

122,729,615 POPULATION SAYS REPORT

Continental U. S. Compilation Completed By Census Bureau—Greatest Increase Shown.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Revised census figures for Portland, Ore., show a population of 30,311, increase of 43.23, or 16.5 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Continental United States had a population of 122,729,625 April 2 this year.

The first complete compilation of the nation's population was made possible today when a single township in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania, which had been missing, was reported.

The returns were compiled from official reports of the district supervisors throughout the country. These totals, however, are subject to revision in the census bureau's announcement which is expected soon.

The nation's total population with its outlying possessions numbers 137,502,343 persons, as 14,733,433 occupy the various territories and island dependencies.

The total population increase in the forty-eight states and the District of Columbia in the ten years was 17,018,999, the largest numerical growth of any decade in its history.

Kansas City Star, a strong supporter of the governor, conceded his defeat by an approximate majority of 25,000.

Hancock, 35-year-old farmer-stock raiser, is strongly in contrast with Reed, the seasoned politician.

He played football at Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, and at Cornell.

He served overseas during the world war and was twice wounded.

Interest in the Republican senatorial race affecting Allen, who is a former governor, and the Republican gubernatorial contest, was extensive. Senator Arthur Capner, also a Republican, did not have primary opposition. He will face Jonathan M. Davis, former Democratic governor, in the November election, however.

The nominal Democratic vote held no particular interest. Only four nominations on the state ticket were contested.

All of the incumbent congressional candidates for renomination were conceded safe majorities.

The wets found balm in a Virginia race, but the drys' counter with results in West Virginia. It was a question in political circles whether the voting was an indication of the drift on national issues or was dominated by local issues and candidates.

The record of misfortune to those Democrats who have been assailed for opposition or lukewarm support to Smith in the 1928 campaign had another chapter added in Virginia. Thomas G. Burch attacked Rep. J. O. S. White on his attitude toward Smith and defeated him for the nomination in the fifth district.

Virginia Wet Wins.

Howard Smith, who failed to get approval of the Virginia anti-alcohol league, won the Democratic nomination over State Senator Frank Ball, who had league endorsement, in the eighth district.

James Ellwood Jones, coal operator, was far ahead in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination in West Virginia. Prohibition was not a dominant issue in the campaign but one of the candidates was Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, who urged modification of the Volstead act. Rosenbloom ran second.

In Missouri, the entire house delegation, ten Republicans and six Democrats, were renominated. The vote was light.

It was contended by the defense that these charges were exaggerated, and Attorney Moulton charged that when the dogs were quiet and peaceable, at times, some persons in the neighborhood, who had a financial interest in seeing that the hospital was put out of business, caused stones to be thrown at the dogs to arouse them.

It was also charged by Moulton that the ordinance was too drastic and that if passed it would unjustly put the hospital out of business. He intimated that if the ordinance was passed the matter was sure to be fought out in the courts, and stated that if the people of the neighborhood had a real case to present, their recourse to try and abolish the alleged nuisance was in the courts, instead of trying to get the city to govern the matter by regulation, which would confiscate the hospital property.

Knew Hospital Plan.

He also contended that Frank Howard, who owned and established the auto camp near by, also sold the land for the hospital, knowing that it was to be used for a hospital, and that he was to be paid for the present ownership, but that it was well known that the hospital was there and

DERANGED VET WIELDS AX ON WIFE AND SON

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Charles S. Hall today killed his wife and five year old son with an ax and then wandered back to the veterans hospital at Fort Snelling, where he had been a mental patient.

Clad in pajamas, he urged some one to go to his home, adding "there may be something the matter with my wife."

Coroner Seashore returned a verdict of murder and said indications were that the intense heat of last week may have affected Hall's mentality.

Mary Jane, a daughter, heard her father flee and called neighbors after she had found her mother and brother dead.

That its dogs would bark occasionally.

Attorney Moulton also declared that the people of the neighborhood, which was at that time a residence zone, but since the hospital was established has become a business or industrial zone, had permitted the hospital to be established, that they now denounced.

He pleaded that the council at least delay action on the ordinance until Mrs. McCaskey, the owner, who was absent from the city, ignorant of the attack being made "on her pet philanthropic institution," returns home in a week or ten days.

Finally, after hearing all charges and counter charges the councilmen, agreeing with Mayor Pipes that the question was an embarrassing and complicated problem, and holding that it was more of a legal than civic problem, and should be fought out in the courts, by a big majority refused to pass the regulatory ordinance.

Councilmen Wing and Grey voted to pass it, and Councilmen Kershaw, Hammond, Collins and Thordylke against. Mayor Pipes and all the councilmen sympathized with the complainant of the neighborhood, but the majority deemed it the best course not to enact the ordinance.

Will Regulate Midget Golf Course.

Another long debate was precipitated on the ordinance to regulate golf courses, which passed unanimously providing for a license fee of $50 per year for 18 holes and $2 for each additional hole; that proper toilet facilities be provided by the city health officer, be established inside of two weeks; if a midget course was not so equipped now, that each course must be closed between the hours of midnight and 9 a. m., and have its radio or music shut off at 10 p. m.

The ordinance, which was aimed solely to regulate bitterly complained of conditions by neighbors relating to the first midget course established at the corner of Oakdale and Eighth streets, also contained provisions forbidding double parking and alley parking in the vicinity and the maintenance of order.

