

CLARENCE TURPIN SUSTAINS INJURY IN SHALLOW DIVE

Clarence Turpin of Lewiston, Idaho, recently of Medford, who sustained injuries in a river accident, resulting from a running dive into shallow water at Clarkston beach Sunday, is still in a critical condition, according to reports received from the St. Joseph hospital yesterday. Young Turpin is the son of Tom Turpin, now residing in Bremerton and is well known in southern Oregon. Paralysis which seized both arms and legs when his head hit the river bed showed signs of deterioration, reports from the Idaho city stated. Spinal fracture is the outstanding obstacle to his recovery. He remains comatose. The following account of the accident is given by the Lewiston Press: Clarence Turpin, well known young man of Lewiston, is at St. Joseph's hospital with a fracture of his spinal column at the neck, both arms and both legs paralyzed and a possible skull fracture as the result of a running dive into shallow water at the Clarkston beach. While hundreds of bathers were on the beach, Turpin started at a point about 40 feet from the river's edge, called to some of his friends while running, and after reaching the water took two steps forward and then made a long dive. There was not more than 2 1/2 feet of water where Turpin's head went down. He hit the bottom with terrific force and the next thing those on shore and in the water knew they heard him moaning.

A number of rescuers went to Turpin's assistance and he was dragged from the river by Carl Nelson, Lewiston. He was conscious at the time and gave orders that a physician be summoned. He was given first aid in Clarkston and then brought to the hospital. He was unconscious when he entered the hospital but came to within a half hour. At the hospital it was said that he was in a conscious state but that the paralysis to his limbs held on. The spine injury was the principal trouble, his physician said, and time will prove a factor if he recovers from this. An X-ray disclosed the spinal fracture to be serious. The outcome of his case, his physician said, depends on whether there is too much pressure against the vertebrae, in which case his chances for recovery are slim. As to the limb paralysis the physician said there was a possibility that he would recover from this. Turpin is an employe of the Lewiston laundry.

Does Crime Pay?

Chester Morris, featured in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Epic of Prison Life—"The Big House"—which is drawing crowds to the Fox Craterian theater.

It is dramatic, tragic, powerful, a warning to men to be honest and upright. It shows the terrible life of prisoners in one of the great penitentiaries of the country—crowded, sordid, pitiful. Splendid acting is done by Wallace Beery, Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, Lewis Stone, Lela Hyams and several others.

POST OFFICE STAFF TO MEET MRS. HARPER ON ARRIVAL TONIGHT

Mrs. Marion Harper, wife of the city letter carrier, who suffered a dislocated hip and some minor injuries last Monday evening when the family car, which the son, Herbert, was driving at the time, went over a bank near Sutherland, Ore., and overturned and who had been at Mercy hospital, Roseburg, since, will arrive home on this evening's train from the north and will be met by a delegation of the Medford postoffice staff with an ambulance and removed to the family home on Cottage street. Mrs. Harper was carefully moved in an ambulance early this afternoon to the train from the hospital.

Mrs. Harper and their son and daughters will also arrive home some time this evening, departing from Roseburg by auto after Mrs. Harper had been put aboard the train, which will reach Medford about 7 p.m. Exceptional sympathy is felt for Mrs. Harper, her husband and children, because she had been in poor health for a long time past and last winter spent three months in a Portland hospital.

"The Sea Bat" Shows at Rialto Sunday

"The Sea Bat," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new marine melodrama which opens at the Fox Rialto theater tomorrow, should rank high with that large group of people who like their drama mixed with novelty and interesting detail.

The director, has produced a picture which is a personification of those words, with excitement added. Those who thought there was no new situation or "menace" in melodrama are invited to glance over this original story.

Sea bats, those giant rays weighing two tons or more, which infest tropical waters, are the monsters who supply the excitement of this tale. When one of them folds Nils Asther in its heavy wings, crushing him to death, it starts a war of reprisal in which the tangled romances of Charles Bickford, Raquel Torres and John Miljan form a dramatic overture.

Bickford, the coal mine hero of "Dynamite" and the Irish sailor of "Anna Christie," is magnificent as an escaped prisoner from the penal colony of "Devil's Island," hiding in the garments of a minister. Miss Torres is a Spanish girl who has become affected by the native voodoo superstition, because of the death of her lover, Asther. Miljan, Gibson Gowland and Boris Karloff are three villainous sponge-divers who take her at her word when she says she will marry the first man to kill the sea bat.

provide space for wheat. They knew Uncle Sam would not sell. As a result of "farm relief" wheat has dropped to its lowest price in 16 years.

Lady Owen, in Paris, rich, titled woman, fell in love with Dr. Gastand. He, she says, reciprocated until she lent him 100,000 francs. Then he stopped reciprocating, went back to his wife and, only the vernacular describes it—gave Lady Owen "the air."

Lady Owen, the rouspon, shot the wife, Mme. Gastand, three times, principally in the stomach. Smoking gold-tipped cigarettes rapidly, Lady Owen expressed indignation surprise when the police refused to set her free. Who can read the heart of a woman?

Why shoot the poor wife instead of the "air giver"?

All through the ages women have protected men and blamed each other.

Standard Oil of California, of which K. I. Kingsbury is president, announces that it will make no more gasoline than it can actually sell. And, what is more important, that it will not sell anything to dealers that try to take away the business of their competitors by rate cutting.

The so-called "bootleg" dealers are outlawed by Standard Oil. If other companies follow the example it may help to stabilize the oil industry.

Sir Henri Deterding, head of the great Dutch-British Shell company that spreads literally all over the world, much greater in extent and power than Standard Oil or any other, is an active man. For his amusement, he jumps horses over fences. Also, for his amusement, he has made some American oil men jump many hurdles. Our laws forbid an American company to do this and do that. You mustn't be too big. You must not, if you are American, organize a nation-wide distributing organization. But Deterding and his "Shell" company can do anything.

At present Sir Henri, real genius of industry, has turned to extracting fertilizer for farmers, from gas that goes to waste from oil wells. It would be amusing if he gave American farmers cheaper fertilizers than they can get from their own fertilizer trust.

Deterding is the man who this year supplies the entire Japanese navy with oil. He gets the oil from American wells and sells to Japan at a price lower than the United States navy ever pays for the same oil.

Every morning, on coldest winter days, Deterding takes a cold bath out of doors. If the water is frozen his "man" chops away the ice, and Deterding jumps into his pool, running around the edge of it afterward in his wet bathing suit, until he feels warmer. He has made some American oil men know how that cold plunge feels.

Dr. James Eads How, lifelong friend of poor men, is dead of starvation, leaving perhaps $1,000,000. He believed that abstention from food could cure anything. His theory cost him his life.

His money is left to help the most unfortunate class of unemployed, the "hoboes," whose friend he had always been.

The good example of sympathy is worth $1,000,000 wisely spent or otherwise. But $5000 spent on an ambitious youth might do more for the poor than $1,000,000 spent on confessed failure.

The work of one man, Edison, has paid to workers $1,000,000 for every dollar that How leaves to "hoboes." It will continue paying billions in wages, and profits, for generations to come.
