BEER BARON OF LOZIER LANE TO SERVE OUT FINE

"I'm sunk," said Ted Pennington, 21, whose home is in Iron Mountain, Mich., and who came to Medford two weeks ago from Auburn, Cal., where he had been living a short time, as he was fined $50 and costs on a liquor possession charge in Judge Taylor's court yesterday for being the operator of the beer and moonshine dispensary on Lozier lane, raided by Sheriff Jennings and deputies Tuesday afternoon.

"I have but about $12 to my name, and know of no one to borrow $250 from."

The youth's seeming candor in court was refreshing as he promptly pleaded guilty, but his story that he came to Medford broke and a chance acquaintance, who owned and operated the illicit brewery for several weeks gave it to him and decamped from this vicinity as he feared that a bench warrant had been issued for his arrest, was looked upon by the court. Deputy District Attorney Nelson and the arresting officers with suspicion. In fact, the officials think that others were backing Pennington in his brewery venture.

Pennington claims that after the beer making outfit was given him free by the man who decamped, a Central Point man with whom he had become acquainted lent him enough money to pay a month's rent on the Lozier lane property which housed the equipment.

However, if the theoretical others backing Pennington do not come forward and pay Pennington's fine in the course of time, the latter need not necessarily serve out the fine in the county jail, as under a new state law a person who is convicted of a liquor possession charge can be paroled or pardoned any time after conviction, in the discretion of the authorities.

In the raid on Pennington's brewery the officers found 15 cases of beer and mash, empty bottles and complete equipment for making beer, and also a pint bottle of moonshine.

BOYHOOD FRIENDS ENJOY VISIT HERE AFTER 40 YEARS

School days, parties, teachers and sweethearts, known many years ago in Pennsylvania, have been recalled this week by Dr. W. H. Heckman and John Dunn of Juneau, Alaska, who met in this city Monday for the first time since they parted 40 years ago in the eastern state.

Friends of their boyhood days, the old swimming hole, and "pretty girls" in both went to see, "and there were many of them," entered their two days of reminiscences.

Mr. Dunn, who is now a member of the United States government service in Juneau, and Mrs. Dunn and their son Clarence, were guests of the Heckmans Monday and Tuesday and left yesterday for a trip through California.

Mr. Dunn is on a two months' vacation and while here enjoyed a trip to Crater Lake and various tours about the valley. Mrs. Dunn was unable to make the trip to the lake because of injuries sustained in an auto accident in Roseburg, in which Mr. Dunn and Clarence also figured.

Dr. Heckman and Mr. Dunn went through grade school together, were later fellow students at Pennsylvania Normal school and at Grove City college.

Give a thought to your spices and extracts. There are tremendous differences in quality—some things you would insist upon if you knew all of the facts.

Cloves Rich in flavor

Compare a spoonful of Schilling ground Cloves with any other. The difference is marked. Schilling's is dark brown in color. The other will be a red or yellow brown. Schilling's is so rich with oil that the tiny granules cling together in clots. The other will look dry and loose. Most ground cloves come in a sifter-top tin. But Schilling's is packed in a tin with a large opening. It is so heavy with fragrant oil that it will not shake through a sifter.

MUSTARD. A prepared mustard sauce with all the "zing" of the mustard flavor—but mellowed like a rare, old, snappy cheese. Prepared mustard sauce is being used in dozens of new ways in the modern kitchen—new ways that call for a new kind of mustard sauce. Schilling's is made according to an entirely new recipe. You have never tasted anything quite like it. It's as different as the wide open-mouthed bottle it comes in.

CINNAMON. Mix 1 part of Schilling Cinnamon to 10 parts of hot water. Do likewise with any other cinnamon. Dip a cube of sugar in each of these solutions and place on the tongue. Then YOU decide which has the finer flavor! The comparison is unmistakable, because Schilling's is made from the finest Saigon cinnamon bark—unadulterated with cheaper grades.

LEMON. Schilling Lemon Extract contains 3 times the amount of lemon oil required by the Pure Food Laws—3 times as much! And more than most any other you can buy. That is why it goes further—why it imparts a richer lemon flavor.

FATIGUE SYNDROME warns of Chronic Colitis!

Are you forever tired, listless, worried, depressed, nervous... lacking in pep, ambition and will power? If so, you are suffering a fatigue syndrome—a group of symptoms that point to fatigue of various organs—generally caused by colitis (inflammation of the colon). Chronic colitis always causes fatigue—muscular, mental, nervous and digestive.

Physical tire quickly of symptoms or mental labor. Power of concentration, memory and will power become weak. Indecision, irritability, nervousness and depression are noticeable. Pains in various parts of the body are common. Digestion is impaired—causing gas, flatulence, coated tongue, lack of appetite, dis-
