Today's attendance prize, donated by Walter Fraser Brown, was awarded to C. M. Kidd.

FARM BOARD HAS

PROVED REAL AID

The federal farm board has been a decided aid to the farmers of the entire nation during the present so-called business depression. R. G. Fowler, county agent, told members of the Kiwanis club in regular noon luncheon today at the Hotel Medford. If it had not been for the board, the farmers would have been receiving less than one-half of the price for wheat than is now being paid, he said.

Mr. Fowler returned recently from Chicago, where he had attended the national convention for county agents, and made a hurried survey of general conditions in the middlewest. The depression is causing far more worry for middle western ranchers than on the coast, he set forth, and is the main topic of conversation. President Hoover is looked upon as being a great man for the part he is playing in attempting to improve conditions and is credited with doing considerable good work.

The speaker dwelt at short length on climatic conditions of the Wisconsin and Illinois sections which, he said, cannot compare favorably with the Rogue River valley.

He told of visiting the "old swimmin' hole" which he found to be such an attraction as a boy, but found it was not the same old place. The thick protecting wall of brush had been removed and it would seem that boys now will have to don swimming suits to enjoy the cooling waters of the pool in hot summer time, he said.

The county agent found the old elm tree, on which he and other boys had carved their initials years ago, but the passing years had caused the carvings to disappear as a result of a new bark growth. With an axe, he removed the covering and again saw the initials, including those of boyhood chums who had passed away and those who had come to distant parts to make their fortune.

Among other things he noted the liquor situation. In Wisconsin, the problem of enforcement is entirely up to the federal government and as a result, the condition is not as satisfactory as it might be, he said.

A second speaker of the noun luncheon was Ben Sheldon, Medford and Los Angeles resident, who spoke on the importance of the school system to progress of any community. He stressed the arrival of new settlers as a great

HIGH SCHOOLS IN

STATE CONCERT

Tomorrow afternoon's concert will be directed by J. H. Newman, supervisor of the Tillamook school district, who is also chairman of the department of music of the state teachers federation, with the orchestra consisting of 67 performers chosen from schools at Oregon City, Rainier, Marshfield, La Grande, Dallas, Tillamook, McMinnville, Pendleton, Graham, Baker and Salem. The concert will be broadcast over station KGW.

Wheat Turned Into Pork

Brings Premium in Kansas City Market—Porkers Feed to Taste.

BEATRICE, Neb.—(AP)—A drove of "cafeteria fed" hogs raised near here offers proof that wheat may be turned into pork at a profit.

On a Beatrice farm, operated by C. J. Chausen, head of an Omaha company, 700 Hampshire hogs were fed a wheat ration which resulted in weight gains estimated to have made the wheat worth $1.15 a bushel, as compared with an average Nebraska farm price of 52 to 57 cents.

When the hogs were sold, the purchaser paid 2 cents above the Kansas City market price.

In feeding the hogs "cafeteria style," the largest of the self-feeders scattered over the lots consumed a pound of cracked wheat, a pound of cracked barley, and a still smaller one contained shelled corn.

The end of the latter was partitioned for a protein tankage. As a result of the feeding method, Chausen says, the hogs ate principally wheat and only a very small proportion of barley, corn and tankage.

It would certainly be tough for this country if we had to wait for the Wickersham committee to announce a plan to relieve the present depression.—Judge.
