Ambling Alp Gets Close Decision Over Uzcudun in Spain

REFEREE'S VOTE ENDS DEADLOCK OF TWO JUDGES

Crowd Excited As British Arbiter Rules Against Compatriot In Ten Round Battle.

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 1.—(AP)—It took an English referee, Moss Dyong, to settle the boxing war between Italy and Spain in which Primo Carnera and Paulino Uzcudun were the armies. Dyong cast the deciding vote in favor of Carnera yesterday and raised the excitement of the crowd of 90,000 to its highest pitch.

The two judges disagreed after ten rounds of close battling and they stuck to their opinions today. The Spanish judge, Casanovas, said that he believed Paulino should have been given the decision by a very slight margin, while the Italian judge, Mazzia, gave his opinion not only that Carnera had won but that he should be matched with young Stribling, Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling as foremost contender for the world's heavyweight championship. Dyong said he saw a future world's champion in Carnera.

Paulino Battered

Although Paulino appeared somewhat battered at the end of the ten rounds, neither boxer suffered any serious damage from the battle and both were able to attend various entertainments afterward. Paulino was bleeding freely, taking severe punishment in the closing rounds. His best rounds were in the middle of the fight, when he staged a fine rally. The Associated Press score sheet credited Paulino with winning the fourth, fifth, and sixth rounds and scored the third as even. The rest were given to Carnera. The Italian weighed 269 3-4 pounds, Paulino 206 3-4.

The crowd paid about 1,000,000 pesetas, about $110,000 to see the struggle and although a few of the spectators tried to settle their disputes with fist fights after the bout in the ring was over, a police detail of 1,000 had little trouble in keeping order.

The recent visit of an upstate editor to this section is seen by local sportsmen as an effort to gain further information on the Rogue river and its fish screens. It is reported the editor learned of a number of irrigation ditches up the river that were unscreened and that he saw trout swimming around in the ditches. Anglers fear that charges will be made that such ditches were unscreened the entire year, but explain that the screens were removed upon the close of the irrigation season and the advent of higher water in the river, to prevent the screens from being washed away by freshets. It is said that while fish may find their way up the ditches, they always find their way back to the river, and is not a condition that exists the entire year. Fish are always protected from the ditches at the time when they are in use and the water is led over fields to irrigate crops.

Charlie Berwert visited the Chetco river region over the week-end and returned with five large salmon. The fish fought hard and one pulled him toward the ocean. Berwert reported upon his return to Medford. The commercial canning season is closed at the present time, bringing improved angling conditions at the river's mouth. The water was too clear for good steelhead fishing yesterday, anglers say, and only a few were caught. However, a visit to the river last Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ovelman of Medford resulted in the catch of four good-sized steelhead and several cut-throat trout. The steelhead were caught by the former and the trout by the latter. Egg bait was used. Salmon eggs were eagerly nibbled by the steelhead but when steelhead eggs were placed in the water, the fish refused to bite.

A few months ago two mallard ducks found their way to Rogue River Canal company property on the Agate desert and made friends with domestic ducks. The mallards stayed on the premises and have hatched 48 ducks as a result of their stay, an argument for the propagation of wild ducks in this section.

Wild ducks must be plentiful in old Mexico where Carl Shoemaker, former game commissioner, state they are selling for five and ten cents each. At Aqua Caliente wild ducks are on the menu of two dollar dinners. The birds are shot by the thousands and are plentiful and easy to obtain at five cents apiece. The slaughter of the birds is expected to ruin the duck population there in short order. Heavy killing of the birds is blamed for a decrease of the game noted in this section.

COAST GRIDIRON SAW UPHEAVAL OLD FAVORITES

California Teams Swept Aside During Season As Washington State Marched To Title.

By Russell J. Newland,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—(AP) Football has run its course in the far west, except for a few outstanding intersectional clashes.

RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

The season of 1930 saw an upheaval in Pacific coast conference circles, with such established favorites as Stanford, Southern California, Washington and California, being swept aside while a powerful Washington State eleven marched to the championship.

Washington State claimed the title with six victories and no defeats and last Saturday in Philadelphia, rambled over an intersectional rival, Villanova, 13-0. Accordingly, Washington State has been named as the team to represent the west in the annual Tournament of Roses game and will face Alabama at Pasadena, New Year's day.

