Fire Threatened Tavern

When fire threatened Weaska Inn, 20 fishermen and passers-by joined to drive it back Friday afternoon. A pile of brush was burning on the south side of Rogue river, before the flames could be stamped out, it is reported. The fire was started at 3:30 Friday afternoon by two young men on a motorcycle. It is said. An operator of a Richfield oil truck saw the boys drop a match off into the dry grass, according to reports. The fire spread toward Weaska Inn, was fought off and extinguished on that side of the river. Eight men from the fire warden's office are said to have also been on hand to assist the fire-fighting. Then the fire jumped the river and destroyed about six acres on the north side.—Grants Pass Courier.
