Kiwanis members that double shifts would aid materially as a remedy for the situation.

As a matter of statistics, District Attorney Coddin in his speech said that during 1929 there were 126 arrests for liquor violations, 92 arrests for same violations, 96 felonies and 252 traffic arrests. Fines on liquor charges were assessed to the amount of $18,499, $3500 for traffic violations and 2617 on same charges.

Screen Life Hollywood

By Robin Coons.

HOLLYWOOD—Many a strange actor who came eagerly to this land of microphones has had his movie test and stage back to Broadway or the "stickles" richer perhaps, but little happier if thespian happiness is measured by movie success.

Hollywood producers at last seem to be recovering from the peculiar form of "microphobia" which seized them in the early days of talkies when in a bewilderment dazed they fled with each other in signing the "big names" of the footlights. Some of those big names have become screen celebrities, but many more have conquered the "mike" only to fall before the camera.

Producers now know that the old intangible something termed "screen personality" is still important, even as important as a pleasing voice.

Silent Victims.

Yet there is afforded a very recent example of the malignant influence of the studio "stage complex" in the return to the screen of Mary Astor. Miss Astor, professionally, was the victim of producer microphobia and stage complex.

She was under contract to Fox until eight months ago. At that time the studio would have renewed the agreement, but wanted her to take a salary cut which she would not accept. She could easily work elsewhere for more money, she thought.

"Then," she says, "I found I was mistaken. Everywhere the cry was for stage actresses or screen actresses with stage experience. I took tests for parts at several different studios, but somehow was never successful."

MEDFORD TENNIS TEAM IS VICTOR AGAINST ASHLAND

Medford's unbeaten tennis team playing under the colors of the Medford Tennis club, continued its winning streak Sunday on the local courts, defeating the Ashland club three matches to two.

Ashland took the only doubles match played and one singles engagement when Tollefson went wild and lost to Ramsey through his own errors.

Jimmy Edmiston, local high school star, took the measure of Dick Joy, conqueror of Monty Jacobs and Ashland ace in the feature match to keep his record as a club player clean.

Edmiston won in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, in a splendid match that was closed than the score indicates.

Harry Butler and H. G. Wilson had little difficulty in turning in wins for the locals.

The scores: Edmiston (M) beat Joy (A) 6-3, 6-4. Tollefson (M) lost to Ramsey (A) 6-4, 3-7, 3-6. Butler (M) won from Kathon (A) 6-2, 6-2.

Wilson (M) beat Smith (A) 6-4, 6-1. Edmiston and Butler (M) lost to Joy and Ramsey (A) 5-7, 6-3, 5-7.

NUDE PARADERS RESUME DRESS WHEN SPRAYED

NELSON, B. C., June 23.—(AP)—A disinfectant, sprayed by police upon 26 men and women of the radical "Sons of Freedom," set forcing them to resume their clothing after force and moral suasion on the part of both conservative Doukhobors and police had failed to quell a nude demonstration at Brilliant, B. C., yesterday.

The radicals disobeyed on the highway and the police were called in after the community Doukhobors failed in attempts to clothe them. The chemical warfare of the police quickly ended the disturbance and the community Doukhobors transported the demonstrators to a camp about a mile from the main settlement.
