

MAYOR PIPES CITES LAW ON ALLEY PARKING

City Head in Public Statement Refutes Claim Alley Parking Is Legal—Ordinance Quoted.

According to city and police officials, the following official statement, issued last night by Mayor A. W. Pipes, closes the controversy between a Medford morning newspaper, and the municipal authorities concerning the matter of parking automobiles in the alleys of Medford, with a complete victory for the latter.

Answering the claim that there is no city law against such parking in alleys, Mayor Pipes, quoted the law in question, and made it clear that the portion of the ordinance quoted by the paper to establish a contrary view, was based only upon the loading or unloading of cars or trucks, on the streets or alleys, in the line of regular commercial business.

Mayor Pipes' letter follows:

In the last two or three issues of the Medford Daily News, the publishers have made vigorous attacks upon the mayor for reason of having been notified by the police forces to refrain from parking the employees' cars in the alley adjoining the News building. They refuse to obey the orders from the police, and now announce to the public that there is no ordinance prohibiting parking in alleys, and lay the mayor for his ignorance in not knowing that such an ordinance does not exist.

In the News issue of June 25th, and on the front page of the paper, the publisher makes the following statement: "We made earnest inquiries from the police department, from Mayor Pipes and from the City Attorney to ascertain under what legal rights the police department seized the cars of the employees of the Medford Daily News when located in the alley adjoining the News. The answer to our inquiries in each and every instance has been that there is no ordinance in existence at this time which would make the parking of the above mentioned cars a violation of such ordinance."

This statement is untrue, for when the representative of the News called at my office on Monday, and requested that they be given a permit to park in the alley, I personally informed him that I could not do this, for the reason that there is an ordinance prohibiting the parking of cars in alleys and that I could not abate the ordinance and confer special privileges upon the News staff, or any other citizen. No other newspaper, nor individual, in Medford has such privilege, nor have they ever requested it from the present administration, to my knowledge.

The ordinance quoted in the editorial of the Daily News this morning refers only to cars or trucks stopping in the streets or alleys for loading or unloading purposes, and provides that such cars, when so parked, must leave a passageway of at least 10 feet for other cars to pass. The ordinance which prohibits the parking of cars in the alleys, which is being violated by the News staff, is published herewith, and should be readily understood.

ORDINANCE NO. 2445
 Passed May 21, 1929.
 Section 21. (1) It shall be unlawful for the operator of a vehicle to stop, stand or park said vehicle for a period of time longer than is necessary for the expeditious loading or unloading of passengers, or for the unloading and delivery, or pick-up and loading of materials, in any place marked as a loading zone, or in any alley. In no case shall the stop for loading or for unloading of materials exceed thirty (30) minutes, or the loading or unloading of passengers exceed three (3) minutes. The provisions of this subsection shall only be applicable during the hours in which limited time parking is in effect.

It will be observed that the provisions of this section of the ordinance are applicable during the hours in which limited time parking is in effect only. At the meeting of the council last night the city attorney was instructed to amend this section of the parking ordinance, making it effective 24 hours in the day instead of the limited time now provided. And he was instructed by the council to have the amendment ready for the next regular meeting.

The present controversy with the Daily News is amply covered, however, by the ordinance as it now exists, as the violation of this ordinance took place during the business hours.

Now we are not particularly concerned about the valuation of our intelligence by the Medford Daily News, for such attacks are a part of the price paid by the public servant in Medford in the honest discharge of duty. We have been quite seasoned in this regard and quite reconciled to pay the price for a city we love.

We are publishing the section of the traffic ordinance governing the parking in alleys, because the News has seen fit to make the bold statement that such an ordinance does not exist. The statement of the publisher of the News that the mayor has developed a grievance against his paper is without foundation, and was conceived only by his imaginative mind. It is a well known fact by scores of Medford people and by the employees of the Daily News, that the mayor has been a loyal friend and has always spoken well of the paper and its owner. It is unfortunate that a metropolitan daily newspaper will devote one issue after another to so frivolous a thing as the tagging of an employee's car for illegal parking.

