

Wilcox Plays Steady Golf to Capture Chandler Egan Trophy

BOB HAMMOND FINDS TROUBLE WELDING IRONS

Championship Play Is Real Battle On First 18—Short Game Ruins Hammond in Afternoon.

As steady as the Rock of Gibraltar, and deadly in his short game, Lyle Wilcox, county agent, won the 1930 championship of the Medford Golf club yesterday by defeating Bob Hammond, Sr., in the Egan cup final, 6 up and 5 to 20.

The score, however, gives no fair idea of the contest, for until 17 holes had been played, it was a nip and tuck battle. Throughout the struggle, Hammond was never in the lead, but during the first 18 played in the morning he was never more than two down. He lost the first hole with a 6 to Wilcox 5, then halved the next two, won the fourth with a par 3 to a 4 for his opponent, evening the match, only to lose the next and be one down again. He lost the sixth, and it was two down, looking dark for the Home Telephone company. But the seventh he halved, and gathered in the next two, to end the first 18 all square.

Battle Resumed.

The first nine of the afternoon round was similarly hard fought, but on the eighth and one down, Hammond's pitch from the rough hit his caddies bag and he had to forfeit the hole, although had the bag not been there Wilcox would undoubtedly have won the hole anyway. The next hole was the breaking point for Hammond. His second shot was a beauty, within 50 feet of the green while Wilcox dubbed his second, and was on the far edge of the green in three. With a stroke on this hole, Hammond only needed a 5 to win, but he looked up twice, took three puts, and with a 6, the beat he could do was halve the hole when Wilcox sank his putt for a 5.

From that point on, it was a walkaway for Wilcox. In the far rough with his tee shot from the 19th, Hammond made a beautiful recovery to the green but missed a long putt to get a 4 to his opponent's par 3. Then the procession started, Wilcox clicking off straight pars to clinch the match on the 18th, 6 and 5.

Short Game Tells.

The contest clearly demonstrated that a good short game and a fair long one, can always beat a good long game and a fair short one. On nearly every tee Hammond out-drove his opponent, particularly on the morning round, but although he had a handicap advantage of three strokes on each 18, this advantage didn't win him a single hole. After the drives were over, Wilcox proceeded to shoot straight for the pin, never wasting a good while Hammond was repeatedly short in his approaches, and three-putted several greens.

Until the last few holes, however, it was an exciting match to watch, and quite a gallery followed the players. On the first 18, Wilcox bagged an 80 to an 83 for Hammond; on the first nine of the afternoon round Wilcox shot a 42, the same score he made in the morning; Hammond a 45, one over his morning round.

On the 31 holes played, Wilcox got three birdies and 14 pars; Hammond one birdie and nine pars.

The scores follow:

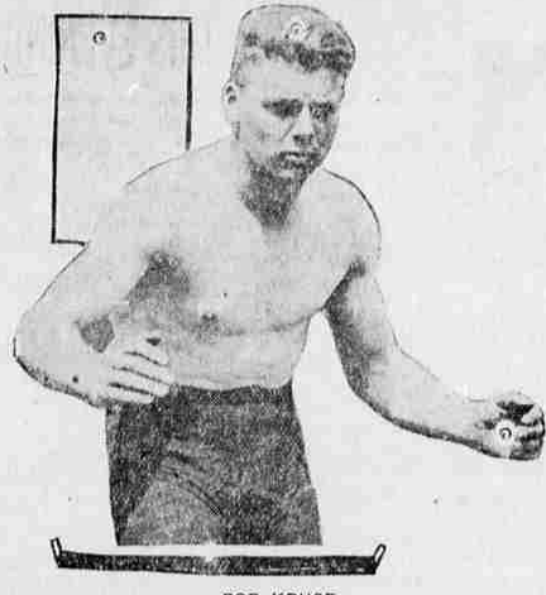

Morning round—first nine:
 Wilcox 5 3 4 4 5 5 2 4 5—42
 Hammond 6 2 4 6 5 3 4 4—44

