

JACKSON COUNTY WOMEN AT HOME MAKERS MEETING

The Child Development and Parent Education conference held in Corvallis last week was one of the finest conferences ever held in the state and was attended by over 200 delegates, according to Mabel C. Mack, home demonstration agent, who was in attendance for the three days.

The Children's Charter of White House conference in Child Health and Protection was read as the goal:

For every child such teaching and training as will prepare him for successful parenthood, home-making and the rights of citizenship; and for parents supplementary training to help them to deal wisely with the problems of parenthood.

A few highlights of the conference brought out the fact that many problems of discipline are due to lack of understanding and that discipline should be developed naturally rather than by force.

Recommendations at close of conference by organizations attending suggested that similar conferences be held in various parts of the state and that study groups should be organized in P. T. A., extension groups and other organizations for study of child development and child problems. A conference is being planned for Jackson county next October.

Homemakers from Jackson county who accompanied Mrs. Mack were Mrs. J. R. McCracken of Valleyview community club; Mrs. Effie Birdseye, Rogue River Civic Improvement club; Mrs. Lee Port, Applegate extension unit; Mrs. Carl Grant, Junior High P. T. A. of Medford.

The Jackson county delegation had the pleasure of broadcasting over KOA last Wednesday a brief report of the farm homemakers economic conference recently held in Medford.

The delegates all took careful notes of the conference proceedings and will be able to give detailed reports to organizations interested in child development and parent education.

FARM WOMAN BENEFITED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lickdale, Pa.—"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Finally our family doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches." Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pa.

MILK SHOULD BE ADDED TO WAFFLE BATTER GRADUALLY

This Method Insures a Smooth, Light, Lumpless Batter

Every cook knows that it is risky to pour all the milk at once into the flour when making waffles. In spite of vigorous stirring the batter will invariably contain lumps.

Coffee roasted in bulk also involves risk. Even the most skilled operator cannot prevent variation in the roast because the quantity is too large to handle. As a result, some of the coffee berries are overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes variation in flavor.

Realizing this, Hills Bros., in San Francisco, perfected and patented a process that roasts every coffee berry evenly. By automatic control, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters in which heat is also automatically controlled. When the coffee finally leaves the roasters, it is perfectly uniform in color and roast and gives a delicious flavor in the cup that no other coffee can equal.

No matter when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh and complete in its exclusive flavor and aroma as when it came from the roasters. This is because Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum—a process that takes air, which destroys coffee flavor, from the can. The ordinary air-tight can does not keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Hills Bros. trade-mark on the can.

Ashtland Musicals Draws Interesting

Several of the music lovers of Medford attended the musicale given Monday evening by the Ashtland Music Study club at the Presbyterian church of that city. Among them were Miss Alice Hanley, Miss Clara Hanley, Mrs. J. P. White, Miss Isobel Willide, Mrs. Montana Finckson and Mrs. E. E. Gore.

Numbers played by the little symphony orchestra of Ashtland were especially enjoyed by the audience. The efforts of the orchestra group to add interest to the cultural life of the Lithia city have recently won much praise. In the orchestra are three Medford musicians, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bolger and H. C. Durham.

Irving Vining, main speaker for the evening, gave an interesting analysis of the psychology of types of human being in relation to the music composed by people of various countries. Music is really an expression of national life, he showed, and the emotions of the different types may be learned through their music.

Other pleasing numbers on the program were a piano solo by Mrs. G. A. Teresco and a vocal solo by Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Ernest A. Woods presided at the meeting.

Benefit Program Given by Endeavorers

Many local people as well as members of the Christian Endeavorers from Ashtland churches attended the benefit program given by the senior Endeavor of the First Christian church in the church last evening.

A program consisting of readings by Rev. W. R. Baird, a piano solo by Miss Hazel Cassidy, a duet by Effie Herbert Yeoman and Mr. Getner and a marimba solo by Ruby Stone, made up the first part of the program.

"In Days of Yore" was the title of the musical pageant presented, with the following taking part: Misses Genevieve Brown, Ruby Stone, Sibel Jean Young, Helen Latham, Virginia Gregory and Geraldine Latham, Messrs. Harold Ge Bauer, Gerald Latham and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Olson.

Helen Norris Play To Be on Air Tonight

The National Broadcasting company will present over the western network the radio comedy, "Pop Goes Up," written by Miss Helen Norris, local authoress, tonight between 10 and 10:30 o'clock.

The play will be heard over KGV Portland, KIQ Spokane, KOA Denver, KSL Salt Lake and KGO San Francisco. Several well known NBC players will participate in the presentation, which promises to be very well done.

W. C. T. U. Plans Session for Thursday

All department heads are especially urged to attend the meeting of the W. C. T. U. tomorrow afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. building at 2:30 o'clock. Plans for the year's work will be outlined.

