A BULL'S EYE—Crack shot of the army is Lieutenant Harry Marsh of the Eighteenth Infantry stationed at Fort Hamilton, pictured here after he had won the championship in competition against other marksmen.

WHEN NATION'S MOST DARING BALLOONISTS COMPETED AT HOUSTON—Entries in the national elimination balloon races are shown in this striking picture, poised for the take-off at Houston, Tex. The contest was held to select representatives of the United States in the international races to be started from Cleveland on Labor Day.

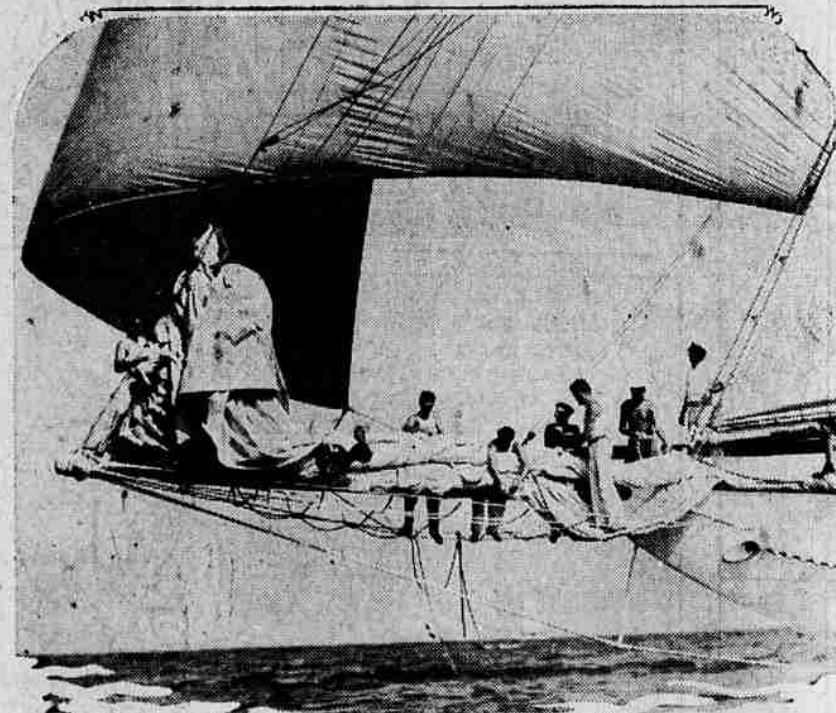

WATCHING HER SHIP COME IN—Who wouldn't hurry into port when greeted by charming Peggy Summers? She was snapped at Port Aransas, Tex., waving "hello" to a ship entering the harbor through the picturesque rock jetties at the south Texas resort.

TAKES THE HEIR—Dr. L. Stacks of Lorain, O., is shown here with his baby son, Leonard, after completing a 600-mile trip from St. Louis to Cleveland. The air voyage seems to have agreed with the youngster.

READY FOR A BIG SAIL—This unusual picture shows sailors grooming the "Enchantress," a 136-foot boat, for the 2,300-mile Los Angeles-to-Honolulu yacht race. We don't envy them their jobs, do you?

GINGERBREAD HOUSE—A real, honest-to-goodness gingerbread house has been built by F. H. Bennett, New York manufacturer, on his estate in Hamburg, Germany. Mr. Bennett was so pleased with the gingerbread house in the German opera, "Hansel and Gretel," that he built this structure of multi-colored stone to look like gingerbread, icing and candy.

YUM, YUM!—No wonder these dusky youngsters are smiling. You would be, too, if you had just tasted watermelons like these. They were snapped not in Dixie, but at Akron, O.

RECKLESS?—Who wouldn't be, if he could get a summons from pretty Helen Wright, shown here, regulating the tides of the Pacific? Helen has just given a ticket to a dashing wavel.

WHO WOULDN'T GO SWIMMING if they had such charming companions as these? Miss Florence Smock, "America's healthiest girl"; Miss Virginia Handley, "Miss St. Petersburg"; Miss Margaret Ekdahl, "Miss America," and Miss Lillian Rowland, "Miss Clearwater," are pictured, in the foreground, enjoying the beach at Clearwater, Fla., with scores of other bathers.
