OREGON'S PAIR TOUTED TO WIN IN SEMI-FINAL

Dolp Going Good in Amateur Test — Dentist Reveals Staying Powers by Defeat of Johnny Shields

By Frank G. Gorrie, Associated Press Sports Writer.

TACOMA, Wash., June 26.—(AP) The 1931 Pacific Northwest amateur golf championship teetered in the balance over Portland, Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., today, with four golfing Aces of the three cities competing in the semi-finals of the annual tournament here.

Portland was represented by Dr. O. F. Willing and Frank Dolp, former champions and veteran artists at the game, while Vancouver's hopes lay in Freddie Wood, former British Columbia title, and Seattle backed Alec Duncan, semi-finalist last year.

Willing plays Duncan. Willing was pitted against Duncan and Dolp was matched with Wood in the 36-hole contests today to decide the finalists who will battle it out tomorrow for the coveted crown.

California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia were represented in the 18-hole semi-finals in the women's division.

Mrs. B. E. Eya, Portland, was meeting Mrs. Brent Potter, San Francisco, and Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver, defending champion, was tangling with Miss Hilda McAulhin, Seattle.

Willing and Dolp were heavy favorites to advance at the expense of their youthful opponents, largely because of their greater experience. Willing, however, had considerable trouble in his earlier matches and Duncan's friends expected him to at least put up a close fight.

Dolp in Form. Dolp apparently has been on his game as he won his three previous contests by big scores and he was not figured to be too hard pressed by Wood.

Willing yesterday came from behind to defeat Johnny Shields, Seattle, 3 and 2, and Dolp eliminated Harold Brynjarsson, Victoria, 7 and 6. Duncan downed Bill Cox, Tacoma, 6 and 5, and Wood conquered Jimmy Bushong, Portland, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Hutchings and Mrs. Eya were favorites in the women's matches today. The two feminine players met in the final last year and it would not surprise many if they should match clubs again tomorrow for the title.

In yesterday's play, Mrs. Eya defeated Mrs. F. J. Shaneman, Tacoma, 7 and 6, Mrs. Potter downed Mrs. Guy Riegel, Spokane, 1 up; Mrs. Hutchings eliminated Mrs. Everett Origa, Tacoma, 3 and 1, and Miss McAulhin beat Mrs. J. D. Gilmore, Seattle, 7 and 5.

HOLLYWOOD WINS 3 IN ROW FROM NEIGHBOR ANGELS

(By the Associated Press)

The baseball team from Hollywood won't let Los Angeles in the picture. The series between the neighboring teams ended in the sixth third straight victory last night as they romped on the Angels 3 to 1. While the Stars were making nine runs and nine hits, Bray held the Angels to seven hits and his teammates held them scoreless for six innings.

In the only other Coast league game last night, the Mission Reds defeated San Francisco's Seals 9 to 6. Ninth starting pitchers were driven from the box in the first inning. The Seals led the score in the third and then Caster, who had replaced Zahnleer for the Reds, won his own game. In the ninth he singled and scored on a Seal error plus a single by his team mate Stilligan.

HANDS DISABLED, BOXER FIGHTS ON

(AP) Archibald Kovich, 147½, San Francisco, lost to Joe Cortez, 150, Boise, by a technical knockout in the seventh round of their 19-round main event here last night when he broke both of his hands. Kovich broke his left hand in the second round, but continued fighting until the seventh when the battle was stopped by the referee. After the fight Kovich discovered he had broken his right hand, but did not know when it happened.

FLYING FINN TO ENTER REGATTA AT SAVAGE DAM

Each day brings news of another boat to be entered in the races at Savage Rapids dam Sunday. Local enthusiasts are excited today. One of the most colorful drivers in the race game in Oregon is tuning up his motor and will be on the water ready to give the southern Oregon boat loving public a real treat. He's the Flying Finn of Astoria.

