

JACKSONVILLE EASTERN STAR OBSERVES DATE

Fiftieth Anniversary Chapter Is Celebrated On Lawn of Historic Court House.

(By Iva Fewell)

Adelard chapter No. 3, Order of Eastern Star, Jacksonville, last night celebrated its fiftieth birthday anniversary on the spacious lawn of the Jacksonville court house, beneath a canopy of brilliant lights, the center illuminations forming a huge star. In keeping with the anniversary, were the fashionable gowns of half a century ago, worn by the women of the chapter.

Those coming to the court house grounds did not for long feel as though they were mere visitors or on-lookers. They were cordially greeted by a group of Adelard members, dressed in their quaint costumes, including Miss Stella Levy, Miss Isabe McCulley, Mrs. Esther Cameron, Mrs. Doris Harbaugh and Miss Mollie Britt.

With the setting of the sun, the 250 people gathered to observe the anniversary, sat down to long tables, where a picnic dinner was served. During the luncheon, Mrs. Lusila Dunnington, worthy matron of Adelard gave the address of welcome, the response being made by Col. Robert A. Miller of Portland, first worthy grand patron of Oregon, and oldest living grand patron of Eastern Star.

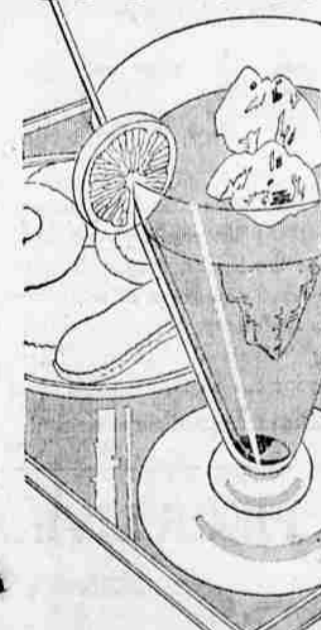

Officers Present

Grand officers of the state, representing several chapters were present, and gave short talks, being introduced by Vivian Wilson, grand patron of Adelard chapter. Included in this group were Bess Setters of Portland, past grand matron; Minnie White of Portland, associate grand matron of Oregon; J. H. Hardy of Ashland, associate grand patron of Oregon; Mrs. Josephine Parker of Ashland, first grand secretary; Herman E. Lafky of Cottage Grove, of the grand lodge student loan committee; Mrs. Pearl Pratt, worthy matron of Salem; Mrs. Monte Hauser of Salem, associated grand conductress; Mrs. Wm. McKenzie, present grand matron of Kellog chapter; Mrs. Nellie McGowan of Medford; Mrs. Margaret Earnes and Mrs. Ginevra Seebach of Grants Pass, and Mrs. Alice Hanley of Central Point.

Gifts Received

Presents and flowers were received by the chapter, including a table lamp from Reames chapter, Medford; a large white satin flag from Alpha chapter, Ashland; a gold cup from Nevada chapter, Central Point; and flowers from the grand lodge and Josephine chapter, Grants Pass.

Miss Mollie Britt read the history of the chapter, which told of the activities during the past fifty years.

During the singing of "Star of the East," members of Adelard marched in, two carrying a tray of birthday cakes, arranged to form a star, lighted with candles. A burro, led by a miner, was in the procession, carrying two "sacks of nuggets," which, when opened turned into little birthday cakes, that were passed to all the guests.

Following the program, dancing was enjoyed in the court house, with melodies and dances of fifty years ago, included in the program.

BOY SCOUTS GAIN MERIT BADGES IN COURT OF HONOR

The regular court of honor for the Medford District, Crater Lake council, Boy Scouts of America, was held at the court house Monday evening. Col. W. H. Payne, Judge Alex Sparrow, Fred L. Heath, Sr., and Walter H. Jones constituted the court.

Bob Root of troop 5, was advanced to first class; Edward Glover and Albert Rose of troop 15, Phoenix, were advanced to second class.

Seven first-class scouts and six second class scouts received merit badges. They are as follows: Theodore Andreanoff of troop 15, Phoenix, marksmanship; Cleo Hicks, troop 7, first aid; Russell Jordan, troop 5, woodcarving and firemanship; Floyd Loomis, troop 5, cooking and woodcarving; David Moore, troop 5, first aid to animals; Billy Sheets, troop 5, firemanship; George Watson, troop 5, woodcarving and first aid to animals.

Second class: Truman Bishop, troop 5, firemanship; Bob Hinman, troop 5, woodcarving; Clair Hightsham, troop 15, Phoenix, cycling; Tim White, troop 15, Phoenix, carpentry and leathercraft; Edwin White, troop 15, Phoenix, agriculture and horsemanship.

