JOHN PERL SHOWS GRANDSON HOW TO HOOK BIG FISH

One of the recent delights of John A. Perl is the companionship of his 10-year-old grandson, Jack Six, who is here from Los Angeles spending the summer with her parents, and especially such companionship in a fishing boat. And Jack rates the greatest personages in the world as, first his mother, second his grandfather, third his grandmother—also often in doubt as to which grand parent should precede—fourth his uncle Frank, and then in the following order: Lindbergh, President Hoover and some other like commoners. Grandpa Perl, Mr. Six and Jack have been spending the past 10 days at the Perl summer home on the shores of Klamath Lake at Rocky Point and have been expected home daily for several days but cannot bear to leave because the fishing has been so good. Last Tuesday Jack caught his first fish, a magnificent 8-pound rainbow trout, which put up such a good fight that the plucky youth after hooking and playing him towards the boat for a long time finally gave up just near the famous bluff. He exclaimed: "Grandpa, you take him. I just can't hold the pole and line any longer!" Then Grandpa with his usual piscatorial skill, acquired in clubbing cat fish to death, back in Ohio in his younger days, pulled the fish in, and complimented Jack on his cleverness and maneuvering in landing such a fine one. You know the usual way of doing one's fishing. A day or so later Jack landed a nice fighting six-pounder all by himself, since which time he has been giving grandpa pointers on how to catch fish—big ones. At that, John has a lot to learn yet in this regard.

WATER PRICE DOUBLE THAT OF OIL IN TEXAS TOWN
PECOS, Tex., July 25.—(UP)—Water sells for twice as much as oil in the mushroom boom town of Mentone, 19 miles northeast of here. MYSTERIOUS BUG BUSY CHEWING ON 'PUG' ISAAC RADIO

"Some Little Bug Will Get You Someday" is the song Mr. and Mrs. Frank (Pug) Isaacs of Mistletoe street are singing this week, for some little bug is getting their radio. Day by day he bores away, forming a new dot in the expensive cabinet, which houses the radio, and all the experts in town have failed to find him. He can be heard grinding on each evening and in the morning another hole appears, threatening to give the radio a fashionable polka dot jacket. The first hole Mrs. Isaacs discovered, she accused Frank of driving a nail into the woodwork by way of expressing his dislike for a certain program. Mr. Isaacs refuted the charges. Mrs. Isaacs was hardly convinced of his innocence when a second hole appeared in the cabinet and then a very small pile of sawdust was noticed on the floor. Careful inspection detected a grinding noise, which is continuing. The specialists from the Palmer Music store were called and the radio was taken apart but nothing was found. The insides were re-stated and the little bug began his work again. He gnawed and gnawed, and another hole appeared in the side of the cabinet. The aid of drug stores was solicited and a little pink pill was inserted in one hole, but the little bug didn't take his pill, and he went right on with his gnawing. Frank is now asking the advice of the forest service in the campaign to destroy the bug, which authorities identify as a wood beetle. How he got into the cabinet no one knows but Frank thinks he is a relative of the famous bluff, who has survived for many years in the corner-stone, and has stayed with the wood all through the manufacturing processes and the three years the radio has been located in the Isaacs' home.

At the Churches
Federated Churches
"Will Israel Be Restored?" would be a very fitting subject for the discussion of the chosen people in the evening sermon tonight at the Central Point church in the series of sermons on "Why God is Concerned With the Governments of the World." It is fitting to give Israel proper consideration. National questions can no more be settled without taking the Jew into proper consideration than can a moral question be solved with due consideration of Jesus Christ. You are invited to hear these sermons. Services begin at eight o'clock and the sermon is closed at nine o'clock. Bring your children, and your friends.

REV. SPRIGGS SENT KLAMATH CHURCH

Recent state church conferences bring one former well-known Medford pastor nearer to this city, and keep another well-known one up the state for another year. Rev. and Mrs. J. E. McDonald, the former ex-pastor of the local Free Methodist church, will continue to reside in Falls City, Ore., for another year, as at the recent state conference of the Free Methodist church he was returned to the pastorate of the Free Methodist church of that city. At the recent Baptist conference Rev. W. T. S. Spriggs, former pastor of the First Baptist church of Medford and who had just closed a pastorate of five years at Kelso, Wash., was transferred to become pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Klamath Falls, and assumed his new charge a week ago. Rev. and Mrs. Spriggs now reside at 556 West Eleventh street, Klamath Falls.

Brisbane's Today

Of one hundred planes, such as was arranged, could destroy the principal buildings in London and thousands upon thousands of the population. There is something worth thinking about. One good feature of the European, American and other troubles is this: You at least know what they are! money and blood in war, foolish extravagance and wastefulness that followed it are responsible for our present condition. When you know what is the matter with you, a cure is not so difficult. A colored person, on the scaffold, asked if he wished to say any last words, remarked: "Yes, I want to say that I hope this will be a lesson to me the rest of my life." Let's hope that war will be a lesson to the nations for the rest of their lives, and a lesson to the United States to attend to its own business, not inviting trouble by meddling with the business of others.

Off the California coast, near San Diego, a United States destroyer with no man on board, maneuvered at high speed, the maneuvers including a 180-degree turn. A radio-robot at the wheel of the manless destroyer Stoddard, turned right or left as ordered, increased the destroyer's speed to ten, fifteen, twenty-six knots, blew the whistle, blinked the powerful searchlights. And in connection with the possible future war, remember that, the radio robot with no crew was doing the work of sixty men. A thousand or ten thousand ships might be controlled on the water, under the water or in the air, without risking human life. Science and money combined make a powerful combination. This world will be on the way to civilization when governments take as much trouble about the happiness of the working masses as they do about new ways of destroying life.