With Rod and Gun In Rogue Valley

By Ernest Rostel

A sportsman of international renown, writing for a recent issue of an outdoor magazine, makes the statement that all Pacific coast salmon begin to die as soon as they ascend the river, and that they are only worth taking by line or net while still in salt water.

Most of the angling and a great deal of the commercial fishing is done in fresh water. The present salmon run in Rogue river has been on for a month or more and the fish are still in good condition and edible.

Later when their long fast has weakened them and they have become bruised in their migration to the spawning beds it is true they are unfit for sport or food. But we would venture to say if he had hooked a salmon in the Rogue it would weary his arm and afford him a good meal.

It is the general opinion that all salmon perish after spawning and when the mating is over are valueless. A minority of fishermen believe that some of them return to salt water and are hatched of their wounds. It has been proven by tagging that the fish return in four months to again enter fresh water and have been known to make four different runs.

Charles Knight, western manager of the Winchester Arms company, is the latest well-known angler to succumb to the lure of Rogue river steelhead fishing.

Mr. Knight, with J. C. Terry, the Winchester salesman for this territory, and their families are spending a few days at Bybee bridge. Yesterday Knight hooked a steelhead which broke his line. Undaunted he returned to lampport for another and bought one he says will "hold a horse."

Rainbow Gibson of the Weasau Inn was seen fishing at the mouth of Little Butte where he caught a three-pound steelhead on a California coachman, and several smaller trout.

Fishing was very good in the river late yesterday afternoon, with trout taking flies readily.

Another angler whose name the writer doesn't know, fishing in the first riffle above Bybee bridge, had a nice catch of trout including one rainbow over 14 inches long, all caught on a blue upright fly.

William Thurman and Henry Haswell were down by Gold Hill yesterday. Henry got a salmon and a steelhead while Bill caught some nice trout.

Roy Headley, publicity director for the Educational Film Studios at Hollywood, Calif., is planning another summer fishing trip to southern Oregon. For several years he has made annual trips to this section, usually stopping at the Weasau Inn at Sayage Rapids. As a rule, his party included one or two directors, studio technicians and office help.

A recent letter from Mr. Headley indicates the Rogue river is well known in the film colony for its sporty fishing, which cannot be found in the southern California region for hundreds of miles and then fishing is sadly inferior to local river angling.

E. W. Gould was over from Brookings today and reported cutthroats are "taking the flies" nicely in the Chetco river, and Gould sure knows. He has been making some nice catches and landed one twenty-inch cutthroat.

Mr. Gould recommends Brookings for those desiring a nice outing and good fishing. He says they have nice cottages there and a good hotel.

DIAMOND JEWELRY IS PURCHASED BY C. EARL BRADFISH

C. Earl Bradfish, formerly of Canon City, Colo., has purchased the entire stock and fixtures of Fay E. Diamond's jewelry store, 115 East Main street, and the establishment will now be known as C. Earl Bradfish, jewelry, according to announcement.

"I expect to conduct this store in the most up-to-date manner possible, carrying only nationally-known lines of jewelry and merchandise, and selling at advertised prices. Every article sold by us, and all repair jobs will be guaranteed satisfactory," Mr. Bradfish stated.

The recent closing out sale conducted by Mr. Diamond has greatly depleted the former stock of jewelry in order that an entire new supply might be secured by the new owner.

Mr. Bradfish is a graduate of one of the best watchmaking schools in the United States and has had 15 years of actual experience as a watch and jewelry repair man. In addition, Mr. Bradfish has managed two progressive jewelry stores, thus gaining a thorough knowledge of all branches of the business.

Mrs. Dorothy Baucum, who is well known to all patrons of Diamond's Jewelry store, will remain on the sales force under the new management.
