

Shasta Quint Invades Ashland Tonight, Medford Saturday

CALIFORNIANS REPUTED FAST ORGANIZATION

Medford Squad Plans to Watch Ashland Game for Line On Ability of Both Quints.

The Mt. Shasta Union high school basketball team will play the initial game of its southern Oregon invasion tonight at Ashland against Ashland, and if they are half as good as their advance notices indicate, there will be evening and walling in these parts. Mt. Shasta will play the Medford team at the Armory Saturday night.

The Californians have been playing together for a couple of years and have administered terrific wallopings to all foes this year, and are regarded as state champion contenders.

The Medford team will engage in a light practice, and will probably see the Ashland-Mt. Shasta contest tonight. It will give the players a chance to see both teams in action.

The visitors are bringing along plenty of reserves, so they can throw their full strength against Medford. They are given a slight edge to beat Ashland, who had a hard time defeating Wood, which was overwhelmed by Mt. Shasta. The Lithians are also handicapped by a lack of reserves. However, they are due for one of their proverbial lucky streaks, and if Gill and Reeder "get hot," Mt. Shasta will have a struggle on hand.

A number of local fans plan to attend the game in the sister city.

SPECIAL EVENT ON MAT BILL SHOULD PROVE HOT AFFAIR

The last wrestling card in Medford gave local fans a chance to see what a red hot wrestling match a special event can be and are looking forward almost as much to the special event in next Wednesday's card as the main bout, presenting Ray Frisbie, local heavyweight, against Bonnie Muir, Australian-heavyweight champ.

Cecil Barick, colorful local welterweight, will meet Jack Brantano, the wild and tough miner of O'Brien, Ore., in the special bout next week. Brantano is hardened from work in the mines and is out to win. Barick has over 150 matches behind him with a record of at least 110 wins. Barick is in active training to be in tip top shape for the miner and is anxious for a victory in the 45 minute event to pave the way for other appearances here in the future.

Muir, the native Australian wrestler, has not been long in the United States and is anxious to build up a reputation. He figures a rapid win over the local boy, who defeated Jack Monahan, ring veteran, last week, will aid his coast standing. However, Frisbie has other ideas on the matter and thinks he can show Muir as much as he showed Monahan in their session, which went down in local wrestling history as one of the cleanest matches ever seen in Medford.

Muir has defeated Eddie Wirth, who appeared in Medford a few weeks ago, and took a speedy win from the Portuguese, Jacques Manuel, who gave Rob Kruse a good tussle at the armory last November. Crowley Ray is another man whom Muir is anxious to get good, in addition to a list of grapplers who have met him in Washington and in Portland. Muir has not been as far south before as Medford and has hopes of appearing here again if he gets over Frisbie. He speaks in a distinctly Australian brogue and is tanned by the hot sun of the antipodes.

The local wrestling aspirant is working out hard with the young giant, Eddie Demmer, and is doing considerable road work to be in perfect condition for Wednesday's affair.

GAMBLING HELD WORST MENACE FOR GRID GAME

Quarterback Star of U. S. C. Says Betting Will Cause Ultimate Fall Unless Halt Called.

By Paul Zimmerman, Associated Press Sports Writer, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Gambling, if you ask Marshall Duffield, University of Southern California quarterback and honor student, is the spectre which hangs menacingly over intercollegiate football.

Quiet-spoken, serious-minded Marshall, the blond giant whose broken field running so often stung terror in the hearts of his opponents, turned back the pages of three years' gridiron history and put his finger on what he believes to be the game's chief foe—betting.

"This, more than all the efforts of subsidizing, large gate receipts, and specialization, will in Duffield's opinion, send football to an ultimate fall unless a halt is called."

Duffield fits into the category of "youngsters" for he will graduate from the college of liberal arts with a major in economics in June, at the age of 21. Then he plans to continue his studies at Harvard.

So far as the game itself goes, Duffield firmly believes that psychology leads all other elements in accounting for victories.

"Take our one-sided victories over Stanford and California last season. It was the first time in many years that S. C. had beaten these two traditional rivals in the same season."

