DOLP BEATS DR. WILLING FOR TITLE

Mrs. Brent Potter, Palo Alto Gains Women's Title In Torrid Battle—Portland Golfers Stage Close Battle—Winner Putts Phenominally.

By Frank G. Gorrie (Associated Press Sports Writer) TACOMA, June 27.—(AP)—She must be a half sister of a second cousin of "Calamity Jane," for she worked with all the cunning of Bobby Jones' old faithful putter to give Frank Dulp of Portland the Pacific Northwest amateur golf championship here today and upset any plans his opponent and fellow townsman, Dr. O. F. Willing had of squaring the account by handing him three weeks ago.

Dulp jumped ahead at the second hole this morning and he steadily increased his lead throughout the scheduled 54-hole trek to win the northwest title for the second time, 8 and 7; he was previously victorious in 1929. The women's title was carried off to California when Mrs. Brent Potter, Palo Alto, upset the dope to nose out Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver, B. C., 1929 and 1930 title. Two up, in a sensational golf battle over the Jey Hole route.

The two women were all square at the half way mark and Mrs. Hutchings led, one up, at the 27th. Mrs. Potter, however, forged ahead on the last nine hole stretch and squeezed out victory at the last.

Dulp purchased the putter in a department store for $2.95 when he first took up the game four years ago and it repaid him today with a single putt for each year he has had it. Fourteen times, Dulp ran down putts from four to twenty feet to halve or win.

He pined up five birdies and one eagle during the 19 holes. Dicking the sand this morning and filling his bag with the "birds" this afternoon to finish four under par for the day.

Dulp had an even par 71 on the first 18 and burned up the Pacer course this afternoon in par-shooting figures. Willing had a 75 this morning and was one over par on the other eleven holes.

Dulp won eleven holes while Willing captured three out of the twenty-nine. The new champion gained a four hole lead before lunch and then romped away with the match this afternoon, winning five to Willing's one.

Willing had been pleased last night with the opportunity of meeting Dulp again, hoping to make up for a 13 and 12 defeat he suffered at the hands of the Portland boy in the semi-finals of the Oregon state amateur tournament earlier this month.

The victory gave Dulp a four to two lead over Willing, the pair having met five times in the past, with the veteran winning two of the battles.

Dulp started his phenomenal putting spree with a 16-footer for an eagle three at the par-five seventh this morning, and the hole he hit the hole in three strokes, gasping with amazement the rest of the day.

No single putted the 12th, 13th, 14th and 16th from four to six feet to leave the holes in par with the doctor. The 15th looked like a victory for Willing when Dulp was six feet away and the veteran only three feet, but again the new champion sent a curler into the cup and it shocked Willing so much that he missed his shot and lost the hole.

Dulp started out the afternoon rounds by one-putting the 19th and 20th and then added four more to his string at the 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th.

The only hole Dulp's "chomp" club failed him was at the 27th when he missed a three-footer for a birdie three, but he didn't have to sink it for Willing had already taken five.

Frank plunked another down from seven feet at the 28th hole with the wind blowing the ball down as it hung on the lip of the cup for nearly a minute. Willing was just ready to put when Dulp's ball began to quiver and as he raised up to watch it the ball fell into the cup. Willing then proceeded to sink his putt from six feet to halve the hole in birdies.

Dulp then wound up the contest in a still more sensational style by poking a 20-footer straight into the hole for a birdie three to give him the championship on the 29th.

RYDER CUP IS REGAINED FOR AMERICAN GOLF

Hagen and Crew Down British Pros By Series of Quick Wins—Farrell's Defeat Upset of Meet.

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, Columbus, Ohio, June 27.—(AP)—Walter Hagen's home-bred squad of professional golf sharpshooters completed the rout of the gallant British forces today and restored the Ryder cup to American custody for the next two years.

Under a scorching sun, whose rays only partially were offset by a fresh breeze, the Americans blazed their way to victory in six of the eight singles matches and captured the series by the final score of 9 to 3.

The home-breds had taken three of the four Scotch foursomes yesterday and they settled the issue quickly today with an brilliant display of golfing fireworks as the competition has ever witnessed.

Hagen had the honor of bringing home the seventh and deciding victory when he vanquished the rival British captain, Charles Whitcombe, 4 and 3, in the feature match that attracted the interest of most of the gallery of 12,000, including Bobby Jones.

It was the climax of a series of quick golfing knockouts administered by Billie Burke, Gene Sarazen and Demaret Shute. Burke set the pace for the Americans by walloping big Archie Compston, one of the prime British favorites, to the lopsided tune of 7 and 6. Sarazen followed this with a similarly overwhelming triumph over Fred Robson, 7 and 6, and Demaret Shute gave his home town gallery plenty to cheer about when he disposed of young Bert Hodson, 8 and 6 for the biggest match of the day.

Wiffy Cox and Al Espinosa accounted for the remaining American victories. Cox pulled out a ding-dong battle with Abe Mitchell, 3 and 1, by holding a 30-foot putt on the 13th green. Espinosa, after having his advantage wiped away entirely by Ernest Whitcombe, with three holes to go, rallied to win two in succession and decided the match by 2 and 1.

Johnny Farrell's defeat by W. H. (Billie) Davies, the former Hoyleite caddy, was the biggest upset of the singles from the American viewpoint. The handsome Irishman was away off his game in the afternoon and succumbed 4 and 3 as he went two strokes over par for 15 holes.

The remaining British triumph was registered by Arthur Havers, former British open champion, who took advantage of the erratic work of Craig Wood to post a 4 and 3 victory.

The Yankee cleanup gave the United States two out of three in the competition for the Ryder cup, begun in 1927 with an American victory. The British won in 1929. They can claim an even break in the professional team competition, however, since they won the informal series in England in 1929. In each case victory has gone to the home forces.

The women have been practicing for the afternoon for several weeks and will undoubtedly outdistance the men in spills and thrills at least.

There will be a total of approximately 21 boats in the lineup. M. C. Neill of Grants Pass, who recently turned his over in a strenuous try-out, has restored it to racing condition and will be on the waters with his opponents this afternoon.

A record crowd, including boat race fans from all sections of Oregon and northern California is expected to view the various events. Boat races will be interspersed with surf-board racing, contests and swimming exhibitions.