Afternoon round—first nine:
 Wilcox 5 3 4 4 6 7 3 3 5—42
 Hammond 5 4 6 5 6 5 4 4 6—45

Morning round—second nine:
 Wilcox 3 4 3 4 4 5 6 5—38
 Hammond 3 4 4 4 5 4 5 5—39

Afternoon round—second nine:
 Wilcox 3 4 3 4
 Hammond 4 7 4 5

Kruse Sees Hanson As Step Toward Mat Peak

BOB KRUSE

Prepared for one of his hardest matches of the season, Charles Hanson, Seattle wrestling evangelist, was to arrive this afternoon for his battle tonight at the armory with Bob Kruse, Oswego potato grower. Kruse has aspirations of sometime breaking into the championship class and thinks a victory over Hanson will be one of the steps upward.

Hanson has never appeared in Medford but Kruse is well known throughout the southern Oregon section, especially for his roughness. Fans have been hoping to see him defeated and are usually disappointed. He has lost only one match in Medford this season and that was a few weeks ago with Gus Sarpolis, the scissor king, one of the best known men in the wrestling business.

Kruse enjoys crawling to the ropes in case of danger but he is not expected to do much crawling tonight, with Hanson hanging lightly to him throughout the eight ten minute rounds the match is scheduled to go.

Ray Frisbie, 184, will meet Walter Logan, Omaha, 186, in the special event of four ten minute rounds. Harry Elliott, Eugene, will referee.

With Rod and Gun In Rogue Valley

By Ernest Rostel and Dick Green

Rainey Falls in the Rogue river, 32 miles below Grants Pass, after causing an investigation by the game commission last year, is due for more improvement work this year if proper authorization can be obtained by Ralph Cowgill of the state game commission. Mr. Cowgill used a blast of dynamite or two last summer to make the approach to the fish ladder around the falls more accessible and believed he had done a good piece of work.

However, persons not in sympathy with the work or possibly sincere that the blasting did not bring the desired benefits, complained to the state game warden, Harold Clifford, and that official soon appointed an investigating committee to ascertain what the trouble was all about. The committee never made a public report, indicating the complaints of damage to the fishway approach were unfounded.

The fishway approach was made difficult for the fish because of some falls with water flowing at high speed. After the blast, the flow was altered so that the approach was comparatively easy, but the main improvement work is yet to come and that has to do with the main falls. The water pours over rocks in great volume with such force that fish are unable to even come close. As a rule they pass the fish ladder, swim up stream to the falls and attempt to jump them on the side where the water is not swift, but very shallow. In comparison with the main stream, they attempt jumping repeatedly and then tired, the fish find their way back to the ladder and swim around.

If authorization is obtained, said Mr. Cowgill, the entire falls will be removed by dynamite and then the ladder will no longer be necessary. The base of the falls is described as a veritable cauldron of churning, boiling water over 30 feet deep and has been the destination of quite a number of local fishing parties, one of which last year, Henry Huxwell and Bob Hedburg, signed affidavits that Cowgill's preliminary work at the fish ladder had resulted in considerable benefit, instead of damage, as complaints had indicated.

Fishing is said to be good in that region and already this year large fish beside salmon have been caught there. A few weeks ago, one angler, intent for salmon, hooked an ocean sturgeon, weighing over 100 pounds, and landed it. It was followed by the catch of another sturgeon shortly after. A third one bit a salmon spoon, and was so eager to make its escape that it took pole and line from the hands of the angler at a breakneck speed in the general direction of the ocean.

Rainey Falls, it is explained, presents its biggest problem for ascent of the fish up the river toward the latter part of the summer when the water is lower. It will probably be during that time that blasting will occur if permission is obtained.

Although fishing lore has said that fish do not feed at the bottom of the lake in the dark of the moon and are usually near the top, angling was not the best yesterday at Diamond lake. Harold Brown tried trolling and still fishing and with another angler, was able to land two fish, one of which, however, was of fairly good size. The weather was ideal at the lake. However, catches are expected to be great over the Fourth.

