Embroidered Batiste for Summer

By EMMA LOU FETTA

A GOWN with the kind of bows which bring flocks of beaux was shown us the other afternoon at one of the leading American houses. It is illustrated above.

The frock was simplicity itself. It had a delightfully cut skirt and nicely molded bodice. Interest and charm resided in the delightful texture of the material—an example of the softest kind of durable cotton. The subdued luster was at once rich and restrained.

Then there was the pert bow. We can see any number of girls clamoring for this dress for no other reason than its utter charm. However, there might be other reasons for this frock can be put in the laundry with assurance that it will "come through" fresh, crisp, and dainty as ever. That is, of course, if your laundress is capable of giving reasonable common-sense care to her duties. A very commendable feature of many of these new durable cottons is that they may be successfully laundered with obvious financial saving to their owners, an item not to be overlooked since summer frocks must be kept so immaculately fresh.

DUMP NO GRAIN WHILE CROP IN MOVE TO MART

Watson Announces Policy of Board After Conference — Middlewestern States' Appeal Is Given Attention

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) Senator Watson is confident the farm board will not "dump" stabilization wheat while the 1931 crop is moving to market.

The Indiana Republican senate leader, said today, after conferring with the farm board, that this was plainly indicated in its recent reaffirmation of policy.

Earlier, Chairman Stone of the board had conferred with President Hoover. Nothing as to the nature of their discussion, however, was forthcoming.

Mid-West Appeals.
There have been numerous appeals from the mid-western states for an announcement by the board that it would withhold from the market for a fixed period the wheat it acquired during its stabilization operations.

Such action, it was argued, would prevent the estimated 200,000,000 bushels held by board agencies from depressing the prices of the new crop now coming into the market.

Senator Watson presented Chairman Stone with another such plea today.

If the change is made, however, he will continue with the company, according to present arrangements.

COUNTY AWAITS STATE MOVE IN CARE OF WARDS

The county court today was awaiting the next move of the state board of control in its recent ruling that counties would have to pay for the care of state institution inmates. For this county it will amount to approximately $11,000 a year, in monthly payments.

As there are no funds on hand for this purpose, and the county court is under close financial scrutiny, it presents quite a problem.

It is understood that several up-state county courts have asked the attorney general for an opinion whether the sums are payable now or after the first of next year.

The funds were heretofore paid by the state from the taxes of each county, but the new ruling shifts the burden to the counties, which made no provision in the budgets for the expenditures.

Wedding Bells

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor was the scene of a pretty wedding last evening when their daughter, Ardath Hope became the bride of Orville Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Blair. The ceremony was read by Elder Langberg, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church.

The bride who was attired in a gown of orchid, carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Her maid of honor was Miss Blanche Smith and little Arline Langberg acted as flower girl. Bertram Marhaugh was the groom's attendant.

Mrs. Calendar, aunt of the bride, played the wedding march and Earl Clymer sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for a wedding trip south and will be at home to their friends at 1122 West Eighth street about July 10.
