Snow Was Here A Year Ago

At this time a year ago, Medford and the valley was blanketed under a covering of over a foot of snow, which started falling on January 4. The white flakes fell every day from the 4th to the 15th with the exception of one day. The snow covered the ground until January 23. The coldest temperature during that time was three degrees above zero and caused some work for local plumbers. So far this year, the minimum temperature has been only 18 degrees and came a short time ago. It is not thought there will be any local snowfall during the remainder of the winter.

Figure Is Too High

A mistake in figures is given as a reason why Ashland is given the population of 7164 in the recent issue of the Literary Digest since Ashland in reality has slightly over 4500 people and apparently was confused with Ashland, Pa., with its population of 7164.

Can Hear Distant Stations

Perhaps Dr. B. C. Wilson has one of the few radio sets in Medford on which an almost unlimited number of distant stations can be heard. With a mere twist of the dial, Dr. Wilson can change his music from Chicago to New York and back to Georgia or Louisiana. It is not much trouble to listen to Mexico City and hear the announcer reel off rapid Spanish lyrics. Later in the night or early in the morning, Japan comes booming in as loud as any coast station. When not in search of distant, any number of coast stations can be heard.

Once in London a man wagered that the public would not buy real gold sovereigns for sixpence each if they were offered at that price. He tried the experiment and the public refused to buy. America is doing that now.

There is a puzzle in Washington,

entitled "to hear or not to hear the Wickersham report."

Congress would like to know what Mr. Wickersham and his friends have to say about prohibition after such long sitting. When a hen has been on her nest for twenty-one days you expect to hear a chicken peep.

On the other hand, the interests that are our real government, don't want an extra session of congress. In their opinion the safest congressman is one at home, far from Washington.

They fear the Wickersham report, for it may stir up questions that will force an extra session.

What would you do in that puzzling

The price of the bar silver drops

When you impoverish 800,000,000

Sixty thousand cattle are slowly