"We went into the Stanford game taweling like a bunch of kids, Coach Howard Jones had us keyed up to the highest pitch and after we got the jump on them we knew they couldn't win. They knew it also and that's why the score was 41 to 12. The 74 to 0 victory over California was the same thing."

Notre Dame Different.

"With Notre Dame it was different. The same keen rivalry of the California and Stanford games was absent. All Coach Jones could say to us was that Notre Dame had a great team; that the players were smart, and that Coach Knute Rucke was a good coach and a great sportsman."

"We couldn't get fired up about it, with the betting odds in our favor, and no sentiment back of the contest. Then when Notre Dame got that first break we just folded up."

Duffield is convinced that his biggest moment in a grid contest came in 1929 when Southern California defeated Stanford 7 to 0. He had been substitute quarterback for Russ Saunders for more than a year. But let Marshall tell it.

Nervous at Start.

"Coach Jones came to me about 11 o'clock that morning and told me I was to start. Of course I was excited and nervous. When the game got under way Stanford tried to advance the ball but failed, and then they punted."

"We had been told that their left tackle was a bit slow getting started, so I shot a play at him and gained about 30 yards. I tried the same thing a couple more times, and then I saw the secondary defense moving up.

"It looked like the psychological moment, so on the next play I threw a pass over the center of the line into the hole left by the full-back as he charged up, and Francis Tappan took it for a touchdown."

Carrier Gets Glory.

"As a result, they publicized me a lot for the tactics. It might have failed and then I would have been a chump."

So far as the game goes, Duffield believes that the chief factor rests in the fact that it is the ball carrier who gets all the glory.

"Take Stan Williamson, our center. He was the first one out for practice every day. He spends a lot of time in the summer practicing punting. He is so good that he can knock bottles off a fence-pole nine times out of ten. He never drinks or smokes."

"Yet his part in the game goes unnoticed and we ball carriers who have the path paved for us, get all the praise. I suppose it will always be like that, but it isn't fair."

With that, Duffield picked up his books and dashed off to an economics class.

at the state labor convention in Medford last fall.

He spoke for an hour against the proposed closing of the river as provided in a referendum measure voted on in November. He set forth many claims why the river should be kept open to benefit employment conditions in answer to an argument by Frank Applegate, local labor delegate, whose argument held to the regular time limit. However, Chenoweth was given several extensions to make full use of and much time as he needed. It continues to be a well known fact there is only a limited number of families realizing profit from commercial fishing, and this profit comes only in certain seasons. The remainder of the year, they are dependent on the produce of small tracts for subsistence. The money from fishing is quickly dissipated, and it is pointed out that monetary returns from the industry are small in comparison to the many benefits the entire southern Oregon section would receive if the river was closed to commercial interests forever.

A reader of this column made it known yesterday that he did not understand how it was possible to shoot a snake, as related in an anecdote of the Table Rock section the other day. The snake had been in a battle with a ranch chicken and probably would have won had it not been for the appearance of the kin of a girl watching the encounter. The reader, a frequent contributor to the news columns of the local press, said in his experience it was not an easy matter to kill a rattlesnake with one shot and he maintains that it was the proximity of the explosion of the shotgun or the rent air caused by the sibilant screams that brought about the death of the reptile by fright. However, due to considerable time that has elapsed since, it is probable the first story must be accepted unless other witnesses of the incident are found.

KARASICK AND MUIR WIN ON SAME CARD

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Al Karasick, Russian, headlocked his way to a five-round victory over Jacques Manuel, Portuguese, in a main wrestling match here last night. Karasick took two out of three falls.

In the semi-windup, Bonnie Muir, Australian, defeated Bill Donovan, Salt Lake city, with a single fall. They are all heavyweights.

LEATHER PUSHER MARRIES BEFORE START OF FIGHT ST. MARY'S TEAMS PLAY CENTRAL PT. HOOPERS TONIGHT

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The right hand of Eddie Anderson, Chicago lightweight boxer, was raised in victory twice in the same ring last night.

Anderson and Miss Fats Matthews of Omaha marched down crowded aisles in evening dress to the strains of wedding music and were married in the ring as "talkie" cameras ground away. Municipal Court Judge John Dattin read the service and then raised Anderson's right hand, audience token of victory in the squared circle.

