ROTARIANS ENJOY GRANGE MUSICAL TALENT AT MEET

Medford Rotary club enjoyed a splendid program this noon through the courtesy of Master Granger Henry Conger and members of the Jacksonville Grange. A group of vocal duets by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wendt was much appreciated and was followed by two horn solos by George Wendt, Mrs. Mabel Simms acted as accompanist for the musical numbers.

Mrs. Nellie Niedermeyer of the Jacksonville Grange made an excellent talk on present day conditions in the farm home as compared with a few years ago when the farmer's wife put in endless hours of toll and drudgery.

Today, thanks to electric service and the many modern labor-saving appliances, life on the farm is on a par with that of the city dweller and the farm women may enjoy the same comforts and conveniences as the housewives in town. This gives them the time for recreation and education which they so richly deserve.

Mrs. Niedermeyer paid tribute to the radio, which brings much entertainment and educational material to the farm home. The daily newspaper also contributes a great deal along these lines and enables the farmer and his family to keep abreast of the times. As a solution of farm problems, the speaker advocated greater cooperation between the city and country people with the latter giving their business to local merchants and the former insisting on home products.

Henry Conger, master granger, gave an interesting talk on farm conditions and reviewed the activities of the government along these lines. After two years of study and experiment, the administration has accomplished little if any good and it appears that it is up to the farmers to work out their own salvation, he said.

Mr. Conger advocated a more equal distribution of the tax burden which is proving such a serious handicap to farm operations and spoke of conditions he encountered on a recent trip in which he visited 13 states. The income tax and intangible tax were reviewed by the speaker, who stated that some steps should be taken to relieve the farm lands of carrying the bulk of the tax burden. "The city and farm must make progress together," said Mr. Conger in conclusion. "The city will not continue to go ahead if the farm continues to go back."

President Corn announced another farm relief program would be held in two weeks and invited all present to attend. Walter Leverette was in charge of today's program which made a decided impression on the large number of Rotarians and guests present.

In addition to the group of Grangers who attended today's luncheon there were the following guests: Howard Schreffel, Max Pierce and Wilfred Miksche.
