SEASON SHOWS GRID OFFENSE STANDARDIZED

Yost Says Football Approaching Baseball's Condition — Three Systems Cover Plays.

By Fielding H. Yost.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Football's 61st competitive year showed nothing new in offensive tactics. If anything, it helped standardize plays of preceding years.

Baseball's attack at present is standardized. Nothing new has been developed in a decade or more. Football seems to be approaching this same state.

Its systems of attack this year can be listed as the single wing back, the double wing back and the punt formations.

The three will cover 98 per cent of all the plays made by the 500 college and 10,000 high school teams in America this year.

The punt formation is universal. No matter what its primary formation for offense may be, every team uses the punt formation at times, for kicking, passing or running.

Following the Vanderbilt game in 1922, Michigan adopted it as its primary offensive formation. In the nine years since, it has won or tied for five Big Ten championships.

Harvard uses it on occasion in its passing game, as it frequently is used by teams employing a "3-4" pass.

The system is the hardest to defend against if the personnel of the two teams is equal. It has all the threats an offense can show.

If Howard Jones at Southern California is using the plays he did a year ago, Southern California and Notre Dame have the same single wing back formation, after the Rockne backs have completed the shifts.

This is what is known among coaches as the "Z" formation with the backs on one side. The Notre Dame shift, in which the backs change their locations rapidly, makes a set defense rather difficult.

Southern California has an adroit shift in which men back of the line step into the line at varied points.

The double wing back is the most concentrated attack of the three. It not only has the wings close to the line, but the other two backs are close, also. On many teams the backs form virtually a double line. This makes a compact unit for power plays.

Harvard, with light backs, varies by placing ends a yard or two from the tackles and starting the wings a yard behind the opening.

With the football attack attaining standardization, greater premium is placed each year on a personnel capable of masking the real point of the drive until the play is under way. In baseball, frequently it is the unexpected bunt which breaks up ball games. In football the unexpected adds to touchdowns.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 12. (AP)—The body of James M. Warren, 49, treasurer of the West Springfield Trust company, was found in the banking rooms early today, and the medical examiner pronounced the case one of suicide.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting.

External treatments cannot permanently end piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. Jarmin & Woods will supply you and guarantee money-back if it does not end all pile misery.

Lifelike Mechanical Toys Are Feature This Christmas

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Toyland has gone mechanical this year perhaps more than ever before.

There are realistic mechanical animals, mechanical derricks, pile drivers, shovels, tractors, dolls to delight children when they glimpse into their stockings on Christmas morning.

Youngsters seldom have seen such toys as the mechanical animals created for this season.

The miniature animals, driven by clockwork, act almost exactly like their living counterpares.

They crouch, spring and strut, while small phonographs concealed in their bodies roar and squeak in the manner of wild animals.

Boys who like mechanics will find virtually all types of machinery in toy form. Railroad systems include both American and European types of equipment and all models of cars operate over the rails.

Mechanical lighthouses are complete with warning signals, lights, bells and whistles.

Toy-makers have tried several new methods of making dolls that will perform in even more lifelike fashion than usual.

Besides the improvement in mechanical toys, there is a larger variety than in the past. Forty thousand different samples were exhibited by 900 manufacturers this year at the toy show held at the Leipzig fair in Leipzig, Germany.

Christmas tree ornaments, too, have kept pace with the growing variety of toys. One manufacturer has prepared 2,500 different designs.

GAMBLE BEN LINDSEY WILL PAY COURT FINE

"Tom Sawyer" at Fox Craterian

A scene from "Tom Sawyer," classic featuring Jackie Coogan and Mitzi Green.

After a lapse of 13 years, "Tom Sawyer," the immortal masterpiece of Mark Twain, is to be seen again on the silverscreens of America.

Since that earlier day, Tom and Huck, Aunt Polly and Becky, Injun Joe and Joe Harper have found voices. Through the medium of the talking screen they will now be heard for the first time.

In 1917, the late William Desmond Taylor directed "Tom Sawyer" at the Paramount studios.

Jack Pickford, then in his 21st year, carried the role of Tom Sawyer. Louise Huff, who had been his leading woman in "Seventeen," and a number of other screen version of Mark Twain's pictures, played the role of Becky Thatcher, Tom's sweetheart. The Huckleberry Finn of that picture was Lewis Sargent, then only 15.

In Paramount's all-talking version of "Tom Sawyer," which opens at the Fox Craterian theater today, the child principals in the cast are all much younger than those of the earlier production.

Jackie Coogan as Tom, is fifteen. Mitzi Green, who plays Becky Thatcher, is nine. Junior Durkin, who plays Huckleberry Finn, is fifteen. Others in the cast are Dick Winslow, fifteen, who plays the role of Joe Harper. The part of Sid Sawyer is played by Jackie Searl, who is only nine years of age.

Hoot Gibson Star of Rialto Thriller

The Concentratin' Kid — that's Hoot Gibson and when he concentrates on something he wants—well, he gets it. However, there is usually more than just plain, placid concentration. The Kid always expected a few hard fights to clinch the deal and he meets plenty of opposition in his newest Universal western thriller which is now playing at the Fox Rialto theater.

Hoot Gibson, the perr of riders and ropers, is seen at his best in "The Concentratin' Kid." Chacked full of thrills, action and unexpected adventure together with rare cowboy humor, the film does not lack interest, and the plot unfolds with rapid, sure-fire motion.

The story concerns itself with a cowboy who is very much in love with a radio singer whom he has never seen, and the complications that result from their romance and a group of cattle rustlers.

The role of the radio girl is played by Kathryn Crawford, a beautiful and talented singer, who came to the screen from the musical comedy stage. Her singing of "I Want My Man of the Golden West" is one of the highlights of the film.

"The Bad Man" Now at Holly

James Rennie and Dorothy Revier, the two young lovers in "The Bad Man," now showing at the Holly theatre. Walter Huston and O. P. Heggie also have important roles in the story of the Bad Robin Hood of the desert, who did good deeds.

A laugh in every line of the dialogue of "The Bad Man" is the boast of the producers, First National and Vitaphone, and, judging from the audiences' reactions, it is true.

"The Bad Man" is a great picture primarily because it was a great play. It is a distinct and novel story, abounding in laughs, and, under the guise of a Latin temperament, kidding serious minded Americans to the limit.

Walter Huston gives one of the greatest performances of his career in this picture. He is more deadly in character than was Holbrook Blinn's "bad man," but as such he is even more effective, and has lost none of Blinn's humor.

But great as Huston is in the part, he comes very nearly having the picture stolen from him by O. P. Heggie, the veteran character actor, who plays the role of the eccentric uncle in the wheel chair.

Shows tomorrow will be continuous and "The Bad Man" closes with last performances at the Holly tomorrow night.

PIONEER RADIO HOUR GOES OFF THE MIKE AFTER SEVEN YEARS

NEW YORK—(AP)—After seven years on the air, the Eveready hour is to retire from broadcasting.

Rated as a pioneer sponsored feature and credited with establishing many innovations in the building of radio programs, the last of the present series, which has run continuously since December 23, 1923, is to be discontinued Tuesday night, December 16.

While it is the plan to come back to broadcasting at a later date, the interruption in the feature recalls the numerous accomplishments of this program.

Not only was it instrumental in the origination of the chain idea of broadcasting, but it marked the establishment of the continuity idea in program building. It also is believed to have been about the first to adapt the drama for chain broadcasting.

Under the guidance of George Furness, whose voice as master of ceremonies was heard in many of the hours, such features as "He Knew Lincoln," "Show Girl," and "Joan of Arc" were presented. One of the earlier radio war dramas also was put on.
