Twenty-Fifth Year

MEDFORD, OREGON, MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1930.

No. 100.

Today
 By Arthur Brisbane
 Half of Dull 1930 Gone.
 1500 Communists, One Weeps.
 To Tax the Unmarried.
 A Forlorn Farm Hope.

 The half year of 1930 ends today, with no conspicuous signs of industrial or other improvement.
 The number of unemployed is estimated at 6,000,000, greater than in any other nation.
 However, President Hoover's various commissions find bright spots, here and there. And there is comfort in knowing that when you get to the bottom of the hill, the road must go up. The extraordinary thing is that our best minds, so well supplied with solemn wisdom in prosperity, have not the vaguest idea as to what is the matter with us.

Fifteen hundred communists tried to free India, by way of the British consulate in lower New York City, on Saturday, throwing stones, making speeches. They included a vigorous young girl, who shattered a plate glass window, cutting up her "comrades" with flying glass, and a young Harvard student, Lawrence D. Cohen. When arrested, he told police, with tears, that his Harvard professors had told him "to get out among workers and take an interest in their condition."
 Trying to free India at long range was taking the advice too seriously.

Young Mr. Cohen typifies many that descend from their "class" to interest themselves in workers, or free some nation of which they know little.
 "I came down here to take an interest in the workers," said Cohen, weeping, "and got beaten up. I want to go to a hospital immediately."

Those young communist boys and girls, and their leaders, a majority quite sincere, should travel beyond Battery Park to the edge of the Ganges. They would see the burning ghats, with corpses smoldering, dead bodies floating on the sacred river, pilgrims drinking the poisonous water, the streaming blood of thousands of goats, poured out to please strange gods, an occasional young widow secretly burned alive with her old husband's body, child wives, moaning and dying in child birth, at ten years of age. A visit to India would make them less eager to drive out Britain, seeking to civilize.

GANGSTERS HIJACK U. S. WAREHOUSE

Fifteen Gunmen Remove $200,000 Worth Liquor From Government Depository in Chicago—Al Capone Agents Suspected.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Fifteen gunmen held control of a government warehouse for three hours last night and trucked away whiskies, brandies and alcohol, the value of which may exceed $200,000.
 Included in the liquor stored in the two-story warehouse were 400 cases of bonded whiskey shipped to Chicago from Jacksonville, Fla., presumably by agents of Al Capone, and seized by federal agents.
 The possibility that the raid on the warehouse last night was by Capone gangsters seeking to recover the seized liquor, is being investigated.

Paul Perry, night watchman, was alone when four men, each carrying a large can, appeared at the entrance. Perry thought they were federal prohibition agents, bringing more liquor for storage and he admitted them.
 Gun barrels were poked against his side and he was bound, gagged and blindfolded. The gang leaders then admitted the others, and the three-hour job of carrying out the cases of liquor to waiting trucks was begun.
 CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—A nickel gripped tightly in his hand, the body of Michael Gallicchio, 24, young hoodlum, was found shot to death along a lonely stretch of the Joliet highway southwest of Chicago early today. Nine bullets had pierced the body. Police said the nickel was a brand of cheapness placed in the hoodlum's hand by his killers. He was identified by his fingerprints.

USUAL SPRING JOBS FAIL TO OPEN IN STATE

Seasonal Increase of Employment Lacking in April and May—Canneries An Exception.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—(AP)—Employment conditions in Oregon have failed to show the usual seasonal increase for May, the federal reserve bank reported here today.
 Employment held practically steady this year from April to May, whereas the usual condition over the last five years has been a gain of 2 1/2 per cent. The food products industries provided an exception. In them there was a substantial increase, due to an earlier canning and packing season.
 The number at work in lumber concerns was 12 per cent less than in May, 1929. There was an increase from April to May in lumber, but it was less than in most previous years.
 On the U. S. bureau of labor statistics index numbers, with July-December monthly average being represented by 100, employment in the United States for May was rated 94.8. Oregon's comparative index number was 91.2 for May, the same as in April. Last year in May it was 103.8.

 Mrs. Smoot, prominent in activities of the Latter-Day Saints church, of which Mr. Smoot is an apostle, has been a widow since 1918.
 Senator Smoot's first wife died more than a year ago in Washington.
 The ceremony will be performed in the Latter-Day Saints temple here.

