

Local and Personal

Most everyone had that Oh Hum! after holiday feeling today and poor appetites, following the running around at the resorts and long rides there and return, and over-eating of picnic lunches and the like. Today was also an unusually quiet Saturday with many residents still out of town, and the folks at home but little inclined in shopping beyond the buying of food for over Sunday and a few other necessities.

The Noted Dead
DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 5.—(AP)—Major Bryan Rice Cooper, widely known Irish statesman and soldier, died here today at the age of 48.

Major Cooper saw service with the 10th Irish division in Gallipoli and Macedonia, and later served on the staff of the Salonika army and of the war office.

His political career varied from serving as high sheriff of Sligo to the secretaryship of the Irish Unionist Alliance and election to the Dail Eireann and the British Parliament in 1927. He was president of the Dublin Rotary club.

He attracted attention three years ago when he publicly threatened to grow a beard if his wife had her hair bobbed.

LOCAL PICNICERS ARE COWED BY NIGHT BLOWOUT

Medford's same record over July Fourth, illustrating how quiet the city really was yesterday, due mainly to the lack of a formal celebration, is shown by the fact that only four arrests were made during the day, and those for minor offenses.

Of the four, Clyde Layton and Floyd Everett were arrested in the charge of intoxication, following their being found asleep in a car parked on a city street. The arresting officer drove the car to the police station without even awakening them until their arrival there, where they posted cash bail later on for their appearance in the city court for trial.

George Duncan and James Gordon were arrested on the charge of creating a disturbance at the Rialto theater. They also posted cash bail.

HOW COME? NO JULY 4TH BOOTLEGGERS!

PORTLAND, July 5.—(AP)—The distinction of being Oregon's first "big time" bootlegger to be arrested under the prohibition administration of the department of justice, is still available.

Since the transfer of the liquor enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice, July 1, not one arrest has been made to mar the spotless ledger in the various offices of federal agents.

Federal agents were scattered throughout the state for the July 4 holiday, but no arrests were reported.

160 MILES AN HOUR! A Swift Spray which is PENETRATING but NOT INJURIOUS

The Niagara Rex Liqui-duster overcomes the common handicap of sprayers—the high pressure. For the Rex by means of this high velocity and low pressure—only 150z. at the nozzle—gives complete coverage, even to the topmost foliage, without any burning. All pump troubles are eliminated.

Not a spray, but a "liquid mist". A fan (not a pump) projects a wind current which is heavy-laden with tiny "dustlike" particles of liquid—a "penetrating fog". Not a spot on the tree escapes protection.

The Niagara Rex is a rapid worker and no "time out" is necessary for repairs. Your spraying materials go considerably farther, with a big saving of time and trouble.

Our local representative will tell you more about the Niagara-Rex.

TALENT DISTRICT HAS USED THIRD OF WATER STORE

Conservation of water, in order that late crops will not suffer, is to be the aim of Olen Arnspeger, manager of the Talent Irrigation district.

The district water users have used approximately one-third of their water supply to date. With 13,000 acre feet in storage in the Emigrant creek and Hiatt reservoirs at the beginning of the season, the present storage supply is estimated at 800 acre feet.

"We hope to have another watering for late crops, this to be used late in July, and we hope for one watering for the third crop of alfalfa," Mr. Arnspeger said today. It will be the aim of the irrigation district management to preserve enough water to care for the late crops and apples, the ladino clover crop, which comes late in the season, and the 150 acres of tomatoes. Preserving water for this late tomato crop is especially essential to Ashland as the majority of these tomatoes are contracted for by the local cannery and constitute the major pack here.

The water will be distributed with a view to giving all crops an opportunity to properly develop, and will be turned into ditches according to individual needs, Mr. Arnspeger stated.

The district for the last two years has used in the neighborhood of 18,000 acre feet of water—less by 5,000 acre feet the total storage this year. Late rains came as a blessing and judicious distribution of the water supply will enable ranchers in the district to mature their crops properly, according to Mr. Arnspeger.—Ashland Tidings.

BIG OVERFLOW FOR FISH BILL IN 32 COUNTIES

Formal notice was received today by the Rogue River committee of the Jackson County Game Protective association and the Josephine county chapter of the Izumi Waigu league from Secretary of State Hal Hoss assuring the appearance of the Rogue river fish-bill amendment on the November election ballot, it was announced at committee headquarters in the Medford National Bank building at noon.

The official count brought the total number of signatures to petitions circulated throughout the state up to 24,410. The number required for placing the amendment on the ballot was 15,556. Of the 24,410 signatures, 4500 were from Jackson county.

There were 32 of the 36 counties of the state represented on the petitions. The four which were not represented are Grant, Sherman, Wheeler and Polk.

The committee was pleased to find all coast counties represented, which the members believe indicates the willingness of people in the fishing area to see the question brought to the vote of the people.

The district for the last two years has used in the neighborhood of 18,000 acre feet of water—less by 5,000 acre feet the total storage this year. KEY LISTS BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OF OREGON COUNTIES

SALEM, Ore., July 5.—(AP)—State Treasurer Kay has begun to compile statistics relative to the bonded and warrant indebtedness of all Oregon counties incorporated cities, school district, irrigation, drainage and other taxing districts. The information will be published in his biennial report for the two years ending September 30, 1930.

Kay states that the bonded indebtedness of the state at present is $59,877,010. This includes irrigation district interest bonds of $2,172,760, farm credit bonds, $450,000; state highway bonds, $30,064,200 and war veterans' state aid bonds $27,250,000. The highway bonded debt will be reduced $100,000 August 1 and $337,500 more October 1.