George Hurley and the Golden Slipper, who are known to all followers of racing events in this city, will also enter the Sunday contests. Hurley will be accompanied by his partner, John Flirstein, who is present northwest champion.

Rivalry has been keen for some time between Hurley and Heine Fluhrer, and the Sunday race threatens to take on some interesting angles and spills as Hurley does not plan to surrender to the Dutchman.

Some of the best talent on the coast in the realm of outboard motorboat racing is promised in the lineup, offered in southern Oregon waters for the first time. A large crowd is anticipated for this reason and preparations are being made to care for all by the Southern Oregon Boat Club.

One of the most interesting features of the afternoon will be the women's race. Several out-of-town fans are expected to join in this contest and the local boating femininity is resolved to let no laurels leave this city.

The spills and thrills of the day will be interspersed with swimming events and punctuated with surfboard riding contests, which promise to kick up as much foam as the fastest boats.

'HUNK' ANDERSON VERY SICK MAN

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 26.—(AP) Dr. C. J. Barborica, Mayo clinic physician, today said indefinite diagnosis showed that J. C. "Hunk" Anderson, Notre Dame senior football coach, was in a serious condition.

Dr. Barborica said that while tests had not proceeded far enough to determine the exact cause of severe headaches, from which Anderson has been suffering since late May, a serious head condition was indicated.

EUGENE SPORTSMAN HEARS DEATH CALL

EUGENE, Ore., June 26.—(AP)—William W. Branstetter, 58, Lane county coroner and resident of the county all his life, died in a hospital here last night. He was coroner of the county for eleven years. Branstetter was one of the better known sportsmen in the state and was widely known throughout the northwest as a trapshooter. He was a past president of the Lane County Sportsmen's association and of the Eugene Gun club. He had been ill several months.

ANGLERS HEAR CONDEMNATION OF POLLUTION

Allen and Wharton Enter Pleas for Modern Sewage Disposal Plants at Annual Banquet of Sportsmen

A plea for construction of modern sewage disposal plants in all cities adjacent to streams of Oregon was voiced last night by Wilfred Allen, state president of the Izank Walton league, and Joe Wharton, president of the Grants Pass branch of the league, before approximately 100 sportsmen gathered at the Hotel Medford for the annual banquet of the Jackson County Game Protective association, at which Dr. P. G. Thayer of this city presided. Klamath Falls, as well as Grants Pass was represented by delegates.

Spilling of pollutants of rivers and other streams, resulting from present day sewage systems, Mr. Allen described the Willamette river as practically unfit for fishing, swimming and other sports. The Rogue has not been harmed, but steps must be taken to avoid pollution.

Hope for Medford. Grants Pass has already arranged for the construction of a new plant and Mr. Allen stated. It is hoped that Medford will take the proper action in this direction at the coming election.

Need for a central organization of sportsmen was also emphasized by Mr. Allen, who informed his audience that a meeting will be held in Salem July 25, for the purpose of advancing such a plan. Under the present system, he pointed out, the various organizations of the state present "57 varieties" of wants and the members of the game commission, unable to grant them all, become confused and ignore many of them.

Charles McClees, new state game warden, spoke in favor of the state police bill, asking the sportsmen to give the measure their support. Although the details have not been worked out he assured them that they will get a fair deal under the new program.

The new game commission is undergoing many changes and definite plans for conservation are being included in the 10-year program, now being outlined, Mr. McClees said.

Game Farm Looms. Hope for a permanent game farm in southern Oregon was advanced by Gene Simpson, superintendent of state game farms. The climate in the Rogue River valley is most favorable for bird propagation than the Willamette section, Mr. Simpson said. It is especially suited to the raising of Hungarian partridges.

Little poaching is going on at the lower Rogue, Mr. Wharton informed the fishermen and the low water last year brought some benefits to it. Many fish spawned in the river instead of seeking the small streams.

