An argument grew out of differences in descriptions of a jacquette worn by Miss Loucks, when she appeared to plead not guilty, Friday. Some said it was molokini, and some maintained it was laghiti. (Portland News)

The hair has started to bristle along the spinal column of local militarists, as France and Italy emit warlike growls.

Now is the time to spray for June weidlers, several of which have started to sprout.

The Portland Journal has received a letter from a faithful reader, who opines that present sad state of affairs is due to the "lack of basic money."

PHENOMENA. (Pendleton East Oregonian)

The old-fashioned Turkish cigarette is coming back, cork-tip and stem. The writer has often suspected that one of the Carpenter boys was still using them, but was never able to substantiate the suspicion.

A native of the area back of Trail showed up yesterday with a shoestring for a necktie.

Paris has decreed "formal and informal trousers for the modish woman." The first to wear them, will be those who look like the very dickens in them.

"The exertion caused Mace to faint, at the foot of the steps, and he was revived by his wife, who happened to be home." (Lakeview Tribune)

Mr. husband and myself got along fine, except when I got out along with other men which I think is my privilege. (Love Agony Column)

THE VICTORY OF THE HILL LINES

THE granting of the Western Pacific's request to enter San Francisco, via the peninsula, is a great victory for the Hill lines.

In our opinion this decision will greatly stimulate railroad enterprise on the Pacific Coast, and ultimately result in greater industrial and economic development in the Northwest.

For competition still remains the life of trade. With the S. P. and Hill lines fighting for Pacific Coast tonnage, the entire district and everyone in it, will benefit directly or indirectly.

THIS decision means the Great Northern will have a direct line from St. Paul to the Golden Gate, to compete with the Southern Pacific's direct lines from Portland to Ogden and New Orleans, via the same port.

Incidentally, this decision increases the likelihood of the Great Northern eventually building from Klamath to Medford and on to Crescent City, or some port in that vicinity—a consummation devoutly to be wished.

ADVERTISING THAT WILL PAY

THE OREGON JOURNAL is doing a fine service for Oregon, in running a series of attractive advertisements in "Time" and other eastern periodicals, pointing to the many attractions of this state, its climatic advantages, and the opportunities it offers.

In the current "Time," Medford pears and Hood River apples are featured, the Medford box reading as follows:

Medford is a fruit lover's paradise, and the orchardist's gold mine. Each year Oregon is twelve million dollars richer by its peaches, pears and apples.

Pears are a source of great wealth in Medford. Here soil, climate and expert culture combine to give them an unusually fine flavor and texture.

Medford's pear shipments will probably reach a total of nearly 4000 cars, before the crop is entirely cleared up, but 3370 fairly represents the eastern shipments to date.

THESE advertisements are not only excellent in themselves, but they come at a very opportune time.

Hard times in the direction of the rising sun have made thousands of people disoriented, thousands anxious to get out and settle where they believe material conditions will be better and KNOW climatic conditions will be.

The present writer has recently returned from a trip to the Middle West and would not be surprised to see a migration to the Pacific Coast and Northwest in 1931 and '32 comparable to that of 1909 and '10.

This expectation may not be realized, but certainly the psychological basis for it exists, and such publicity as the Oregon Journal is broadcasting at its own expense, will contribute materially toward that end.

A German has invented a light that will penetrate fog for three miles, and it is reported the General Electric has perfected a contrivance which will bring a disabled airplane down to earth without a crash.

A famous ad writer says any man can break the record by keeping at it long enough. That is especially true of the record for longevity.

Now there's a camera that takes clear pictures at range of 250 miles so the general staff can get some good action pictures next time.

George Bernard Shaw says socialism means work for everybody. He won't sell much socialism with that kind of talk.

Personal Health Service By William Brady, M. D.

WE WARMLY RECOMMEND SOME REMEDIES FOR COLD FEET.

Early in December a New Jersey reader submitted this timely and homely suggestion, and while I hadn't tried it personally I now do.

Another feature about this New Jersey idea that appeals to me is that the gallon jug at one's feet would solve that other gait problem, how to keep the weight of the clothes off your toes.

Youngish and middle aged people who suffer with cold feet often find an iodine ration brings about great improvement.

Mature persons who enumerate cold feet among the above little factors that prevent them from getting asleep should make it an invariable rule never, never to go to bed nights without saying their prayers and inflating their bellows.

If you have already permitted him to build up bad responses toward the nap situation it will be extremely difficult for him to change his behavior.

See to it that refusal to sleep, as shown by getting out of bed or other rebellious behavior, brings no rewards in terms of attention and exciting punishment.

Every time that he successfully resists the proceeding makes it that much harder for him to give in the next time.

movements and without straining or too much effort. The only effort is in the inflation of the bellows; deflation occurs purely from elasticity and calls for no muscular effort at all.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Nutrition Determines State of Teeth.

Parents of young children, teachers, guardians, and particularly prospective mothers, should write in for "Instructions for Preservation of the Teeth," which I am glad to mail to any one who asks for it and incloses stamped envelope bearing his address.

Exercise: The punishment a middle-aged man inflicts on himself when he slows up for want of a rest.

Publishers say most of the books are purchased by young people, which disposes of the theory that the mind doesn't grow after the age of 20.

Even now, however, you can find numbers of people who aren't out on bail.

Correct this sentence: "I don't want a boy spending money on me," said the flapper, "unless I know he can afford it."

Talks To Parents

HIS NAP By Alice Judson Peale Does your child really need a nap during the day?

Most children up to the age of five or six are definitely benefited by it, but there are some who get all the rest they need between 7 at night and 7 in the morning.

For children whose night rest is ample it is a real hardship to lie down for an hour or more in the middle of the day.

Before deciding that your child is one of those who need no daytime sleep make sure that you have done everything possible to induce him to sleep.

Let your child sense no doubt, in your voice and manner, that he is going to lie down and go to sleep. See that such routine matters as going to the toilet, drinks of water and so forth are attended to before putting him down.

Many pictures on the walls or toys lying about suggest activity instead of sleep.

See to it that refusal to sleep, as shown by getting out of bed or other rebellious behavior, brings no rewards in terms of attention and exciting punishment.

FIREMAN FRISBIE

Wrestling fans are looking forward to a big night Wednesday when Ray Frisbie, local fireman-wrestler, tangles with Bon Muir, Australian champion, at the armory in a finish match without time limit.

The special event will present Cecil Barrick of Medford and Joe Brantano of O'Brien, Ore., for 45 minutes. Muir has been winning his matches consistently and plans to give Frisbie a lesson, but the local boy is expected to surprise him.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY (From files of the Mail Tribune.)

January 27, 1911 Local plumbers and carpenters, consider refusal to work on new school buildings as contractors have no agreement with the unions.

Pavements are icy, and horses and humans slip and slide. Sportsmen infuriated by chain of legislative leaders. "There is something more important than the Rogue fish bill."

Surveyors for Valley Interurban line now in the field. Carload of ties arrive. Lee Jacobs, appoints Gus Samuels assistant city treasurer. Mr. Jacobs denies politics had anything to do with the appointment and declares: "While I am city treasurer, I will be city treasurer."

Let's find a Chinese dragon like you read about in books. Says Puffy: "I am curious to see just how one looks. We'll wrap it in a package and we'll tie it with a string. And we'll send it to the Herons with our thanks 'n' everything."
