

OUR HEROES GET GREAT OY. OVATION

Return to Starting Point After Circling Globe in Less Than Nine Days—Wild Scenes at Airport On Arrival at 7:47 P. M.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—New York and the millions who are a part of it gave to two tired men today the spectacular sort of welcome which is reserved for special guests.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, back in the city after circling the globe in less than nine days, found New York at its noisiest and at the peak of its enthusiasm. Perched on the cushions of an automobile they made a circuit of the city which probably was only slightly less exciting than the flight itself. There were crowds all along the route—how many thousands no one can estimate. There was the usual cheering, usual signs, and small quantities of ticker tape, and newspapers tossed from the windows of the financial district.

Crowd Gathers Early

Even before the fliers were out of their beds at 9:30 a. m. a crowd collected around the doors of the Ritz-Carlton hotel, their headquarters. When they finally made their appearance in the lobby, remarking that they had slept "fine," they were applauded by a hundred guests. Outside 2000 more persons collected, and set up cheers when the two crossed the sidewalk to their automobile. Some of the lookers made a rush to close in on them, but police pushed them back.

Even though Gatty and Post were obviously refreshed by sleep, by clean linen, shaves and baths, there were still traces of weariness in their faces.

By W. W. Chappin, Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—The new world flight record was set in less than nine days today. At 7:47 eastern standard time, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty brought their plane down on Roosevelt field, which they left at 56 a. m., a week ago last Tuesday. In eight days, 15 hours and 47 minutes they flew 15,474 miles around the northern hemisphere, breaking the previous record, established by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, two years ago, was 21 days, seven hours, 34 minutes.

Post, pilot, and Gatty, navigator, left Edmonton at 5:39 a. m., eastern standard time yesterday and flew 1,600 miles to Cleveland, stopping for fuel at 4:15 p. m. They took off from Cleveland 29 minutes later for their last hop and made an air tour of ten countries, Canada, Newfoundland, Ireland, Iceland, Holland, Germany, Russia, Japanese possessions, Alaska and Canada, as well as various American states. The actual flying time was four days, 10 hours, 47 minutes, an average speed of 23.8 miles per hour.

Wild Scene at Port.

Cheering as crowds have not cheered since the days of Lindbergh and Chamberlain and Byrd, hundreds burst through police lines on the arrival at Roosevelt field, and rushed for the latest word.

For the next hour the field was a scene of wild disorder. Hundreds fought with police and with another in determined efforts to see and touch the world fliers. Three times Post and Gatty preceded to give off the field for New York, but circled to momentary safety in a deserted hangar. Each time the crowd found them and the siege was renewed.

When the tired men at last did give away to their first real night's sleep since their race around the world began, there was no possible doubt in their minds that they were famous, but they knew also that they no longer belonged to themselves but had been taken possession of by the adoring public.

Specular Landing.

The Winnie Mae shot out of the hangar on a gentle start toward the field. At terrific speed she shot over the crowd at about 100 feet, banked steeply and executed three wide turns about the field. Satisfied then that space was cleared for him, he slipped off on one wing, straightened out and dropped as lightly to the turf as though he were handling a little boat plane instead of a heavy long range speedster.

Gatty, who did all the navigating, while Post did all the flying, got out as near exhaustion as any experienced. They had had plenty of bad weather, considerable flying, hard conditions of light, but they'd come through all right and were glad to be home.

Post drank his 20th glass of beer and summed the whole story up as he saw it.

Had a Great Time.

"We had a great time," he said, "and that was the end of that. What the pair will do after playing the leading roles in one of Manhattan's strenuous popular week-end romances remains to be seen. Their publisher, F. C. Hall, said they might give their famous plane around the country. And next year they might fly a Pacific flight. The plane itself, Hall said, would be flown to the west coast for presentation to the daughter, Mrs. Winnie Mae Hall, of Los Angeles, for whom it is named. Hall expressed him-

Comes to Holly

A new Jolson picture, "Big Boy," adapted from the star's greatest stage success of the same name, will open at the Holly theater tomorrow for a two-day showing.

This is a stirring comedy centered about the Kentucky Derby. American racing classic, in which Jolson plays the part of a colored jockey.

With the feature picture will be shown a news reel with Graham McNamee announcing a Khrtoon called "Oswald in China," and the fifth of the "Adventures in Africa" reels entitled "Trails of the Hunted."

"Just a Gigolo" is Craterian Feature

Love and dancing lessons mix in a hilarious comedy situation that blends with straight romance in "Just a Gigolo," in which William Haines is starring, now playing at the Fox Craterian through Saturday.

Adapted from the Belasco stage hit, "Dancing Partner," the new picture presents Haines as a British nobleman who poses as a gigolo in an attempt to "test" the girl he plans to marry—and who gets a slap in the face that opens the gate to his life romance.

