

Masked Longing

BY HOWARD ROCKEY A ROMANCE OF RADIO

SYNOPSIS: To impress Dwight Channing, a young man, Alleen, a professional model, wears an expensive, borrowed evening gown, which she has to give for an advertising photograph next day. A chance opportunity allows her to make everything all right. Later, at her studio, where he has taken Vivienne for day clothes, she reveals to him the contract to enter the world of fashion for a great new motion picture theater, and asks Vivienne to pose for her. She consents, after some hesitation. Meanwhile Alleen, Vivienne's older sister, who is a Broadway musical comedy actress, explains to her sister why she has agreed to do it. She says she has agreed to do it in order to get the money she needs to make a start in the business. She says she has agreed to do it in order to get the money she needs to make a start in the business.

BAD NEWS BACKSTAGE

Alleen glanced at her wrist-watch as she washed the breakfast dishes. Late as usual, Vivienne had departed in a taxi. Now Alleen would have to take one too, to get to rehearsal on time. It was just such little extras that ate up money so!

Luckily it was cooler. Alleen felt that she couldn't have stood another humid day. After her evening with Jimmy she had spent a restless night. She knew she must night. Alleen felt a sinking sensation, almost physical.

Fall clothes, coats, hats? Where were they to come from? It was not good business for an actress or a model to appear in outmoded things. They simply couldn't afford to look other than up-to-date. Certainly not when applying to managers and agencies for another job.

It was almost a miracle before Alleen fully grasped the situation. But her game little spirit refused to stay down once she knew the worst. She had the consolation of her modest nest egg in the savings fund. Small wonder the faces of some of the girls wore the mask of tragedy. To be let out at this season, when most of the fall productions were on or in rehearsal, was no light misfortune. Managers were retrenching too; putting on fewer shows. Had New York grown tired of being gouged, or just weary of the theater? None of which altered the adage that ladies must live—somehow.

Alleen had supposed their show was good for the winter's run at least. Now her calculations were all turned upside down. She could have cried if her pride had let her. Then in spite of her consternation, she smiled as she heard Daisy Lu-

Rollicking Comedy Opens at Holly

Scene from "The Life of the Party," a Warner Bros Production

Winnie Lightner, that exuberant whirlwind of human energy who plays the featured role in "The Life of the Party," the Warner Brothers and Vitaphone production now showing at the Holly theater, believes in doing things in a big way or not at all. According to the screen comedienne, there's no fun in just doing things halfway.

"If you must buy a house," asserts Winnie, "buy a big one. If you must have an automobile, get the best. If you have a desire to drive fast, find a good clean open road and make the accelerator pedal acquainted with the floorboard. And if you must sing and dance, warn the neighbors or hire a hall, but always do things with a punch if you do them."

Though Winnie's friends were apt to take her advice about doing things with a punch, they changed their minds when they viewed her newest household member.

"I'm only a puppy, but I weigh 125 pounds, and I'm pedigreed as a full-blooded St. Bernard. If you must have a dog," said Winnie, "have a big one. He's drive fast. Find a good clean open road and make the accelerator ped-

"New Moon at Craterian Today"

Lawrence Tibbett and Adolph Menjou, in a scene from "New Moon," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture.

The entrancing voice and engaging personality of Lawrence Tibbett makes "New Moon" great entertainment. This song, great which opens at the Fox Craterian theater today, surpasses "The Rookery Song" with its beautiful numbers convincingly rendered by the voices of Tibbett and Grace Moore.

Adolph Menjou is also a featured member of the cast.

Evelyn Brent in Fox Rialto Hit

Evelyn Brent and Robert Ames in scene from the Columbia Picture, "Madonna of the Streets."

An intriguing story with the fascinating Evelyn Brent in a dramatic role opens at the Fox Rialto theater today.

The story is novel, not one of those hackneyed plots. Max Fisher has been companion to Howard Crane for years, but has refused to marry him. Crane intends to bestow his wealth on her, which by an earlier will he has left to his nephew Peter Morton. Before he can change the document, he is killed in an auto accident. Knowing the money was intended for her, Max Fisher determines to get the money from the man to whom it was unintentionally bequeathed.

The pastor's hour, conducted by Rev. F. P. Schell, from 8 to 8:30, is greatly enjoyed by the young people, and well attended. All feel that a profit is gained here that cannot be gained in the society alone.

UPSTAIRS AND DOWNSTAIRS

Use it in washing delicate gingham and prints—note the freshness and renewed brightness of the colors. Yes, the heavy jobs, White King is prompt, thorough and effective.

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just give Tania the chance to do for you what it has done for millions.

COARSE FOODS

Cannot Cure CONSTIPATION

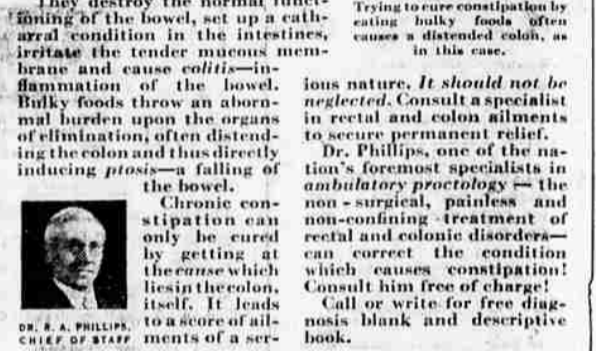

Many people suffering from intestinal stasis—delayed bowel passage,—abhor the use of laxatives and physives. So they consume large quantities of coarse, bulky food. They believe this is "a natural method" of stimulating bowel action.

Taken in excessive quantity, coarse foods are as harmful as the daily pill or physic!

They destroy the normal functioning of the bowel, set up a cathartic condition in the intestines, irritate the tender mucous membrane and cause colitis—inflammation of the bowel. Bulky foods throw an abnormal burden upon the organs of elimination, often distending the colon and thus directly inducing ptosis—a falling of the bowel.

Chronic constipation can only be cured by getting at the cause which lies in the colon itself. It leads to a score of ailments of a serious nature. It should not be neglected. Consult a specialist in rectal and colon ailments to secure permanent relief.

Dr. Phillips, one of the nation's foremost specialists in ambulatory proctology—the non-surgical, painless and non-confining treatment of rectal and colonic disorders—can correct the condition which causes constipation! Consult him free of charge! Call or write for free diagnosis blank and descriptive book.
