

COLONY EXHIBIT BOOSTS FRENCH LOVE FOR FLAG

Visitors Grow Imperial-Minded at Vincennes — Better Idea of Geography Is Hastened by Italy

By Arno Dosch-Fleurot, PARIS—(AP)—Frenchmen who go to Vincennes to see the remarkably successful Colonial Exposition, particularly the exhibits from the French lands over which they fly the French flag, are coming away imperially minded.

This is an enormous change from the French attitude of the last century. Then, famous for the love of "La Belle France" herself, the average Frenchman was described as a man who knew no geography.

Now he has learned that the sun never sets on French soil. Learn Geography. While the exposition at Vincennes has been something of an eye-opener to many Frenchmen, they had been well prepared for a pageant of empire by an entirely different influence.

The demand of Italy for naval parity really set the Frenchmen to learning geography. The French government presented then a variety of reasons why the republic should have a larger fleet than Italy, and it emphasized that France's colonial empire was second in extent only to that of Great Britain.

Happened On Trade. It enumerated the items of thousands of trade routes, which, it said, needed guarding and called attention to the millions of people in all parts of the world who depend upon France for protection. The argument was repeated over and over for 18 months.

Eventually virtually every Frenchman came to know his government's arguments, and to realize the size and importance of the French colonies. There always were, however, some men in France who understood what the colonial possessions were going to mean some day.

One of them was Marshal Louis H. Lyautey, who made the Colonial Exposition what it is. He waked France to a realization of Asia.

French Asia Featured. As Lyautey's own personal success was in Morocco, he might have been expected to give Morocco and Africa first place at the exposition. Instead he placed French Asia dramatically before the French public. Everything Asiatic occupies the most prominent position. Morocco, Algeria and Tunis are completely represented, but they do not hold the limelight.

Lyautey's purpose was undoubtedly to make the French people conscious of Indo-China. Africa, being next door, needed less dramatizing.

POULTRY PLAGUES WILL BE BATTLED BY JOINT FORCES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—State and federal forces have joined in a drive to stamp out tuberculosis from poultry flocks and save farmers millions in losses.

The midwestern and north central states, where the disease has been most prevalent, are the focal points in the early part of the campaign that involves two classes of activities. The first is a general educational plan to spread means of preventing tuberculosis, and the other is an intensive eradication program in a few selected counties in these states.

Post-mortem demonstrations, the application of the tuberculin tests and the establishment of flock management are all to be used. Many swine are affected with the fowl type of tuberculosis through close association with poultry.

They are to be checked at packing plants for evidence of it. In the educational campaign, farmers are urged to rid their flocks of chickens that have passed 18 months of age. The old birds are pointed out as those chiefly affected and most likely to be carriers.

The last congress provided funds for eradication work and the department of agriculture now is able to cooperate with state officials and representatives of the poultry industry. Fifteen veterinarians have been assigned to the task.

Preliminary work shows the disease is materially reduced on farms when owners dispose of old birds at the end of the first laying period.

NEW DEVICE MAY CUT NUMBER FILM FIRES BOSTON, Mass.—(UP)—A fire-extinguishing device which may greatly reduce the number of film fires in movie theatres was exhibited at the convention of the New England Association of Fire Chiefs.

It is a contrivance that automatically stops the film and fills the chamber with a non-combustible gas when fire breaks out in the movie projector.

EXIT by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS: When Bruce, the boy clerk, leaves on a business trip, taking the money Pierre has given him for a missing ticket, he is promoted by Pierre's father, the youth realizes he cannot leave for dramatic school in the morning. Finally, Pierre, misunderstanding their tele-gram, has overheard Ann saying Pierre not to insist. Pierre, telling Ann what he has done, realizes his love for her and learns that Bruce has misrepresented her feelings in the past. He rushes from the house, and Ann is weeping over him when her father comes in. Then Pierre returns and, as Ann accepts a letter Bruce had left for her, visitors are admitted.

Chapter 23 MURDER TAKES A CUE SHERIFF BOLTON turned his gaze slowly from Ann and Pierre to one of his companions whose appearance marked him as a well-to-do business man.

"From the looks of things, Mr. Dayton, I guess they know why we're here." The sheriff's heavy voice was followed by silence.

Martin's quavering tones broke the stillness: "We are proud to have a visit from the president of the First National," he bowed toward Mr. Dayton, "and from Mr. Wilson, our teller, and from you,

"Mrs. Carey," said the sheriff, "you'd better answer."

"What time did you go?" "I don't know."

"Where did you go?" "I—I don't know. I mean, it is hard to tell you."

"So it appears. Well, you'd better tell just the same."

"I—I was just wandering around. You see, I was feeling so badly about going away to school—I didn't notice where I went."

"Where you in the vicinity of the bank?" "I—I don't think so."

The sheriff turned abruptly to Ann. "Mrs. Carey, when we came to-night you seemed terribly upset—what was the trouble?"

Ann could not answer. Pierre's wife words when he left her: Old Tony's account of having seen him near the bank; the boy's strange conduct when he returned home, and Bruce's letter all combined to put her on the rack.

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Carey," said the sheriff, "but you'd better answer. Suddenly Ann found her voice. 'I was feeling badly about Pierre's leaving us in the morning.'"

"Oh, that was it!" the sheriff's tone was incredulous. "Well, what time was it when Pierre left the house to go wandering about, he don't know where, because he was feeling so bad about leavin' you?"

Ann hesitated. "It was some time after eight, I think."

"And when did he get home?" "Around half past nine."

"When Tony got here, then, Pierre was not in yet?" "Pierre came in a few minutes later."

"And what time did you go home from the bank?" Ann waited a little. Then she said in a low voice: "About nine o'clock."

"Neither Pierre, Tony, nor your father was here with you until nine o'clock and after?" "No, sir."

"Mrs. Carey, where is your husband?" Ann controlled herself with visible effort. "Bruce is in Camden—I suppose."

HOT DOGS SUPPLANTED BY GERMAN DAINITIES

PARIS—(AP)—The ever-increasing number of Germans frequenting Montmartre and Montparnasse, the two gayest night haunts of Paris, has caused restaurateurs and cafe proprietors to substitute German dishes for American ones served as specialties.

In former years the restaurant men catered to Americans with breakfast foods, "hot dogs" and baked beans. The decrease in Americans has resulted in the appearance of German dainties.

KEMAL WOULD TRACE BIDDY TAKES REVENGE UPON LOW EGG PRICE

ISTAMBUL—(UP)—An attempt to prove that European civilization is based upon Turkish culture will be made late in the summer by Premier Mustafa Kemal, the "warrior" of Turkey.

Archaeologists have been engaged by Kemal to excavate in Anatolia. Their work paralleling that of the Chicago university expedition.

The experiment is being watched throughout Europe with considerable interest. Its success, some believe, would entirely revolutionize history.

SHAMROCK, Tex.—(AP)—Speaking of the law of supply and demand, A. V. Purcell has a hen that knows her economics.

Shortly after the price of eggs dropped to 10 cents she began laying eggs so small that 18 of them, weighed less than two ounces all told.

Purcell's theory is that Biddy "went hay-wire brooding over the low price."