However, the council refused to incorporate a provision for special policemen to be stationed at a midget course if necessary to prevent double parking and to protect the neighborhood from certain complaints of nuisances, at the expense of the owners of a course. The councilmen held that one or more of the regular police force could make periodical visits, when necessary, and arrest double parkers and other offenders.

F. A. Fell, operator of the North Riverside course, was present at the meeting and entered vigorous objection to having such a heavy license on a course, more than is charged the theaters.

It was explained to Mr. Fell by the mayor and councilmen that no complaint had been heard about his own course.

Among the minor matters of business transacted by the city council last night was the granting of a petition to Scott Davis to establish a parking lot at 169 North Central avenue, which lot is to have a building of metal and concrete construction at a cost of $500.

The petition of Florence street property owners was granted that bids be readvertised for the paving Florence street, so that an asphalt top of two inches can be laid instead of 4-inch concrete, the contract for which was awarded weeks ago to L. O. Herrold. This action was taken after Dr. L. D. Inskip, city health officer, asked whether a two-inch coat of asphalt would be sufficient to bear the traffic of heavy ambulances and hearses and other loads to and from the Sacred Heart Hospital, and was assured that it would well withstand such heavy traffic.

The council voted to reject the application of a fuel company to operate a wood yard at the east approach of the Bear Creek bridge and ordered that the fuel yard owner haul away all wood off the premises by January 1st.

It was also voted to decrease the license fee for pawn brokers from $200 a year to $40, on the ground that it would be a good police measure, as it is figured those persons who now do a pawn broker business surreptitiously and do not pay the license fee, would come out in the open and pay the lesser fee, which would enable the police to better locate stolen goods.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Midsummer temperatures continue here with no indication of a break in the drought. No rain has fallen since July 2, when .81 inch was recorded. The maximum temperature today was 88 degrees.

Rogue River Lures Famed Musical Show Impresario In Search For Steelhead

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD

Billie Burke

(By Ernest Rostel)

Lured to southern Oregon by reports of good fishing in the Rogue river, and encouraged to come by his wife, the former Billie Burke, Florenz Ziegfeld, famous in the theater world, arrived in Medford this forenoon by private car, to spend several days on the river, angling for steelhead and salmon. He was accompanied by a party, and together with Mrs. Ziegfeld and daughter Patricia, were driven to Medford from Ashland by William Isaacs and A. S. Rosenbaum. The Ziegfeld private car is at rest in the local railroad yards.

Other members of the party include Mrs. Edmund Carewe, wife of the well known movie director, Mrs. W. Dudley, Los Angeles social woman, John Hacklender, artistic director of Ziegfeld productions, and Mary Nichols, nurse, a traveling companion for the daughter and a private secretary completed the party.

There is no fishing like salmon fishing, in the opinion of the showman, and he has tried angling in all parts of the nation, including regular fishing trips off the coast of Florida in winter. He is looking forward to the fisherman's thrill of landing a "big one" and is well equipped with tackle. He left shortly after his arrival for the river, possibly in the region of the Rogue Elk resort or the Big Rock lodge of William Isaacs, and was driven there by Kenneth Jerome.

Filmed Big Show.

The past four months have been spent in Hollywood in connection with the production of "Whoopie," the big stage success that ran 77 weeks in New York City. The premiere showing was held in Los Angeles this week and telegrams came today to Mr. Ziegfeld at Ashland and Medford from Will Rogers, famous humorist; Irving Berlin, Norma Shearer, movie actress, and other notables, indicating the show is a big success. The telegram from Rogers said it ought to make a million dollars and would draw Mr. Ziegfeld back to the Pacific coast often on other productions.

However, the theater man doubted whether he would be able to come west soon again, but added that if his wife and daughter had their way, the west would be the Ziegfeld home.

"They like it out here," said Mr. Ziegfeld, "especially the daughter. She's the main one interested in fishing," and as he was speaking she came out on the platform of the private car with her fishing rod in her hand, anxious to start for the river.

ly burst into song in the midst of his suffering," he said. "Then they don't understand why it doesn't go over good when a plot in a story is not understood when in the midst of story action, a group of dancing girls break into the picture with fancy steps and fast music."

Condensed from Film.

"In the case of the picture, 'Whoopie,' we crowded three hours of the stage production, exactly as it was given in New York for 77 weeks, into one hour and 39 minutes of entertainment," he continued. "We timed every laugh and the time was perfect with the exception of one."

Mr. Ziegfeld spoke on different phases of theater productions and spoke so freely on general topics that his listeners, two reporters, were beginning to think they were interviewing just another stranger in Medford. Instead of the nation's most famous theatrical producer, Will Rogers had planned to join Mr. Ziegfeld by airplane at Medford, but a telegram said he was forced to begin work on a new picture today.

Large Number of

Speaking of the development of sound pictures, the producer declared the movie industry must still make big advances to reach perfection in the art. The principal trouble with the sound picture involves present efforts of moving picture men who had learned the profession when the silent art came out on the platform.

"They think it's all right for a man rushing to death on an ice floe in a swirling river with his sweetheart at his side, waving his arms frantically and then suddenly burst into song in the midst of his suffering," he said. "Then they don't understand why it doesn't go over good when a plot in a story is not understood when in the midst of story action, a group of dancing girls break into the picture with fancy steps and fast music."
