

BLIMP DESCENDS TO LINER'S DECK FOR PASSENGER

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The blimp Mayflower became an aerial taxi yesterday.

It dropped down to the deck of the liner Bremen at quarantine, took aboard Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin company, of Akron, Ohio, to which the Mayflower belongs, and hopped off again.

The blimp with her two motors coasting, drifted slowly onto the afterdeck of the Bremen where a landing crew of 23 grabbed a trailing line. Litchfield stepped aboard, the Mayflower's nose was pulled around into the wind, and away she went, headed for a Long Island airport where Litchfield was landed a few minutes later.

It was the first time a commercial blimp had landed on an ocean liner.

Owned jointly by the town of Warrenton and private citizens, the road connects this place with W. A. T. C. and maintained regular passenger service until competition of buses caused a change to freight only.

Only four locomotives and three passenger coaches have been owned by the road, and never more than one of each at a time.

Credit For Stored Wheat Will Assist Nebraska Farmers In Holding Crops

LINCOLN, Neb.—(AP)—For the first time in history the farmers of Nebraska, second wheat state in the union, can get money on their grain without moving it from the bins.

Under a new state law permitting farm storage in conjunction with the federal farm loan board, certificates will be issued by state supervisors and the certificates will be held as collateral by federal farm loan banks. Thus immediate credit to the producer is insured.

Sam R. McKelvie (inset), grain member of farm board sees, new Nebraska loan law as aid to farmers with bumper crop. Typical Nebraska wheat field (above) and threshing scene (below) are shown.

Sam R. McKelvie, grain member of the farm board and former Nebraska governor, says the law will be of great advantage to farmers, in that it gives them the advantage of farm storage—the cheapest available, and best for keeping, hardens supplies out of market channels and the terminals.

In addition, the law permits farmers to store wheat in state supervised elevators with the same credit provisions embodied in the farm storage plan.

Drafted last spring by a special session of the state legislature as a means of preventing market gluts, the law became of immediate benefit. Estimated at 65,675,000 bushels, Nebraska's harvest of winter wheat exceeds the 1928 harvest by 12,911,000 bushels. It is now the largest yield on record in the Cornhusker state, but it is 12,000,000 bushels more than the average.

Confronted six months ago with adverse growing conditions, the Nebraska crop thrived under June sunshine, and threshers found it had matured in perfect condition.

Although never as large as that of Kansas, Nebraska's crop occupies a peculiar spot in the American wheat situation. Repeatedly farm board headquarters have referred to the amount of wheat necessary to price movement thru removal from the market as "about as large as the Nebraska crop."

Evelyn Laye of England Makes Hit With Scribes

By Richard Massock.

NEW YORK—Miss Evelyn Laye whose fragile blond beauty is about to be recorded by the celluloid singles of Hollywood, is simply mad about America's frosted chocolates.

"When I first arrived," the English prima donna confided to a bevy of the gentlemen of the press the other afternoon, "I went from drug store to drug store drinking frosted chocolates."

"You know," she added, "frosted chocolates are all the good things you ever dreamed of as a child, put together."

From which it appears that Miss Laye is rather fond of frosted chocolates.

The young woman who first came to New York to play in the late operetta "Hitler Sweet," has other dainty enthusiasms, too, such as fish and chips, English sole and shandygaff.

The first two she can get on Broadway, Shandygaff, a mixture of beer and ginger beer, she has to do without. And does she like shandygaff, with lots of ice? "It is," she assured the assembled gaffers of Metropolitan newspaper, "the cat's whiskers."

She had just returned from a week vacation in London, where she was born and brought up, to make her first picture.

Miss Laye was a little late getting to the appointment. She found the guests sitting in a semicircle around the divan which she was to grace, chatting about this and that, while the breeze of the Central park sheep meadow to the south and the Hudson river on the west played through her suite 35 floors above Fifth avenue.

She explained that she had been shopping.

"I love to buy new clothes," she explained, "but curiously enough I like to go about in old things." She looked very nice, too, in the old blue dress, blue straw hat and blue shoes she happened to be wearing—all about a week old.

TABLE ROCK, Ore., Aug. 1.—(Sp.)—Bob Fowler, who has been doing some heavy battling with the army worm and who was given a vote of thanks for his efforts by the Jackson County Grange, tells your correspondent that these so-called army worms are nothing but the common old cutworm in large numbers, and also states that we need have no fear of them appearing again next summer.

The conversation breezed along, Miss Laye keeping it running with virtually no effort, which, for a visiting picture actress being interviewed, was no mean feat.

Snatches leaped across her glass of iced tea, in which she took two spoons of sugar and which she then didn't drink because she prefers tea. Like this—

Miss Laye—"I miss the country inns most of all."

First News Man—"You'll find them in California."

Second News Man—"They call them hot dog stands."

Miss Laye—"I'll get a cheap little car to run around in when I'm there."

First News Man—"That'll be a novelty."

Second News Man—"Will you have a cigarette?" offering a pack of Old Luskfields.

Miss Laye—"Do you mind if I smoke my own?"

Nobody minded and after a bit everybody bowed himself out to the elevator, where he voted Evelyn Laye—pronounced Eve-lyn, long E—quite the most charming hostess he had seen in a long, long time.