Grants Pass Banquet Very Colorful Affair

The annual public relations banquet held last evening by the Grants Pass Business and Professional Women's club in the groto of the Redwoods hotel, was attended by representatives of all clubs of the neighboring city and by a small delegation from the local Business and Professional Women's club.

The groto was decorated in keeping with the slogan of the banquet, "Arabian Nights." Oriental rugs and palms added to the colorful atmosphere. Menus and favors expressed the same Arabian idea.

The chief speaker of the evening was Mrs. Cella Gavin, attorney at law from The Dalles. She chose as her subject "Our Civic Privileges." Miss Martha Gaeb, state president of the Oregon federation, was also a guest speaker.

Representatives of the Lions club, Gaymen, schools, churches, Izak Walton league and other organizations of Grants Pass reported on the activities and plans of their organizations.

Miss Eley Walker, president of the Grants Pass club, presided with Dr. Olive McKay acting as toastmaster.

Music for the banquet was furnished by Miss Hortense Hough and Mrs. A. H. Knapp, accompanist being Mrs. C. H. Duer. A dance by Miss Monica Melkie was also enjoyed.

Members of the Medford club who motored to Grants Pass for the event were Mrs. Mabel Kitson, Mrs. Belva Alken, Miss Winifred Walker, Mrs. Edwina Weishaar, Mrs. Clara Spahn, Miss Margaret Kerr, Mrs. M. K. Chapman, Mrs. Leota Thompson, Mrs. Alice Copplin and Miss Clara Wood.

Mrs. Carter Hostess At Bridge Party

Mrs. G. E. Carter entertained in a pleasing manner at her home on Vancouver avenue on Tuesday evening with three tables of bridge. First prize was won by Miss Patricia Webb and the consolation by Miss Allean Maxwell.

Those present were Eldora Terwilliger, Priscilla Webb, Sara Van Meter, Mildred Aspinwall, Allean Maxwell, Nina Carlson, Eleanor Curry, Myra Russell, Flora Childers and Gertrude Watling, who was guest of honor.

Refreshments suggestive of Valentine's day were served following bridge.

derings over sharp rocks and desert sands. They were not even soiled and when she at the suggestion of a citizen went to spend a few hours at the local hospital, saying to the citizen, "That's not a bad idea," she was not even thirsty although it was the hottest day of a hot summer.

Her courage was intact like her slippers and dainty dress. She preached at a revival meeting that very night, in the open air of the fine park on Tenth street. Needless to say everyone was there and all joined in singing "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," referring to the nigger head mountain range.

Clergymen should come to Douglas and study the "church park idea." An entire block, opposite the public park, is devoted to churches only, one on each corner, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Episcopalian, with a fine little park in the center in which the clergymen take turns preaching, one each Sunday, while the other three rest or just sing. It is an idea that ought to be adopted everywhere.

The Catholic church, with a large congregation, is one block away, and the Mormon church nearby. No separate Christian Science church, but there are many. Meanwhile Christian Science meetings are regular, with earnest holdings of a "thought" that undoubtedly helps all the other congregations.

Clergymen coming to study the system will stop at the new Gadsden hotel, on Route 50. Mrs. Mackey, who runs it, will take good care of them, feed them well, show them marvelous specimens of copper ore, and the wonderful stained glass windows illustrating scenes on the desert, and old pioneer days. She has built that hotel big enough for a city twice as big. That is the way in Arizona, everything optimistic and with good reason.

John Crowell, cashier of the Douglas bank, deserves much credit for carrying through the Douglas airport, and Ygnacio Soto, president of the Douglas airport, for the airport extension on the Mexican side. It would have cheered your heart to see the Mexican soldiers clearing the mosquito wood, very hard to chop, from the air field land.

By the way, how strange are contrasts in history. By the Nigger Head mountain range that was Mrs. McPherson's guiding cloud of smoke and pillar of fire, Pancho Villa, the powerful Mexican bandit, came marching to the American border, on his way, as he thought, to conquer the state of Sonora.

But Sonora is a friendly state, believes in mines, farms, cattle, factories, good roads, not at all in bandits. The home of former President Calles is here at Agua Prieta, and here Villa met his match. Later he met Senor Barrasa, whose property had been destroyed and relations killed by Villa. Barrasa wedded peace for six days, with a few friends, in a house that Villa was sure to pass, sooner or later. Villa did not pass, he stopped there, never went farther. Barrasa stepped out into the road, opened fire and one of Villa's automobile party of six got away. It was not Villa.

When you come here, traveling along the southern border line, perhaps carefully ignoring the Mexican oases across the line at Agua Prieta, Naco, Nogales, Juarez and elsewhere, do not fail to see the Wonderful Rocks, 60 miles north of Douglas. The sharp, marvelously colored peaks are left standing by erratic erosion, as Setebos spared certain of the crabs.