Anderson embraced his bride and she bestowed a kiss upon embarrassed Billy Vaughn of Omaha, Anderson's opponent in the semi-windup bout. The bridegroom then stripped down to his fighting togs and punched out an eight-round victory.

The Central Point high school team will tackle the fast St. Mary's team from Medford, tonight in one of the most exciting contests to be played on the Central Point floor. The Central Point team has been practicing hard for this contest and it looks like it will be a hot one. According to the dope, St. Mary's has a slight edge, but it remains to be seen at the game.

A large crowd will accompany the St. Mary's squad from Medford, and from appearances the whole town of Central Point will be on hand to root their team to victory.

The St. Mary's girls will play the preliminary to the main game, which will begin at 7:30 sharp. Mr. Hayes of Medford has obtained to referee the boys' game. The referee for the girls' game will possibly be Rudy Simler of Medford, or one of the referees from Central Point.

The girls game will, no doubt, be a thriller, with the dope favoring the home team.

It is reported that a large delegation will come from Talent to support their scintillating proteges of the maple court. Phoenix fans will be present in force to do their bit toward the downfall of the Talent stalwarts.

TALENT AND PHOENIX WILL CLASH TONIGHT

Phoenix basketball team play Talent on the Phoenix floor tonight. Neither team has been defeated in the conference. Talent has three victories to its credit, while Phoenix has two.

According to the dope sheet, the

SAMS VALLEY TO PLAY BT. FALLS

SAMS VALLEY, Ore., Jan. 23.—(SpL) One of the most exciting basketball games played by Sams Valley was that with Prospect at that place last Friday night. At the end of the first half the score stood 6 to 0 in Prospect's favor, after which the local warriors came into their fighting spirit and gradually crept up until the game ended in a tie. The five minute playoff gave Sams Valley a victory by 13 to 14.

Frank Strans, local star, was handicapped early in the game by a wrenched shoulder and consequently accomplished but two field baskets.

Local fans are well pleased so far since their team has met no defeat this season, and is in good position for the district championship.

The local line-up of Friday's game was L. F. Frank Straus; H. E. "Red" Wilson; guards, Wesley McDonough, Russell Wilson, and C. Bill Dugan.

Next scheduled game is against Butte Falls at the local court tonight, which is expected to be one of the hardest fought games of the season.

BOWLING COLUMN

Phil Lounsbury had a field day in the Mail Tribune bowling match with the Telos last evening, toppling 629 pins in the three games, 246 of which were garnered in the middle canto.

The electrical wizards were unable to hit their stride, and dropped three straight frames to the newspaper outfit.

With Rod and Gun

By Ernest Rostel and Dick Green

Again comes that time of the year when duck hunters are reminded that birds kept in storage since the season was closed last Thursday are governed by a federal game ruling which prohibits keeping of ducks or geese in cold storage after January 25. Owners of such birds in storage are subject to arrest and a heavy fine. Deputy Game Warden Roy Parr announced today. A day or two after the deadline date, a thorough inspection will be made of all cold storage plants in the valley, as well as butcher shops where birds can be kept in preserving temperatures. The number of geese and ducks being held for future use is believed to be much smaller than in past seasons due to the general conditions in the valley and in the Klamath region, where ducks were hard to get.

Entire southern Oregon is behind efforts of proponents in the state legislature to have a bill passed to close the Rogue river to commercial fishing, and are hoping the state lawmakers will see the situation in the proper light to bring about the long sought closing, so narrowly lost at the general election last November. Press reports from Salem say that George Chenoweth is a principal in the battle against the passage of the bill. He is remembered for a long speech he made

DEMPEY SUFFERING FROM INFECTED HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A small cut on the fourth finger of his left hand has forced Jack Dempsey into the Polyclinic Hospital here for treatment.

Dempsey disregarded the cut as of no consequence, but an infection set in, swelling the hand to twice its normal size. Dr. Frank Brennan said the former heavyweight champion probably would be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become head-achy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action. Take a sandy Cascaert tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascaerts are made from pure cascars, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascaerts. 10c.
