

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By Maggie Greig

SYNOPSIS: Mary Lou breaks her engagement with Tony because she is not thoroughly in love. She is not thoroughly in love. She has been unhappy ever since she accepted his proposal. Though she hates to admit it, she still loves Tony. From London Mary Lou returns to her country home to prepare for the wedding.

Chapter 20

WEDDING PRESENTS

UNTIL a week before the wedding Mary Lou could not realize that she actually was to be married.

When the presents began to arrive, however, the reality of the situation forced itself upon her.

Among other things, there was a silver cross set from Miss Titherington.

A note on it said, "Be happy, child. But I do wish you were marrying Tony."

Mary Lou buried her face in a pillow and wept.

"Don't I wish so, too!" Her family had shown no special enthusiasm over her approaching marriage to Brynmor. Dr. Leslie, who long ago decided not to interfere with his daughter's affairs, had not expressed an opinion.

Only once, during one week-end when Brynmor came down, had he said anything to Mary Lou.

"Would you mind keeping that young man of yours out of my study?" he had requested. "He sits and talks to me by the hour."

"Does he bore you, Daddy?" asked Mary Lou sympathetically.

"Well, I wouldn't go as far as to say that, exactly."

"I know," Mary Lou sighed, in perfect understanding. "I feel the same way about him myself."

"What?" her father's bushy eyebrows rose in astonishment. "Then, my dear child, why on earth—"

Mary Lou smiled at him. "Don't worry, Daddy darling, I'm only feeling about Brynmor now in the way that most wives feel about their husbands soon after the wedding, so what's the odds?"

Doctor Leslie had let it go at that.

As she lay weeping in the midst of the first wedding gifts, Mary Lou concluded there was nothing to be done. That table full of presents seemed to block every avenue of escape.

She reached for the last parcel that was unopened. It contained a suit of silk underwear—in an atrocious shade of bright pink. Enclosed was a card—"Miss Gwendolyn Carruthers."

Mary Lou lay back and laughed hysterically.

"Good old Gwendolyn," she cried. "That's the first laugh I've had in weeks!"

She stared up at the ceiling, and mused about the future.

She could picture Brynmor working in a garden, with her watching him—watching him, perhaps, but all the time thinking of something up in the clouds. . . . Tony—

Whatever pains she took to bar that thought, it inevitably returned.

"I wonder if I ever shall see Tony again?"

Mary Lou did see Tony again, ironically enough, it was the very day before the wedding.

She had been in London doing some last-minute shopping. As she rushed out of Jay's shop shortly before noon, she collided with Tony as he was dashing into the shop—to leave her wedding present with Jay.

Mary Lou gasped. "Tony!"

For a moment Tony was speechless. Then he took her by the arm.

"Jump into the car, Mary Lou. We'll drive somewhere and have lunch. I want to talk with you."

Into the car she climbed obediently. The long car nosed its way toward Richmond.

"Comfy, Mary Lou," Tony asked. She nodded, too happy to talk.

It was nearly lunch time when they arrived at Richmond. They ate on a lawn that sloped down to the river.

"I can't really believe I'm being married tomorrow," Mary Lou commented.

Tony sat there and studied her profile. He was amazed to realize in that moment that nothing ever would matter to him—except Mary Lou. He couldn't deny that he loved her.

Why had he been so block-headed before? He must have loved her long ago. His resolution never to marry seemed illogical now.

And tomorrow—tomorrow she was marrying this fellow Whitmore. It was too late to do anything about it except to be a sport.

When the silence had become too painful, he said, "Yes, it does seem hard to believe, doesn't it? Whitmore has asked me to his bachelor dinner tonight."

"Are you going?"

"I haven't decided."

"Are you coming down to the wedding, Tony?"

"Tony thought for a moment. 'I'll tell you what, Mary Lou. I won't attend, but I'll fly down in Gay Girl. What time is the ceremony?'"

"Two."

"Well, on your way to the church, look up into the sky. I'll write a message of good luck—just for you, Mary Lou. When you see Gay Girl, wave. Please wave, Mary Lou—"

It suddenly seemed desperately important she should wave to him to-morrow.

"All right," she promised. "I'll do it. But I must be getting back to town, Tony. Jay and I simply must catch the four o'clock train."

"Oh, damn the train," said Tony with vehemence. "I've a little gift for you, Mary Lou. May I give it to you now?"

He took from his pocket a small red velvet box and pushed it awkwardly into her hands. Mary Lou stood in the sunlight and opened it—a miniature of Gay Girl set in diamonds, on a long thin platinum brooch.

Tears stung her eyes and her hand shook as she held it.

