

WAIT SPIRIT WORD FROM SIR ARTHUR

Family of Conan Doyle Thinks Dead Author Will Speak From 'Other Side' —Proof Ghostly Identity Planned Before Death.

LONDON, July 8.—(A7)—Preparations which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle made to identify himself to his family and certain others in the event of his return after death today was widely discussed in spiritualistic circles.

Whether identifications of Sir Arthur will be possible by means of fingerprints if he communicates from the other world was one of the questions. It was understood that Sir Arthur was much impressed by the fingerprint method used by the American medium Margery. Some of his friends believe he left his own fingerprints so that any communication he might make after death could be confirmed incontrovertibly from being stamped in soft wax by his ecclasiastic hand.

At Crowborough the family of Sir Arthur awaited word from him that he, whose mind was the parent of Sherlock Holmes, had solved the mystery which always interested him most—death.

Family Convinced
His son, Adrian declared: "My father fully believed that when he passed over he would continue to keep in touch with us. All his family believe so, too."

"I know perfectly well that my father will often speak to us just as he did before he passed over. We shall always know when he is speaking but we shall have to be careful, since there are practical jokesters on the other side, just as there are here."

The son explained that Lady Doyle, in her years of intimacy with the departed novelist and spiritualist, had learned some things of the inflection of his words, and his habits of speech which would guard them against spirit fraud, or an ill-timed jest from uterinity.

While funeral plans proceeded, and the widow and sons awaited words of solution of the great mystery, the widow was comforted that the last words of the man, to whom death came at 71 as a consequence of heart disease, were to her. They were delivered shortly before he died, as he lay holding her hand at his home here. They were:

"You are wonderful."

MISS MORRIS RESTING FROM RADIO WRITING

Followers of the popular Morris radio plays will regret to hear that there will be no more of these interesting dramas broadcast by the "Copco Players" during the summer months. This is due to Miss Morris having decided to take a vacation until fall to enjoy a much needed rest. However, the local radio public will be pleased to learn that a new series of the clever Morris dramas will probably be forthcoming for presentation during the winter months.

WONDERFUL, SHE SAYS OF SARGON

"Sargon improved me so wonderfully my husband says when we get back to our home in Albany, Oregon, our friends won't know me."

MRS. NELLIE L. LENT
me. When we came to Long Beach last November I had such severe rheumatic pains at times that I could hardly get about, and I'd been suffering with indigestion for 19 years. My nerves were in a wretched state and I was nearly always bilious and constipated. Four bottles of Sargon brought me wonderful relief. My rheumatic pains have entirely disappeared, my nervousness is fast leaving me and my digestion is perfect. "Sargon Pills are wonderful! They have stimulated my liver to regular action, relieved me of biliousness, and for the first time in years I'm not troubled with constipation."—Mrs. Nellie L. Lent, 1128 Bixby Road, Long Beach, Cal.

Mrs. Obenchain of Central Point Enjoys Pleasure and Good Profit In Cultivating Fine Home Garden

(By Eve Nealon.)
Her name is not Mary and she's not contrary—but her garden certainly grows—with rows of silver bells and cockle shells supplanted with corn and tomatoes, onions, potatoes and hosts of other vegetables more lucrative in the present day mercenary world. Her name is Mrs. Gladys Obenchain and she lives on the country road a little west of Central Point, where tomatoes are inspired to grow taller by viewing neighboring forest trees, which stand a few rods away.

Some of them are so ambitious they are not satisfied with three feet in height to spread their vines out across the ground to eclipse their height with width. There are nine varieties of tomatoes in Mrs. Obenchain's garden this season. "Eight reds and one yellow," she explained on a recent evening when strolling between the rows, where leafy shadows formed in the moonlight on loamy soil, entirely free from weeds.

Towering high above the tomatoes on the other side of the garden roasting ears, almost ready to be eaten, hang from corn stalks which would have been a treat for Jack. Rows of beans are loaded with pods ready for snapping. A new variety of squash, in which Mrs. Obenchain takes great pride, is receiving the utmost care and growing toward a prize winner for the Jackson county fair. It is a Hubbard with a yellow shell, which is not tough

LEGION PLANNING DRUM CORPS TRIP TO BAKER CONFAB

Plans for raising funds to send the Medford Legion drum corps to the state convention of the American Legion at Baker next month were discussed at a special meeting of the post executive committee last night. The session was also attended by several of the past commanders and numerous plans were outlined by those present.

To send the drum corps of 35 men to Baker will cost nearly $1,500, in addition to the expenses of the seven official delegates of Medford post. However, it is felt by local Legionnaires that this expense is justified by the excellent advertising to be obtained for this city and all southern Oregon from the appearance of the Medford corps in the northern and eastern sections of the state.

With this in mind, the post officials will make every effort to raise the necessary funds for the trip and urge that every loyal Legionnaire lend hearty support in the venture.

A big meeting of all the post members is slated for next Monday night at the Armory, and every and wary like the old dark shell, which used to cost cooks so many cut fingers.

There are beets and cabbages, which have been ready for use for several weeks, peas, carrots, lettuce, melons and all other members of the vegetable kingdom represented in the one acre and a half of ground which produced vegetables last year, netting Mrs. Obenchain $596. The onions raised last year weighed as much as 1 1/2 pounds each.

Mrs. Obenchain is a woman of average height, with a more than average friendliness in her smile. She has associated with vegetables all her life, she stated, and finds them interesting companions. Each year she learns something new about them and adds another variety to her garden.

She does all the cultivating and planting herself, then the irrigating and weeding. There are no bends in the rows of her garden and no weeds between the rows. Each year she rotates crops. Where carrots grew one year, onions grow the next. In this way she keeps the soil productive by forcing one plant to restore the chemical content taken from the ground by its predecessor.

From sun up till sun down, she spends most of the summer days in the garden and likes it. "I am too busy taking care of the plants to take an inventory of them," she informed the inquisitive reporter, then promised: "Some time I'm going to take a day off and count my vegetables."

Legion man is urged to be present. Official delegates and alternates for the state convention will be elected at this time and there will be a snappy entertainment program.

Each member is asked to make a special effort to bring in at least one paid-up membership to help put Medford post "over the top" before July 15th.

ADMINISTRATOR IN NALLEY ESTATE IS TALKED IN COURT

A hearing was held this morning, before County Judge Alex Sparrow, relative to the appointment of an administrator for the estate of the late Mrs. Anne C. Nalley of this city. Pending the securing of more evidence, the hearing was postponed.

The chief issue involved is the establishment of next of kin. Mrs.

Ann Nichols filed a petition to be named administrator, but a protest was filed. Pending this action, P. K. Nalley, divorced husband, was named special administrator. Ruby Pointer Fitzgerald and Ada Pointer, both of Carson City, Nev., and Ade G. Johnston of Kansas City, Mo., filed depositions with the court to show that they were pieces of the late William A. Pointer of this city, father of Mrs. Nalley.

It was brought out at the hearing this morning, that a relative resides in Illinois, and an effort will be made to secure a deposition from that source.

The estate of Mrs. Nalley is estimated at from $14,000 to $50,000. An appeal to the state supreme court, concerning bequests in the will of William A. Pointer will, which Mrs. Nalley contested is now pending.