They should be described in detail, and that is also true of things done by the vanished Apaches, things that made their extermination necessary, but this is long enough to annoy any managing editor.

An arrangement between Mexico and the United States, permitting troops of either country to cross the border at any time when chasing Apaches, made the extermination possible. Also the capture of their big chief Hieronimo. United States soldiers got him on Mexican soil.

If you weep for the poor Apaches, not one left alive. Ygnacio Soto, president of the Agua Prieta bank, will not weep with you. Apaches caught his grandfather, long ago, made him walk in his bare feet through cactus, after removing all the skin from the soles of his feet, then threw him over a cliff.

All of Senor Don Ygnacio Soto's sympathy for Apaches could easily pass through the eye of a needle.

For information about Douglas, in prospecting, or for any other future, write to A. G. Crouch, president of the chamber of commerce; to James Logie, owner, or John A. Curry, editor of the Douglas Daily Dispatch. A good newspaper.

When you cross to Agua Prieta, as you will do, call upon Mrs. Alice Gatliff, close friend of President Calles. She keeps a good restaurant and can tell you all about most things, on both sides of the border.

BUSINESS WOMEN MEETING TONIGHT FOR REVUE PLANS

A meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club committee will be held this evening at the Hotel Medford at 7 o'clock, to work on plans for the fashion revue which will be held at the Holly theatre next Wednesday afternoon as a feature of the annual spring opening in Medford.

The revue will be sponsored by the club, with the co-operation of all local merchants who supply feminine apparel to the southern Oregon public. The performance will begin at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and continue until 3 o'clock.

A large crowd is anticipated for the event as the Business and Professional Women's club was unable to accommodate all local people who wished to attend the spring revue last year.

Styles for this season are even more colorful and picturesque and offer wonderful opportunities for a stage revue.

Many charming members of local society will become mannequins for the afternoon to display in a natural setting the adorable wraps, jackets, suits, frocks, gowns and lingerie, which spring will usher into the local fashion market.

Hats with plumes, afternoon and Sunday night supper gowns, which are a bevy of lace, georgette and chiffon, will add to the revival of old-fashioned chivalry, which will invade the show.

A new elegance is expressed in spring creations without sacrificing the simplicity so necessary to modern sophistication. And this elegance will rule Wednesday afternoon.

White, which has taken the center of the fashion stage in country and town, will hold an important place on the stage of the Holly. All other colors of the rainbow in their latest subdued tints and variations will be present to share honors with white.

Costumes or sport wear, tea time, Sunday night supper and the more formal evening hours, as well as diaphanous creations for the boulevard, will be featured. And there will be pajamas for every hour of the day stealing a place in the spotlight of favoritism from their predecessors.

The Business and Professional Women's club committee, working on arrangements for the revue, is headed by Mrs. Mary Bierma. Other members of the committee are Jacque Lenox, Alice Copplin, Edwina Waishaar, Winifred Walker and Maud Chapman.

MEDFORD SINGER IN CAMPUS CHOIR

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—(Special.) One of the outstanding musical events of the year at the University of Oregon was the winter concert of the Polyphonic Choir, given recently, in which Robert Gould of Medford took part. The choir, under the direction of Arthur Boardman, of the university school of music, and accompanied by organ and piano, gave a spirited and powerful program which drew praise from all the campus and Eugene.

Mr. Gould, who sings first tenor, is a sophomore in the school of music. The program of the concert was varied, and the "Gallia," of Gounod, which contains the magnificent song of praise, "Jerusalem," was the most important number.

FEDERAL BUILDING UNDERGOES REPAIR

A crew of several workmen under Elmer Gattiders, who has the contract for patching up the federal building wherever it needs repairs, is at work on that structure making such improvements. Mr. Gattiders having been awarded the contract in competitive bidding some time ago with his bid of $175.

Uncle Sam is very particular about keeping his federal buildings spick and span and annually makes such needed minor repairs, which this time are mostly exterior ones, such as repairing the stone work, re-leading of the roof and fixing the window casings.

JACK EMORY PASSES IN MISSOURI HOME

Word has just been received by local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Emory, former residents of this city, that they have recently lost their son Jack, in his fifth year, following an acute attack of appendicitis in Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory have the reputation of a large number of friends here. Mr. Emory having been employed with the California Oregon Power company in Medford for several years.

Kotex protects longer... because it absorbs away from the surface

THE secret of Kotex superiority is really very simple. It absorbs five times more than cotton and it absorbs laterally, away from the surface, leaving the protective edges dry and comfortable. That's very important.

Because both sides are equally absorbent, there's no danger of possible embarrassment by wrong adjustment. Wear it on either side with equal protection, equal comfort.

Kotex is adjustable. You can remove layers of filler as your needs change. It deodorizes thoroughly by a special process perfected in the Kotex laboratories.

And, as you know, it is so easily disposable that millions of women would not think of returning to old-fashioned methods of sanitary protection.