"It's lovely, Tony."

"Wanted you to have something to remind you of the flight," he mumbled.

Something to remind her of the flight. . . .

The ride back to town was miserable. The silence bristled with things they wanted to say, but couldn't say. And everything they could say seemed utterly futile and useless.

At last, back in front of Jay's shop, Mary Lou stood by the curb and prayed for some miracle to prolong the moment. Tony fidgeted with the steering wheel, then put the car into gear.

"Well, cheerio, Mary Lou. Don't forget to watch for Gay Girl to-morrow—"

In tomorrow's chapter Tony makes a desperate effort to drown his regrets.

Outside of Jay's shop she collided with Tony.

WET-DRY FIGHT ADDS INTEREST MONTANA VOTE

Prohibition An Issue Between Party Factions — Senator Walsh Unopposed in Party.

HELENA, Mont., (AP)—Prohibition is an issue between factions in both the Republican and Democratic ranks has heightened interest in Montana's primary election. Voters will go to the polls July 15.

In the democratic contest for congressmen from the first district and in the Republican struggle for a candidate for the senate, prohibition has become a rallying principle.

Joseph P. Monaghan of Butte, seeking democratic nomination in the first district, pledged himself to efforts for modification of the 18th amendment and likewise to support of a protective tariff.

Monaghan is opposing John M. Evans, seeking a ninth term in the house. Evans is the only member of Montana's congressional delegation who has opposition for re-nomination.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, has no opposition. Two Republican candidates are seeking the senatorial nomination—Albert J. Galen, associate justice of the Montana supreme court, and O. H. P. Shelley, publisher of a weekly paper at Red Lodge and a former state prohibition administrator.

Shelley has indicated a desire to make prohibition a major issue. Declaring himself as opposed to repeal of the 18th amendment, he has demanded that Galen "take a stand on the question."

Senator Walsh has pledged himself to "serve Montana as a whole," to protect agriculture from discrimination, to secure for wage earners, "industrial as well as agricultural," to continue a "relentless pursuit of manufacturers of great wealth," and to persevere in advocacy of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

APPLEGATE MINE INTEREST GROWS

APPLEGATE, Ore., July 18.—(Spl.)—Joe and Henry Slovic have opened up a mine at the head of Ward's Fork. They are trucking lumber from Hill, Cal., up to the fork then making it down to the mine. They intend to start operating the mine as soon as possible. Dr. Harry Knapp of North Dakota is helping to put the mine in order.

L. D. Miller and Mr. Hynes of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending some time looking over the old Fosssett mine on upper Big Applegate. They have money invested in the mine and, although the mine is shut down for the season, they are interested in it.

BIG APPLEGATE RANCH IS SWAPPED BY KUBLI

APPLEGATE, Ore., July 18.—(Spl.)—The land trade that has been pending for some time closed last Friday when Harold Kubli traded his ranch on Big Applegate for the property owned by U. S. Lehman near Medford. Mr. Kubli gave possession at once and Mr. Lehman is moving this week to his new home.

SUFFERED WITH PILES 8 YEARS

Then Quickly Relieved by a Simple Internal Home Remedy

READ AMAZING STORY OF MR. GEORGE KERN

"I suffered for eight years with piles and no remedy I could learn of would bring relief, until luckily for me I saw an advertisement about Colac Pile Pills in the paper. I never dreamed a 75c bottle of pills would work such wonders but they did, and the very first bottle relieved me so much I kept taking them regularly with my meals and today I'm a booster of Colac Pile Pills for they are easy quick relief for anyone suffering with piles," writes Mr. George Kern a well known sausage maker who like scores of other people here, praises Colac Pile Pills to the sky.

No more nasty salves or suppositories. Just a couple pills with a swallow of water at meal time. Relieves pain almost immediately and in a healing soothing, truly wonderful way they go to the very roots of the trouble internally. Doctors are now endorsing Colac Pile Pills. Thousands of men and women testify to suffering one to thirty years, and then their troubles gone thanks to Colac. Write Mr. Kern if you doubt it, 2549 Oak St. Kansas City Mo. If your druggist hasn't Colac Pile Pills, send 75c stamps, or coin to Colac Chemical Co. Brentwood Md. Results guaranteed or money back.

County Health Department Activities and News

By Dr. B. C. Wilson, Health Officer

Milk has a place as a staple grocery article because it contains a large percentage of water, which can be taken out without much affecting the food value of the milk. It is then canned as evaporated, condensed, or dried milk.