Plans for construction of the new Butte Falls hatchery were reviewed by Bert Noblitt, secretary of the Jackson County Game Protective association. The new hatchery will be used for trout hatching alone, with the possibility of hatching a few silver side eggs. Contrary to local opinion the Rogue Elk hatchery will not be moved, but maintained in the present location for salmon hatching. Butte Falls will take eggs from Applegate, which have previously been shipped to other stations of the state because of inadequate facilities for caring for them.

Get Rainbow Trout. Many thousand rainbow trout have been received by the Jackson County association from Utah. They will be planted here. Eggs have been traded with the Applegate and other hatcheries.

T. E. Daniels, vice-president of the Jackson County association, deplored the fact that a local paper and the Portland press have depicted erroneous articles regarding destruction of fish at dams in the river and losses in irrigation ditches. Sportsmen who do not attend meetings to find out what is going on. The California Oregon Power company, Mr. Daniels stated, has maintained a co-operative attitude and will do everything possible to aid the needs of conservationists. Plans for screening the upper river and work done at Gold Ray dam this week were described.

Indications all point to closing of the river following the 1931 election, Mr. Daniels said. Invaluable experience was gained in the last election and will be utilized by the sportsmen in carrying on the coming campaign.

Sell Out-of-Doors. Earl Fry of the Dupont company asked all anglers and hunters to impress merchants with the importance of recreational possibilities in Oregon. Washington, he stated, is selling her out-of-doors to the nation through the chamber of commerce and Oregon must do the same.

Last year $6,350,000 was paid into the state through this channel. There were 137,900 fishing and hunting licenses sold in Oregon. Mr. Fry entertained the crowd with motion pictures of big and little game. Many interesting views of the moose and birds of Michigan, as well as Hungarian partridges in Oregon were included. M. J. Barnes of Klamath Falls presented the problems with which sportsmen of his locality are forced to cope and named the pelican as the most serious one. This destructive bird is protected by law and proceeds to gobble up the fish in great numbers. The upper Klamath lake is being surveyed to determine the advisability of planting big mouth bass, he said, and it is thought such a plan will meet with success as the chubs now inhabiting the lake will furnish food for the bass.

Reports from the recent British women's golf championship, played at Portmarnock, Ireland, and won reasonably enough by the powerful Miss Enid Wilson, indicate that British women are becoming civilized at a considerably more rapid pace than British men. That is viewed from an American golfing standpoint.

BILLY PETROLLE PUTS ARGENTINE OUT OF PICTURE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP) Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express," has belted Justo Suarez of the Argentine right out of the lightweight championship picture.

Fargo Billy, who never has learned the meaning of the word "retreat" and is as ignorant of the gentle art of holding, slugging Suarez all around Madison Square Garden's ring last night and finally knocked him out in the ninth round.

A crowd of 9000 looked on in excitement as Petrolle got the jump on the South American, felled him twice for short counts in the opening round, weakened him badly with terrific smashes to the body during the middle stages of the fight, and then finished him with a flurry of blows after a minute and 51 seconds of the ninth round.

The net result was to remove Suarez temporarily at least from consideration as a lightweight challenger and probably to earn for Petrolle a "shot" at Tony Canzonera's 135-pound crown.

With the single exception of the second round, it was Fargo Billy's fight all the way. He bobbed and weaved away from almost all of Suarez's wild swings, outsmarted the rugged South American at close quarters and used a deadly left hook to the body with telling effect.

Another Big Southern Oregon Boat Club Meet

SPORT PLANTS

Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor, discusses the 'double spinner' and other sports news.

Knute Rockne was missed by the "game" at Poughkeepsie this year. The scene of the intercollegiate regatta long has been a focal point for the gathering of the class, closing college athletic year, and "Rock" was a central figure there in the smoke-filled halls of argument in 1930.

The fact is that it is difficult to tell whether a boat race or a football game is coming off on the day following the chin-fests in the Nelson House. Crow racing seems to have a special fascination for gridiron coaches. Some of them, of course, such as Ed Leader of Yale, were football men as well as oarsmen in college.