The state industrial accident commission has announced that it will be closed both July 4 and 5, and it may be joined by one or two other state departments. The state department, including the motor vehicle registration division, will close July 4, but will be open for business July 5th.

RANCH OWNERS URGED TO VIEW DRAINAGE WORK

Demonstration Tuesday at Watts Orchard of Small System Held Important By Arnspiger.

The fifth, and perhaps the last for this season, of drainage demonstration tests given Tuesday under the auspices of the county agent's office, and the Department of Agriculture, Arch Work, resident engineer, will be held at the Watts Orchard one mile south and west of Voorhees crossing.
 Orchardists will have an opportunity of seeing a power excavator in operation, effects of good and poor drainage, and all stages of construction of a small drainage system will be shown.
 Olen Arnspiger, manager of the Talent Irrigation district, today issued the following statement on drainage tests:
 "It has been my experience that in practically all irrigated areas, drainage problems have ultimately arisen. In the Rogue River valley I have observed areas in which the drainage problem has become very serious in the last three years.
 "Since it seems unlikely at this time that any large drainage districts will be formed in this area, it is all the more urgent that land owners solve their own drainage problems as they arise. To this end I urge the attendance of all orchardists in the Rogue River valley at the drainage demonstration to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. on the W. H. Watt orchard a mile south and west of Voorhees crossing on the detour road."

STATE OFFICIALS ABUSE PRIVILEGE IN AUTO MILEAGE

SALEM, Ore., June 30.—(AP)—The monthly total for automobile mileage included in the expense accounts of state officials and employees has reached a point where abuse of privilege is suspected by officials who have to do with the auditing and disbursing of state funds and there is talk of asking the next legislature to fix a maximum mileage that may be charged for cars privately owned by persons on the state payroll, but used on official business.
 The records show that officials and employees of some departments are charging as high as 10 cents a mile and others as low as 5 cents. Members of the war veterans' state aid commission charge 10 cents, but employees of the department only 5 cents.

 Portland's metropolitan area contains 437,316 persons.
 The number of unemployed persons in Multnomah county, according to figures, was 14,149 on April 2, or slightly less than 4.2 per cent of the county's population.

MARATHON OF CLOUDS CONTINUES

Hunter Brothers in Second-Hand Plane, 'City of Chicago' Pass Former Endurance Record By Over 35 Hours Late Today.

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP)—The Hunter brothers, marathon runners of the sky, established their 168th refueling contact in the air at 1:57 p. m. (C. S. T.) today as their plane, the "City of Chicago," raced toward the end of its 19th day of unbroken flight. At 2:40 p. m., central standard time, the plane was within an hour of that day's close, still humming tunelessly about its changeless orbit above Sky Harbor.
 Walter and Albert Hunter, the ground members of the famous flying quartet, took their "Big Ben" fuel feeder aloft in response to a note dropped at 1:00 p. m. Its contents were not disclosed, but the brothers taking time to write a long note, soon dropped a line to Kenneth and John, sending gas and oil and their message to the two pilots.
 The "City of Chicago" had passed the St. Louis Robin's endurance flying record by nearly 35 hours.

FISH PETITIONS FILED TODAY BY LOGAL WORKERS

Petitions bearing over 25,000 certified signatures on the Rogue river fishing constitutional amendment were filed with Secretary of State Hal Hoss this afternoon by H. L. Noblitt, secretary of the Rogue river committee of the Jackson County Game Protective association and the Josephine County Raak Walton League. It was announced at committee headquarters.
 This insures placement of the measure on the ballot in the November election, giving the people of Oregon an opportunity to vote for the permanent closing of Rogue river to net fishing. Contrary to the beliefs of many people, the measure if passed will not put the canneries out of business, officers of the game protective association stated this afternoon, but will limit fishing in the Rogue to hook and line, or angling.
 The number of signatures filed today is 5,500 in excess of the 15,500 required for placing the amendment on the ballot. There were more than 1000 signatures received this morning too late for filing. The committee estimates that the number of undelivered petitions, which are still in the hands of the circulators, carry a sufficient number of names to bring the total in excess of 30,000.
 The 25,000 names filed with the secretary of state have all been checked by the county clerks and are bonified, certified signatures.