The stag patrol of troop 5, led by Floyd Loomis, has come up for advancement 100 per cent strong at the last two courts of honor. This patrol ranks second in the Gypsy patrol contest, having 5239 points. The Flying Eagle patrol of troop 5, Russell Jordan leader, is first, having 6489 points. Much interest is being taken in this contest, and the patrols are all working hard to win.

FRUIT GROWERS TO HEAR EXPERT

William C. Fitch, general traffic manager, in charge of perishable freight; Robert J. Martin, assistant general manager, W. C. Cowan, assistant traffic manager; G. R. McIntosh, superintendent, and R. S. Cline, special representative, and assistant traffic managers, all of San Francisco; M. H. Whitehead and J. C. Johnson of Portland all connected with the Pacific Fruit Express, are in the city today, arranging details for the movement of fruit shipments from this section the coming season.

The three officials conferred with local shippers on mutual problems. A diversion clerk, with headquarters at the Medford ice and storage company has been detailed to this district, in preparation for the shipping push, and the first batch of refrigerator cars will reach the local yards next week. They will be held on the storage tracks.

AUTO TIRE COVERS WILL CARRY WORD JACKSON CO. FAIR

A novel advertising feature of the coming Jackson county fair is a haul of 300 auto tire covers purchased by the fair association from an Iowa concern that makes a specialty of manufacturing county fair advertising devices, and which have just been received by R. G. Fowler, secretary of the association.

These covers are in the state automobile license colors, black and orange, the body being black and on it appearing in large orange letters the following: "Medford, Jackson County Fair."

Sept. 10, 11, 12 and 13, '30. Thanks to these covers, reminders of the coming fair will soon be seen many times between now and fair week, and during that week, as the cars wearing them roll to and for in all parts of the county and state. Some of the covers will be dispensed by the Chamber of Commerce and others through the various Granges of the county.

GUARDIANSHIP FOR WYNKOOP SOUGHT

A guardian for Perry Wynkoop, 76 years old, is sought by his nephew, Harvey Wynkoop, who filed a petition for his uncle's guardianship at the county clerk's office yesterday. The petitioner sets forth that Mr. Wynkoop is subject to mental lapses and may be made the object of designing persons if a guardian is not appointed. Walter E. Jones of Medford was named as a candidate for the position.

In a signed statement, accompanying the petition, Perry Wynkoop wrote that he agreed that a guardian was necessary and said that he had been subject to mental lapses during which he might do business which otherwise would not be done.

SIG ASH TO BUILD PINEHURST SCHOOL

Sig Ash, Medford contractor, was awarded the contract for construction of the new Pinehurst school building on the Green-springs Mountain highway between Ashland and Klamath Falls. White Ash's bid was not the lowest received, it was accepted as meeting the requirements of the school district in a most suitable manner. The building will cost $20,000, will have four rooms and be expected to be ready for occupancy in 2 1/2 months. Clark and Lander of

'THE BIG HOUSE' THRILLING FILM OF PRISON LIFE

After hugely enjoying the Mack Bennett short talking comedy, "Scottish New Year," you will have your last hearty laugh of the present Fox Crater "The Big House" program, for immediately follows the compelling feature picture, "The Big House" portraying life in a modern penitentiary.

This great screen drama of convict life is one of the best pictures of the year, with its absorbing plot, and is a tale of real he-men and sinewings, the confined outcasts of society, and the "seething caldrons of lurking hate and strange emotions," and longings for freedom of the inmates of a penitentiary.

"The Big House" has a whole of a cast of prominent movie stars in the principal characters, and many well known movie actors in minor roles and among the hundreds of imprisoned men. There are scenes of exciting immensity, the chief of which is the big prison outbreak with its resulting carnage.

Outstanding are the vivid portrayals of the big and burly Wallace Beery, Chester Morris and Robert Montgomery as the ruthless killer, the brainy crook and the amateur crime weakling, respectively. Beery's characterization of the murderous, hardboiled habitual criminal, "Machine Gun Butch" is especially impressive, and is so notable that it makes him the real star of the picture.

"Butch" never departs from his rather gruesome role. At one time a fellow convict in speaking of him is a convict said "You shouldn't trust that guy, Butch, he killed his own mother."

And one time in a sentimental mood in his cell, speaking to his cell-mate about a former sweetheart he said: "An dere was Sadie, she was a nice girl. I wonder what I ever gave her, that ant poison for."

Among other prominent movie actors in the cast are Lella Hyams as the heroine, Lewis Stone as the penitentiary warden, George F. Marion, Matthew Betz and J. C. Nugent.

The great prison setting, especially the interior showing the cell blocks, chapel, mess hall, gates, warden's office and life house are excellent reproductions of the average modern penitentiary, in the opinion of this writer who had a hobby for years of visiting and studying such prisons and studying the convict life therein.

All in all "The Big House" is a picture well worth seeing as it gives the average person a good idea of penitentiary life and the causes that lead to prison dissatisfaction and rioting, and the pro-