It does not always take a hook in the mouth to land a fish. A few weeks ago a fisherman in a local lake succeeded in hauling in a large trout with the leader neatly lassoed around its head behind the gills. The loop was so tight that it had no chance of breaking away. An angler in the river hooked a fish through the tail and pulled it in, while another hooked one in the back. A fourth angler pulled in a fish hooked through the nose an inch or so from the mouth.

Pop Geer spinners, made more attractive by angle worms did the work in catching eastern brook trout at Fish lake yesterday. Quite a number of Medford people made the trip over roads in good condition, making the trip in two hours. The water level is beginning to lower a little because of irrigation.

River fishing was better yesterday than average, including a three-pound steelhead catch by Dwight Phipps.

The passing of James O. Gray, for two years manager of the Lake of the Woods resort and a general all-around sportsman, at the Sacred Heart hospital this morning, is causing general regret in Medford and Jackson county. He was also well known in Klamath county and had waged a long fight against illness from which it was thought he had nearly recovered last spring. He started this season as manager of the resort but had to be brought down to Medford when illness overtook him again.

TOURNEY PLANNED FOR PLAYGROUNDS

A horseshoe tournament for the boys and a hopscotch tournament for the girls are scheduled to open Monday, July 7, at the city playground, located on East Main street on the banks of Bear creek. Miss Gladys Murphy, supervisor, announced this morning that names of entries must be turned in this week.

Organized games are played both in the morning and afternoon, with supervised play during the day. From 2 until 3 o'clock each afternoon Miss Murphy reads to the children, and will start a story tomorrow which will be continued during this hour for several days.

The instructor is at the playground from 9 to 12 o'clock in the

LOCALS SUFFER ROUT OF SACS 15 TO 0 DEFEAT AT BEND HANDS

Hughes and Gosnell Unable to Stem Barrage of Hits—Medford Team Weak With Willow.

Bend defeated the Medford Merchants 15 to 0 at Bend yesterday, before a crowd of 1000. It was the worst chastisement received by a local team in many a day.

Bend nipped Jack Hughes and Gosnell for 14 hits, while all Medford could garner was seven clouts. Court Hall's crew was able to knock the ball out of the infield but three times, and Nightengale, the Bend twirler, held them helpless from start to finish. Hughes was touched up for eight hits in seven innings and Gosnell yielded six hits in two innings.

The first string Medford battery—Hughes and Droulette—was left at home.

The Bend team has been strengthened, and will offer sturdy opposition in the second half of the pennant race. They play here next Sunday.

ROUT OF SACS COMPLETED BY TWIN STAR WIN

Hollywood Makes Clean Sweep of Series—Angels Divide With Indians—Portland Wins One.

Hollywood's double victory over Sacramento, 5 to 3 and 7 to 6, yesterday completed the rout of the erstwhile league leaders with a clean sweep for the Stars in the seven-game series. Los Angeles extended its lead by breaking even with Seattle in a double-header, losing the first, 5 to 6, and taking the second, 2 to 1.

Kallio of Seattle was steady in the first game there, while Horn and Barfoot were hit just too often, Barfoot being the loser in the nightcap.

Portland showed in better advantage than previously in its series with San Francisco, taking four out of seven. The Ducks won the first yesterday, 11 to 6. The Seals won the second, 8 to 6, Cross-

COCHET BOWS TO AMERICAN IN NET UPSET

WIMBLEDON, England, June 29.—(AP)—Vilmer Allison, youthful American Davis cup tennis player, sprang a sensational upset today by eliminating Henri Cochet, world's tennis champion, in straight sets in the quarter finals of the British championships. Allison won at 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Cochet, the defending champion, was swept off his feet by the impetuosity of the Austin, Texas, boy's attack while the gallery looked on in astonishment at the longest upset seen here in many a day.

The blond Texan was given a great ovation by the throng of 12,000 that jammed the center court stands.

John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., third ranking American player, defeated his countryman, Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, to enter the semi-final round along with Allison.

Bill Tilden forged into the semi-finals along with Allison and Doeg, defeating J. C. Gregory, sturdy English player, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.
