MILAN WILL ESTABLISH AUTOMOBILE "CLINIC"
Milan—(AP)—"Health certificates for automobiles soon are to be offered in Italy for the first time. With the cooperation of the Royal Automobile club and the Milan club, a "car clinic" will be held exactly what their cars need, after a quick examination. Its advocates hope to popularize the idea in Italy, because there is much fast driving, and many accidents are due to faulty mechanisms.

FARM LUXURIES HELD CAUSE OF ARGENTINA ILLS

Petition Asking General Retrenchment Sent to President—Prohibitive Taxes Sought.

By T. S. Garrett.
Buenos Aires—(AP)—To automobiles and luxuries is laid much of the blame for depression in Argentina. A petition citing extravagance on the farm and asking general retrenchment has been delivered to Provisional President Jose F. Uriburu by brokerage interests of the nation. The petition was introduced at a stormy meeting in the Bolsa de Comercio, the principal stock and grain exchange, and was signed by half the gathering of 400. Prohibitive taxes on imported automobiles, motion picture and luxuries are advocated in the petition.

The present general depression is viewed as a correction of wartime inflation, and it is felt the situation must be met by lowering production costs. To enable Argentina to compete in world markets, workers are urged to accept reduced wages, railroads to reduce rates, and landowners to change lease rates. Automobile imports are particularly blamed for Argentina's 1930 foreign trade showing. The petition says Argentina's exports declined 27.1 per cent this year, while imports dropped only 6.5 per cent.

Besides constituting a large item of the imports total, automobiles, it is contended, cause farmers to lose time from their work, to spend money which formerly was saved, and generally to raise the cost of living.

FAMINE MAY HIT HORDES OF CHINA IN BIG PROVINCE

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The high cost of living has become an acute problem in the life of 25,000,000 or more persons in the west half of Szechuen, China's largest province. The present poverty-stricken condition of the territory is attributed to taxes, poor crops, banditry and the silver slump. There are so many taxes that farmers have little left after paying them. In many sections of the surrounding country peasants are confronted with possibilities of famine. The rice crop in Szechuen was less than 50 per cent of normal, although it was better than usual in most provinces of China. To forestall actual starvation as long as possible, soup kitchens have been opened in many towns and villages and they are kept more or less in constant use. The beggar population has managed to triple since the arrival of cold weather and a man with a prosperous appearance has no business on the streets unless he has enough copper coins to pass out among the crying, sometimes screaming mendicants who follow him. Foreign trade, like the crops and the tax-ridden farmers, has been hard hit. Business has fallen off heavily in the past six months and this once prosperous Yangtze river port has almost become a deserted city. This particular phase of the depression is attributed more to high taxes than the low price of silver. There are taxes for unloading cargo, taxes for moving goods from the dock to the merchants' shelves, a dozen different kinds of military taxes, an even greater number of civil taxes. By the time a box of freight reaches its destination, it is consigned to this city, it bears no less than 42 different tax stamps. Communism presents another problem. Discouraged over their present condition, the peasants are turning to communists to show them a way out of their difficulties. Dayville—John Day highway to be widened from Mitchell cut-off road at Rock Creek to this place.

MEN'S JOBS SOFT DECLARES WOMAN DRIVER OF TRUCK

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP) Mrs. Annie Boettger drives a near beer truck and likes it. Her husband who died several years ago, owned a small bottling works. Mrs. Boettger took over his business and her customers have grown quite accustomed to seeing her pick up a 79 pound case of bottles and toss it lightly onto her truck. "Say, a lot of men's jobs are soft compared to what any woman with a large family does," Mrs. Boettger said today, "and lots of housewives might find bricklaying a pleasant and easy change." Her real confidante, a friend, philosopher and critic is a cat, which always rides on the seat beside her in a basket.
