

CAMERAGRAMS

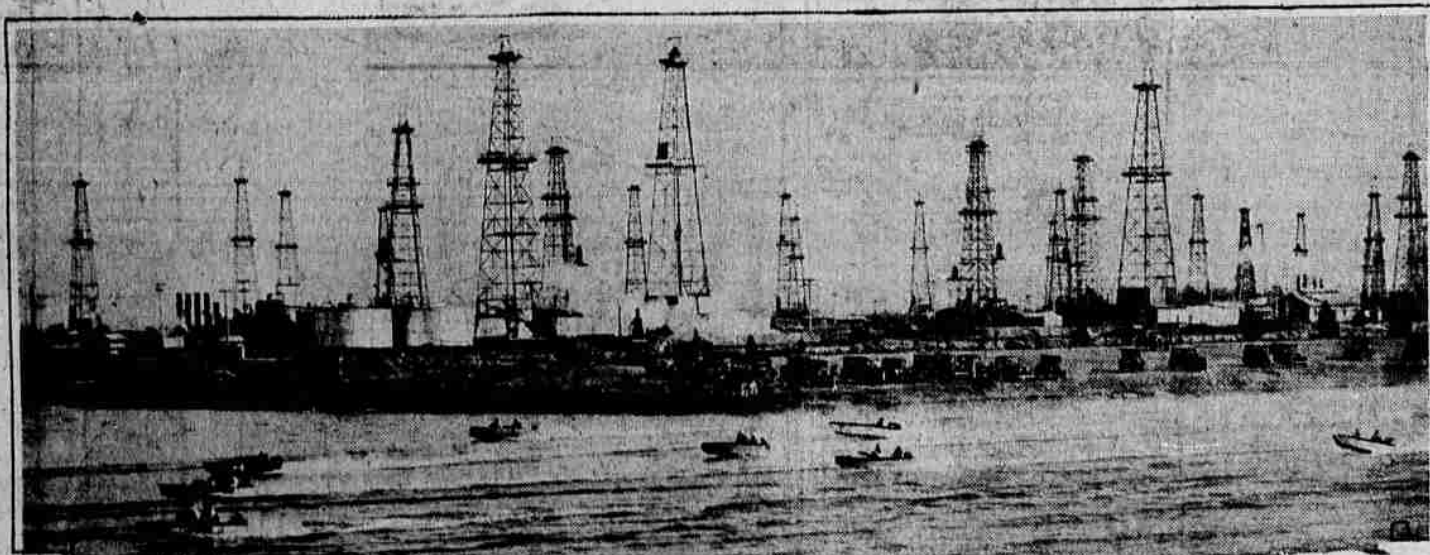

FOR PROFILES you must admit these are pretty hard to beat. The one at top belongs to charming Dorothy Mackaill, and the one below to lovely Bernice Claire. Of course both are in the movies.

THE STADIUMS MAY BE IDLE IN WINTER but the college boys don't lack for excitement in sports other than football, as these photos illustrate. At the left you see a tense moment in a basketball scrimmage between the players of the strong Manhattan College team, in New York City. Practicing headlocks and toeholds in the above photo are the young grapplers of the wrestling team at U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis. Below is part of the varsity track team of University of Pennsylvania going through their paces at Franklin Field, Pa., at the start of the outdoor training session.

WHEN THIS SEXTET CROONS you know you've heard something. These husky babes don't mind entering a baby contest, which is what they did in Los Angeles recently, but it's mighty embarrassing to be posing around like this with half your clothes on. They are registering disgust.

IT WOULD TAKE LOTS OF OIL TO QUIET THE WATERS after these speedsters dashed down the bay during the mid-winter regatta of the Long Beach, Calif., Power Boat Association. This striking scene shows contesting boats getting under way on Alamitos Bay as 30,000 looked on. The 100-mile race was won by William Gregory with the aid of his daughter, who acted as mechanic. Notice the oil derricks in the background.

WHO IS SYLVIA?—That's what everybody was asking when it was announced that lovely Sylvia Sydney, above, was to take Clara Bow's place in a forthcoming talkie. Sylvia is a stage star from New York.

HE'D BE MUCH HAPPIER, this husky Alaskan brown bear seems to say, if he could be on the outside looking in. It makes him feel better, at any rate, to stick his paws outside the bars. The big fellow is one of the attractions at the Woodland Park zoo, Seattle, Wash.

RAISING CANE FOR GRANDMA is getting to be a difficult task. Every year for the past 20 years Mrs. J. L. (Grandma) Heaton of Portland, Ore., has been presented a cane of candy, and each time they are getting larger. The one with which she is shown posing is 5 feet 4 inches long and weighs 30 pounds.

HE HAS A NOSE FOR NEWS, this cockatoo, and you can tell he is listening pretty eagerly to what charming Pearl Holly is whispering in his ear. The bird is Miss Holly's pet at Miami, Fla., where it is fashionable this winter to disport animal pets ranging from hogs to monkeys.

NOTHING SHORT ABOUT THIS SCOT!—Head and shoulders above his competitors was Joek McPherson, above, noted golfer, when he entered a recent golf tournament at Santa Monica, Calif.

HASN'T CHANGED A BIT, HAS HE?—Of course you remember Francis X. Bushman, matinee idol of the movies 15 years ago. Well, here he is, pictured in the dressing room of a Chicago theater preparatory to his appearance in a stock company play.

CAMERAGRAMS