Condensed milk is sweetened with sugar. The sugar keeps the milk from spoiling just as it preserves jellies. Although the product is not sterilized, it is heated beyond the pasteurizing point and is both safe and wholesome.

Dried milk, from which all the water has been evaporated, is a powder. When dried milk is to be used, it is mixed with water until it is about as thick as skim milk. Dried milk is as nourishing for family use as pasteurized fresh milk. Usually, when milk is allowed to stand, it turns sour and curdles. The curdling is a special form of fermentation, and is caused by a harmless acid which is formed by lactic acid bacteria.

Fresh milk may be made to curdle by the addition of lactic acid. Fresh curdled milk is not harmful; it is often beneficial. It may be given even to young children.

When milk curdles, very much the same thing happens as when an egg is heated; the albuminous matter is made hard, lumpy and insoluble. The curd or clabber is the thickened albumin of the milk.

Sour milk should always be put to use. It can be used in making such things as muffins, griddle cakes and cottage cheese. The whey, the thin watery part, can be used in bread making. Not a drop should be wasted.

All skim milk, too, should be used. It can be used as a drink or a food; it can be made into buttermilk or cottage cheese; it can be used in cooking. Skim milk is the cheapest source of protein. It contains all the good qualities of milk except fat, and the vitamin found in the fat.

Cottage cheese is made from either whole milk or skim milk. Take 1 quart thick sour milk, 1 quart boiling water, 1 tablespoon top milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Put the milk into a pan over a slow fire. Heat to 100 degrees, Fahrenheit. Turn into cheesecloth strainer. Pour the boiling water upon it. Allow to drain. Squeeze gently. Mash the curd with a fork, moisten with cream and season with salt. One pound of cottage cheese supplies more protein than a pound of beef, pork, lamb, veal, or chicken. Buttermilk is curdled milk from which the fat has been removed. It may be a sweet curd or a sour curd. Buttermilk is pleasant and refreshing to drink and it is a nourishing food. It has practically all the food value of milk except the fat, most of which goes into the butter.

Prepared buttermilk may be made from skim milk or from whole milk, and is sold under various trade names. Other milk products, or milk-containing foods, such as butter, cheese, junket, custards, cream sauces, corn starch puddings, rice puddings, and ice cream, all are good, nourishing, and valuable foods.

Milk is almost as nutritious and wholesome when cooked with other foods, as when taken fresh. Put it into cocoa, milk-shakes, or eggnogs. Make milk toast with it. Put it on cereals. Add it to soups, chowders, and stewed vegetables; to gravies and sauces; to creamed and escalloped dishes, pies and souffles.

Milk is the most perishable of all our foodstuffs. It spoils even more quickly than fresh fruits and berries. From pasture to pail, and from pail to palate it must be handled with unusual care.

In the old days milk used in the cities came chiefly from near-by farms, and it reached the consumer before it was a day old. Now it is shipped great distances. Some of New York's daily milk supply comes from Wisconsin and even from Canada. The delivery in good condition of the great quantity of milk required for a large city, presents many difficult problems.

EVERYONE RAVES ABOUT PRETTY HAIR SINCE I USED LEA'S TONIC

My Hair Was Falling Out and It Was So Gray and Thin That I Was Worried

AGED 55 NOW HAIR IS NO LONGER GRAY

MRS. J. A. PRESTON

"I think every woman in the world who is turning gray or losing her hair should know about this wonderful Lea's Hair Tonic which they are advertising now," declared Mrs. J. A. Preston, N. W. Station, Box 52, Detroit, Mich. "I work as a clerk in a popular store here in Detroit and appearance is everything, especially at my age of 55 years. You can imagine how badly I felt. My hair was falling and was getting terribly thin—turning gray rapidly, too. My scalp itched and really friends were noticing it. Lucky for me a friend of mine in Washington, Ind., recommended Lea's Hair Tonic, which I couldn't get in the drug stores of Detroit. She told me such wonderful things about Lea's I wrote for it and after using the first bottle I sent for six more and thanks to Lea's my hair is thick, full of life and lustre and back to its original color. I haven't a gray hair in my head and everybody raves about my hair being so pretty. I am 55 and my hair is real black the same as when I was a girl," writes Mrs. Preston, who like thousands of others have been pouring in letters of praise to Mrs. Lea, since she began introducing her remarkable hair preparation down in Tampa, Fla.

Anyone it seems may get the same results. In fact the Lea Tonic money back without quibble or question if it fails to delight any user. Local druggists are featuring Lea's Hair Tonic. Easy to apply at home by rubbing a few drops into the scalp with finger tips. Change is so gradual and experts do not detect. Pleasant and of course doesn't stain.
