

DODGE DEALER ATTENDS SEATTLE DISTRICT MEET

Clyde Eakin, who attended the recent Pacific northwest regional conference of Dodge dealers in Seattle, has returned home.

The Seattle conference was featured by the attendance of A. VanDerZee, general sales manager of the Dodge Brothers corporation, who, with a party of executives, is making a 10,000-mile trip to similar meetings throughout the United States.

Mr. VanDerZee reported that studies made by his company "lead us to believe that almost without exception from 85 to 90 per cent of the purchasing power of the country is intact."

"Everywhere we encounter dealers and men in varied lines whose businesses are holding their own this year against the records of any previous year. By analyzing the existing market, namely, the 85 to 90 per cent that is intact, and working it instead of bemoaning the loss of the small layer represented by reduced employment, the majority of business could be showing satisfactory returns instead of being in the dumps."