Human Foot Found in Boardman Street Excavation For Cellar

It may have walked in the paths of Caesar or over the Siskiyou trail—stood with the conquered Indians when the Table Rock treaty was signed or kicked a goal over the "Oregon" line. But today it's just a foot—a foot with two toes missing found in a bank of dirt at 408 Boardman street yesterday evening.
 James Bradley was excavating dirt to build a foundation at the address given when his shovel brought forth the strange skeleton. The bones of three toes and the arch, which may or may not have been fallen, are in perfect condition and the places where the two missing toes were severed from Kingsford-Smith Party of Atlantic Fame Call at White House and Senate Upon Flight to Capital—Senators Applaud.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP)—Charles Kingsford-Smith and the trio who flew the Atlantic with him in the Southern Cross today were received by President Hoover in the blue room at the White House.
 Accompanied by Anthony Fokker, plane designer and builder, Bernt Hachen, Byrd's South Pole pilot, and Eddie Rickenbacker, world war ace, the quartet earlier had dipped down on Bolling field in a huge silver and crimson monoplane.
 The assistant secretaries of aviation of both the army and navy were there as were high ranking officers of both services and diplomatic representatives.
 President Hoover, busy in his office, arrived at the White House just in time to greet Kingsford-Smith and J. W. Stannage, radio pilot from South Africa, who were presented by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador.
 Later the Southern Cross fliers were taken to the senate, which took a brief recess while the members of the crew were introduced and as senators filed by and shook their hands.
 Senators and spectators in the galleries stood and applauded as they left the chamber.

POPE HITS METHODIST ACTIVITIES

Protestant Proselyting in Rome Must Be Combated Is Declaration at Secret Consistory—Malta Situation Discussed.

VATICAN CITY, June 30.—(AP)—"Protestant proselyting" in Rome must be combated by an increased number of parish priests to serve the outlying quarters of the city, Pope Pius XI declared today in an allocation opening a secret consistory at which five cardinals were duly ordained.

The pope's allocation said that certain recent laws of Italy which seemed to favor protestant activity "seem to whoever considers them well to be in strong contrast with the spirit and letter of the solemn lateran conventions."
 The pope said that the protestant sects from 1880, the year in which the Italian troops took Rome from the Holy See, "have not ceased to carry out the work of corrosion and conquest with ever-growing insistence."
 Methodists in Mind.
 Observers indicated their supposition that he had in mind the missionary activities of the American Methodists, although he mentioned no specific denomination.

"If we might tolerate that in the practical order of things these sects be called 'cults admitted' which under the Italian statute were well denominated 'tolerated cults,' we could not expect that those very cults should later be treated in a fashion that seems they not only are tolerated in full and admitted in practice, but also not a little favored—this is something that cannot but aid the deplored proselyting."
 The pontiff then spoke gratefully of the "providential work" now being carried on in Rome by the institute for the preservation of the faith. He referred to the new institute being prepared for the furnishing of churches and parish houses of Rome and its suburbs.

Prayers for Russia.
 Referring to religious persecution in Russia and his now famous mass of expiations in St. Peter's cathedral on March 19, the pope exhorted the cardinals to continue the crusade of prayer and ordered special prayers for the end of the persecutions to be said at the conclusion of every mass.
 Referring to the Malta situation the pope, declaring it of the most serious nature, laid down three principles. They were that the Maltese temper was not aroused by the Holy See or the Maltese officials; that the return of tranquillity and peace "notwithstanding our sincere effective desire and the desire of the episcopacy itself has been rendered impossible by the actions of persons and facts independent of our will. Indeed, contrary to our will because of contrary interests of the Catholic religion."

WILL ROGERS says:

MINNEAPOLIS, June 29.—The senate just sits and waits till they find out what the president wants so they know how to vote against him. Be a good joke on 'em if he didn't let 'em know, or for instance if he had announced that he was going to let the Wickersham committee go and didn't want any more money voted for 'em, why they would have voted them a million dollars. That's the way Mr. Coolidge used to do, he would keep 'em guessing so long that they voted his way accidentally part of the time.
