The nation-wide shortage of small game has reached such a point that it is being discussed in many sections of the country that sportsmen have taken protective measures in their own hands where state game departments found themselves legally helpless to act in the emergency.

In Missouri, where the quail crop is said to be less than 50 per cent of normal and the game department was powerless to close the season ahead of time, the state council of the Izaak Walton league placarded the hunting areas with notices asking all hunters to put up their guns voluntarily to save the birds from near extermination.

The shortage in Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi is reported to be so acute that emergency measures have been necessary. Several Mississippi counties closed their seasons early.

Virginia reported that the 1936 hatch of quail, including those that perished before reaching maturity, was not more than 25 per cent of normal.

The drought of last summer and fall and its dire effect upon natural food and cover were apparently the cause of the shortage in every case. The crisis has revealed the slender thread by which some species of game hang in this country, and emphasized the need for intensive programs of food and restoring game, and also of bird regulatory powers for game departments.

FRISBIE TAKES MAIN EVENT IN ARMORY DEBUT

Local Wrestler Pins Romano for Third Fall of Evening When Airplane Spin Fails.

Youth, ambition and a lucky break were the way for a victory over Jack Romano, Portland, by Ray Frisbie, Medford's fireman wrestler, in a finish match at the Armory last night when the local boy took the first and last falls in one of the cleanest bouts ever seen in Medford.

Ray took the first hold of the evening by clamping on a keylock. Jack broke away and took a toe-hold, following it with a head scissors. The wrestlers were meeting each other on even terms until after 20 minutes, Ray clamped on a Japanese arm-bar.

After a general exchange of holds, Romano used the headlock, after a series of which Frisbie was down and out and was carried from the ring. The fall came in 12 minutes.

After the match, Romano declared he was surprised at Frisbie's ability and when told Ray had won over 95 per cent of the 76 matches he has wrestled in the past 20 months, Romano was more impressed.

The special event, presenting Art O'Reilly, Eugene, 143, and Bobby Dunn, Echo, 143, was almost worth the price of admission itself, and ended in a draw, each wrestler taking a fall.

By Paul Michelson. SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Psychology is the thing in football.

Take it from Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's mighty little dynamo and field general. And if that isn't enough authority ask the southern California Trojans, the Tartans of Carnegie Tech, and a few other really great football teams who fell victims of one of the shrewdest football psychologists the pliskin industry ever has known.

There's no doubt but what we had a great team in 1929 and 1930, the square shouldered generalissimo of the Rockne Raiders said in backtracking those memorable gridiron campaigns.
