YES, BOYS, THEY'RE IN THE RUNNING—Here is an interesting contrast of the manner in which French and American girls prefer to take their exercise. Unafraid of scratches from twigs and brambles are the hardy French femmes, above, who are shown at the start of a grueling cross-country race just outside of Paris. Less strenuous is the exercise of the shapely California belles below, depicted taking the hurdles in practice for midwinter field day at Santa Monica, Calif.

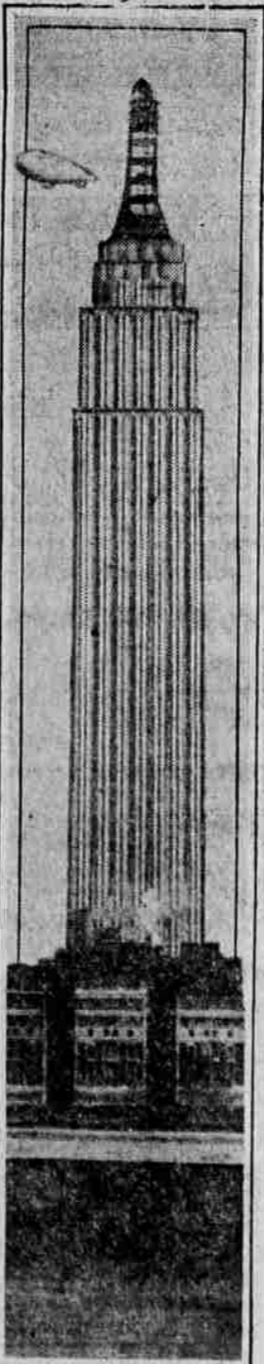

NO DENTIFRICE AD, these photos, but only the reaction of two happy girls. Adele Christhief, above, of Catonsville, Md., has been named baseball captain at Sargent school, Cambridge, Mass., and lovely Barbara Weeks, below, is elated because she's been given her first important role in the talks.

THE STEEL TAKING SHAPE in this striking photographic study represents the nucleus of a curve in Cleveland's great stadium which is being erected on the shores of Lake Erie at an expense of $2,500,000. When completed, it will have a seating capacity of 85,000, including 13,000 bleacher seats.

WHEN A BRIDGE GETS A LIFT—A sight rarely to be seen is one like that above, at Keizersveer, Holland, showing two freighters carrying a newly constructed bridge to its location. Of course, the tugboats helped out a bit.

THIS IS HOW YOU may be visiting a few years hence. A navy blimp is shown here cruising around the Empire State Building, in New York, to surmise the possibilities of the building's mooring mast, on which it is planned to attach dirigibles and discharge passengers.

LETTUCE DRESSING—And that's no joke, for charming Billie Stockton, above, of Los Angeles, Calif., is dressed entirely in lettuce leaves. This was her way of announcing for lettuce growers in the Imperial Valley of California that they're going to ship out 13,000 carloads of lettuce this season.

IT MAY BURN YOU UP, perhaps, but a little sun exposure for cute Catherine Frick at Miami Beach, Fla., is just dandy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Frick, of Newark, N. J., and is shown removing the upper part of her bathing suit to get a real tan to show folks back home.

SANT LAUS TO MEXICAN KIDDIES wears socks, sandals and a flowing robe. And (more's the pity) they have to call him Quetzalcoatl. He is shown here in the center of the picture as he appeared at a big holiday fiesta in Mexico City's National Stadium, where President and Mrs. Ortiz Rubio distributed gifts to poor children.

NO PLACE FOR A STRAY BATHER was Avalon Bay, Catalina Island, Calif., when the powerful speedboat Miss Catalina III and a big seaplane tested their speed in a unique race over the length of the bay. The seaplane won, so the judges say, by a fuselage length and a couple of propeller whiskers.