Schedule Ended.

Games last week cleared up the Coast conference scheduled. Thursday, Southern California swamped Washington, 32-0, to move into second place in the standings, while the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins tumbled Idaho's Vandals into the cellar to the tune of 20 to 6. On the same day, in a non-conference game, but of considerable importance nevertheless, St. Mary's defeated Oregon, 7-6. Stanford finished third in the coast conference.

The first intersectional clash of any consequence on the coast took place Saturday at Palo Alto, where Stanford battered out a 14-7 win over Dartmouth, one of the best teams in the east.

Southern California Trojans will meet Notre Dame's Ramblers in one of the greatest gridiron classics of the season Saturday.

MEDFORD WOMAN LANDS GIANT FISH

A 44-pound salmon, the largest taken from the Chetco river by hook and line this season, was caught yesterday by Miss Emma Jenkins of this city. And it's going to make a lot of people happy for Miss Jenkins donated the fish to the Volunteers of America, who are dividing it among the poor families of Medford.

Miss Jenkins was assisted in landing the fish by Victor Johnson. Other members of the fishing party were Miss Corn Bureau and H. C. Sims. The fish was caught a few miles from Brookings, which is becoming one of the most popular resorts on the coast.

OIL CONSERVATION POLICY IS UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—President Hoover's oil conservation policy was upheld today by the District of Columbia court of appeals.

The court sustained the order of Secretary Wilbur in March of last year, that pending applications for permits to prospect for oil on government lands be rejected.

Wilbur's order was issued the day after President Hoover enunciated his conservation policy in a brief statement to newspaper men, saying there would be "complete conservation of government oil in this administration."

The industrial dinosaur may have the same trouble.

President Hoover appoints William M. Doak, of Virginia, secretary of labor, despite the objection of Mr. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and one of the best, most sincere labor men in the country.

The nation will not agree with Mr. Green's idea that the President must appoint only a member of the American Federation.

Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, or Knights of Columbus, might as well say the President must always appoint as secretary of state someone from their organization. Sailors might as well insist that a sailor be appointed secretary of the navy.

It is emphatically desirable that members of the cabinet, representing the entire nation, should not be tied up, and not CONTROLLED by any organization whatsoever, labor, temperance, religious or financial.

Unfortunately, a majority of them are so controlled to a large extent.

In London, to cure an epidemic of garroting, every criminal committing a robbery on the street was imprisoned promptly, but first lashed severely as part of his punishment.

The garroting stopped.

Winnipeg, remembering it, revives the lash for bandits. Joe Wyrozup robbed a bank. Fifteen years in jail, with 18 lashes at the start of the term was his sentence. His assistants, Pawak and Gwynn, had shorter sentences. Only one was lashed. Members of a drug store bandit gang went to jail for 12 years, 10 lashes each.

We are too humane to try the last on any extensive scale, but it will be interesting to watch results in Winnipeg.

The lashing experiment in England showed that those willing to choke others are quite unwilling to endure pain.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, plucky Australian, tired of waiting for good weather, started alone in a small monoplane from Havana to Miami.

She had no blind flying instruments, radio or "turn and bank" dial. And probably could not pump up, after falling into the water, her little rubber raft.

The unfortunate woman is, probably, dead.

However, courage, even reckless courage, is surely not wasted.

The world has hundreds of millions that are timid. Here and there is one really courageous, like Mrs. Miller, who said: "I'm going to trust to luck that everything goes well."

Even to keep alive the example of courage is to render public service.

Professor Einstein complains that business lacks conscience, having offered him "fortunes to write testimonials for all sorts of articles which he knows nothing about."

Science, 1000 years hence, may decide that Professor Einstein knew about those "articles" as much as he did about the size of the universe, the limitations of space, the day on which "time began," and the nature of the continius, replacing "old fashioned ether, through which things move, if they move at all.

In Britain, unless MacDonald and his government can arrange some agreement immediately, 300,000 men will go on strike, and all British coal mines will be idle. The situation may be complicated by a railroad strike.

Miners demand the right to work seven days and a half each week. They can't make enough to live in less time.

Mine owners say they can't sell as much coal as would be mined in seven and a half days, which is true.

If the governing brains and working hands do not agree, it will be bad for Great Britain. Standing too much "on your rights" is dangerous in some emergencies.