Whimsical comedy blends with heart interest. Haines clownes delightfully, and in other parts of the picture contributes some of the finest dramatic acting of his career.

Wally Wales Stars in Rialto Picture

"So This is Arizona" comes to the Fox Rialto Friday and Saturday.

As typical of the great open spaces as the famous Apache Trail, where the scenes are laid, is this Wally Wales starring vehicle.

Wally does some splendid work as an Arizona ranger who is fearless in his fight for the right. He finds himself enmeshed with two adoring women—but he pursues his assignment with undeviating purpose.

self as more than satisfied with the flight he financed to fulfill a wish expressed by his wife before she died last September.

Hails Undertaker.

Among those who greeted Post and Gatty were two men who are ready to take off at an early date in an effort to lower the new record. Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., said that the mark set by Post and Gatty would in no way deter them from their determination to try a similar flight, with fewer stops. As soon as the weather is good Pangborn and Herndon hope to start a world flight with the first stop at Moscow, the second in eastern Siberia, the third in Canada and the fourth back where they started. Their ship is slower than the Winnie Mae, but it has dual controls so that one can sleep while the other pilots, and they plan to fly practically all the time, day and night.

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were at Roosevelt field also to greet the latest heroes of the air.

Before going to sleep at a hotel in New York Gatty remarked: "Nothing like America and Americans for us as far as flying over strange land is concerned. Well, I had my instruments, and I might as well have been flying right over Oklahoma."

GROUP FARMING OPENS UP IDLE SPANISH LANDS

Agricultural Syndicates Are Formed As Result of Republic's Decision Lease Estates Now Uncultivated

MADRID — (AP) — Hundreds of agricultural syndicates are being formed in Spain's rural regions as the result of the republic's decision to lease uncultivated estates to farm workers.

The government hopes to improve Spain's agricultural status and better the unemployment problem.

The syndicates will work the land on a profit-sharing basis, leasing tracts of government and municipal lands and those uncultivated estates whose owners wish to rent them to the syndicates.

May Use Royal Land.

Later, if such an agrarian policy is approved in the national assembly, other tracts will be available for the plan, including perhaps some of the royal estates abandoned by Alfonso XIII.

Agricultural syndicates in Spain are not new. Thousands existed before the republic came, but these were mostly sponsored by the church and included representatives of the landowners.

Under the provisional government's scheme, the new societies include only the workers, who in turn are subject to supervision by the ministry of labor. The Catholic organizations therefore are being remodeled along the new lines.

Aid by Government.

The government aids the agrarian groups in leasing the land, provided the syndicates are soundly organized. It leaves the actual cultivation and administration of the communities' affairs largely to the farmers.

However, the government acts as a kind of big brother, giving expert advice, and even going so far as subsidizing societies that need a little financial help.

The tremendous hope that the provisional government holds in these farm societies was shown when Nicolas D'Olliver, minister of national economy, said:

Previous Time.

"Spain is living in a precarious economic condition. We are surviving largely through our fruit and farm exports, and any diminishing of them means serious trouble."

A few days later the Spanish Agriculturalist association, an important body of farm owners, said Spanish agricultural investments represented 75 per cent of the nation's riches and that agricultural exports formed 65 per cent of all commodities shipped abroad.

The syndicates are especially numerous in Andalusia and Extremadura where the employment problem is most difficult. It is said that the syndicates in Andalusia alone have a membership of more than 30,000.

FORMER MEDFORD ATTORNEY SEEKS DELAY FOR TRIAL

Ben F. Lindsay, well-known locally as an attorney, who once ran for mayor of Medford, and now living in Tacoma, Wash., has asked for 30 days' delay ere he goes to trial on an indictment charging larceny by bailer, according to the Oregon City Enterprise.

Ben F. Lindsay, former Oregon City attorney and now a resident of Tacoma, failed to appear in circuit court yesterday morning to present arguments to a demurrer in the indictment charging him with larceny by bailer. However, an order issued by Judge Hewitt, sitting here for Judge Latourette, was sent by telegraph to Lindsay directing him to appear today.

"Besides the demurrer, Lindsay filed a motion asking that the case, set for trial on July 9, be continued for 30 days as material witnesses would be unable to appear here next week.

"In the demurrer, the attorney alleges that the facts set out in the indictment are not sufficient to constitute a crime, and if a crime was committed it did not take place in this state.

"Lindsay informed the county clerk that he could not present his arguments before the court yesterday.

"He is accused of converting to his own use $610 given as tender in the case of Randall vs. Stoll."

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos.

We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbd tobacco.

You see, every Camel package is now a humidor that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can.

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one
