RIGHTS DEFINED OF CHICKENS ON STATE HIGHWAYS

HARTFORD, Conn., June 19.—(UP)—The State Motor Vehicles Department has no answer to the age-old question, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" but it has come into considerable research as to the chicken's right to cross the road.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has sought answers to these questions, often flattered by automobilists: "Has a chicken any rights on the highway?"

Is it a farmer's duty to keep his chickens within certain areas? If a motorist kills a chicken does he have to pay for it?

"The question is not so much one of law as one of proper intent and proper use of the dangerous machine with which the operator is entrusted," said Stoeckel. "It seems a clear moral duty on the part of every operator to exercise due care and caution for any domestic creature. It might be well to apply to animals the rules governing operating conduct toward children."