Rockne did not lack for an audience when he and Jack Chevinsky used this correspondent's quarters a year ago for a detailed explanation of the "double spinner" that the great Knute kidded the boys about but never actually used on the field.

My own idea was that Rockne used the "double spinner" for the double purpose of sending up a smoke-screen as to his own plans and to josh the advocates of the Warner system featuring the spinner.

Rockne called the turn on Cornell a year ago, although he admitted: "This rowing fascinates me, especially because I don't know much about it. But I can tell a crew that has the physical stuff in it."

After Cornell had won its first big race in 15 years, "Rock" emphasized the effect it would have in restoring keener athletic spirit in the university. Had Rockne lived to visit Ithaca this spring he would have noted the fulfillment of his prediction. The revival at Cornell has been most marked since Jim Wray brought the Big Red rowing back to its former high place.

"Pickle" Racing. It is unfortunate that the crowds attending the Poughkeepsie regatta do not have a chance to witness the popular contest known as the "pickle race."

This is viewed off on the day before the championships. The participants are assistant coaches, substitutes, waiters or hangers-on who know how to handle an oar. The prize is a jar of pickles. The battle could be no more furiously fought if the blue ribbon of the regatta was at stake.

Cornell's "pickle boat" was this year's winner and the Ithacans were the terror of the river before championship day. The Red "picklers" took their training seriously, for one thing, and harassed the regular crews day after day with offers of a race at any time under any conditions.

These Ithacans-at-large rowed about, looking for exercise and trouble. They took on the Navy pickles, beat them, and then tackled the Wisconsin varsity just as the "picklers" were out for a "secret" time trial. As a crowning insult, the Cornell "picklers" offered to replace Pennsylvania's varsity in the main race.

The "pickle race" has become an institution and if the stewards of the rowing association ever decide to extend the regatta program a day or two, to spread out the competition, they have a ready-made preliminary "crowd-pleaser" as the fistic boys would say.

CARD FIELDS STEALS HOME TO WIN GAME

Spectacular Dash in Seven Frame Robs Dazzle Shutout—Philadelphia Lead Shrinks to Game

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer) George Watkins, brilliant young St. Louis outfielder, stole a game at Brooklyn yesterday. The Cardinals were battling on even terms with the seventh inning and D. Vanace had not allowed a run since each first in his duel with Derringer. Then Watkins, the first man to face Vance, bled a run and sent him to third. As Vance threw to first to hold Derringer on the sack, Watkins streaked home and slid in for a perfect score of the base and the game.

Watkins allowed only one more run but Derringer kept the Robins blows scattered and proved Brooklyn scoring.

Cardinals Gain Game. Watkins' feat enabled the Cardinals to gain a full game on their lead over the Yankees and the Chicago Cubs were on the verge of a 4 to 3 score in a 5th inning duel with the Boston Braves.

Clyde Dudley turned in another fine pitching performance, holding Pittsburgh to five hits in four National league game with the Phillies pounded out a 5-1 victory. Chuck Klein's 19th home run featured.

Threaten Philadelphia. The sudden rejuvenation of St. Louis Browns and the steady play of the Washington Senators in the American league were combined to reduce Philadelphia's lead to a single game. The Browns won two games from the Athletics, winning the first 6 to 5 and second 8 to 5.

The Senators, held to four by Vic Sorrell, defeated Detroit 3 to 2.

The New York Yankees won a home run spree with Chapman in the lead to take the games from Chicago. Chapman hit for the circuit twice, winning the opener 10 to 9 with a ninth-inning homer after Babe Ruth clouded his 16th four-bagger.

Lou Gehrig his 17th. George M. St. Louis Browns and the steady play of the Washington Senators in the American league were combined to reduce Philadelphia's lead to a single game.

The Boston Red Sox made two straight over Cleveland and their series on even terms, winning 8 to 3.
