

FIND FOREMAN GUILTY ATTACK ON STANFIELD

Jury Urges Leniency for Man Who Drove Auto Over Ex-U. S. Senator in Quarrel Over Fence

BAKER, Ore., July 9.—(AP) John Stringer, convicted of deliberately driving his automobile over Robert N. Stanfield, former United States senator from Oregon, was today sentenced to serve three months in the Baker county jail.

BAKER, Ore., July 9.—(AP) John Stringer, ranch foreman at Huntington, was convicted by a circuit court jury here today of assaulting Robert N. Stanfield, former United States senator from Oregon, by driving an automobile over him.

Stanfield was seriously injured last April 22 when struck by Stringer's car. The two had just been involved in an altercation over fence cutting on property on which Stanfield was raising livestock.

Stringer denied he had intentionally driven his machine over the senator and declared that as he attempted to drive through the gate, Stanfield stepped in front of the car in a menacing manner.

Stringer testified in his own defense late yesterday. Stringer gave his version of the affair. He drove up to the gate, he said, and found Stanfield and Phil McCabe his foreman, splicing some wires.

"Wiping it up, are you, boys?" he said he asked. Stanfield said they were, and Stringer declared he replied "Bob, if you have a right to close this gate why don't you get the sheriff and do it lawfully?"

He said Stanfield cursed him. Stringer then cut the top wire, he said, and told the men "I am going to cut the fence and pay whoever owns it. I have a right to go up the road."

Stanfield made threat. Stanfield shouted "You have gone through here the last time," Stringer said, and approached him menacingly. The defendant testified he got into his car and backed up to drive through the cut panel.

He told Stanfield, "Bob, you are an old man so I am going around you. Now don't force me to hit you."

As they started through the fence, he said, when Stanfield attempted to block his way, stepping directly in the path of the car.

Stanfield had testified that Stringer deliberately changed the course of the car to strike him.

NEGRO SINGERS AT FIRST METHODIST

Medford people who enjoy negro spirituals, plantation melodies and folk songs, interspersed with clever dialect readings, have a rare treat in store tonight in the free concert, beginning at 8 p. m., at the First Methodist church, by the Cotton Blossom Singers quartet, representing the Piney Woods undenominational school for training young colored men and women, in south Mississippi.

This group of singers arrived this forenoon from Hornbrook, Cal., where they gave a concert last night, and a concert was also given in Ashland by another group of the same singers.

Each group travels in a house motor car, each car being ingeniously outfitted as living quarters while they traverse the United States, giving concerts and otherwise creating favorable publicity for their school back in Mississippi which is attended by hundreds of young colored folks. The group here tonight is composed of students of Piney Ridge and leaves in the morning for their next concert in Springfield, Ore. The other group, which sang in Ashland, is composed of graduates of the school.

OREGON FORESTS HAVE GOOD LUCK

SALEM, Ore., July 9.—(AP) Unless lightning fires start in the next few days in the Cascade mountains, Oregon forests will be remarkably free from serious fires for some time, considering the present spell of hot weather, according to the office of Lynn F. Cronemiller, state forester.

No fires are reported in green timber. Klamath county has more fires than any other district, it was stated.

LABORATORY FOR NEW TEST FARM AT HIGH SCHOOL

Arrangements will probably be made with the Medford school district for quarters in the new senior high school building for a laboratory for the experts assigned to the Southern Oregon federal experimental orchard, the Rogue River Traffic association was informed this noon by C. C. Lemmon. A conference will be held with City Superintendent of Schools E. H. Hedrick to discuss the matter.

Details will have to be worked out for houses for the scientists, for which no federal, county or state funds are available.

The pending referendum on the higher education appropriation has left the Oregon State college extension service without any funds to assist in the work, as expected.

The county court yesterday informed a committee of fruit men that it could not furnish any funds for buildings or more land in the present state of the county finances.

Federal aides assigned to the federal orchard work here are now en route from Washington, D. C., and are expected to arrive next week, according to word received.

The department of agriculture, plant division, advised the association that a final report on the three year investigation of refrigeration car icing and conditions would be made at the close of the present year.

Owing to the absence of R. R. Reter at the freight rate protest hearing in Salem today, little except routine business was transacted.

WATER SHORT IN DALLES DISTRICT

The pictures were taken with the telephoto lens.

MILK INSPECTOR SAYS ORDINANCE LIKED BY CITIES

A general expression of great improvement in the milk supply, voiced by all cities of the coast, characterized the recent convention of the Pacific Northwest association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors, held in Portland. It was announced yesterday by Chas. W. Austin, local milk inspector, who attended the three day gathering.

All cities adopting the standard ordinance have realized great improvements under the new system, he pointed out.

Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho and Alberta, Canada were represented at the convention, the total registration for which was 125. Milk dealers and dairy products, dairy equipment and supply houses were creditably represented by displays.

Through the courtesy of the Portland and state inspectors, an extended observation trip was made to dairies, creameries and pasteurization plants.

The cooperation given dairymen and distributors by milk inspectors today was emphasized by John M. Mann, commissioner of public affairs of Portland, who said, "Milk inspectors today are not policemen waiting to pounce upon a dairyman or distributor for violation of some regulation."

"Fundamentally our inspector is an educator. He stands between the consumer and the producer and the distributor of milk."

WATER RIGHT CASE OF INTEREST IN KLAMATH

An opinion handed down July 1st by Judge H. D. Norton of the circuit court here, who tried the case in Klamath Falls, and received in the city late Tuesday, is of interest there on Klamath water rights.
