RAIN DUE TO END FLAMING FORESTS

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 9.—(AP) Forest fires spat sparks defiantly toward lowering skies that threatened rain today, and hundreds of foresters fought desperately to hold the red tide of flame until the hoped-for deluge.

The Chewelah fire flared on a 10-mile front balked on two sides by 300 foresters and volunteers, but it raced southward unchecked at such speed fighters said they could not check it.

Ranchers had household goods piled high on wagons before their homes, ready to flee as the flames neared. Telephone wires were burned down, so exact estimates of its size were impossible.

Bear, deer and rattlesnakes were reported fleeing from the forests.
