Club Women Demand Equal Rights In Business World at Convention

Resolutions asking that "human services be judged on merits only, regardless of sex and marital status" were among those passed by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs in session in Richmond, Va., two weeks ago, according to reports of the convention received by the local club from the Richmond press.

Commendation of President Hoover "for his statesmanship in proposing a debt holiday for all nations as a gesture of international good will," was also expressed by the federation. In addition to pledging support in achieving substantial reduction in armaments of all kinds, and a similar reduction in national budgets for armaments, the convention favored prompt adherence of the United States to the world court and reaffirmed the 1926 position urging the senate to ratify the world court protocol.

Many interesting photographs of national leaders and events of the convention are contained in the copies of The Richmond New Leader received here. Mrs. Gelina M. Bowman of Richmond, chosen as the new national president, was the only candidate for the position. Miss Marion H. McClench, who is remembered by all local club members, was not a candidate for re-election and declined a nomination, urged from the floor.

One Oregonian is included in the list of special photographs. Miss Avis Lobdell of Portland, the first woman director of personnel and public relations on any railroad in the United States.

The newspapers received by Mrs. Edwina Weishaar, local club president, will be read with interest by members of the Medford group, who were unable to attend the convention.

BORNEO'S JUNGLES TO BE RANSACKED FOR 'MISSING LINK'

NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—An American expedition will plunge soon into the steaming jungles of Borneo in search of a hairy, monkey-like race of men which may prove to be the long-sought "missing link" in human development.

Thirty scientists will hazard the peril-infested region up the Sampit river visited only twice by white men. They will seek specimens for a group of American museums insufficiently financed to maintain their own expeditions.

Dr. Carl Lumholz, German scientist and John Nicholson, the English soldier-explorer, reported seeing members of the strange race many years ago. Dr. Harry Carpelan, head of the American expedition, said today he hopes to make motion picture records of their mode of living.

Captain Carpelan, formerly of the Russian imperial guard and an explorer whose career has led him from the Arctic to Congo and the Amazon, plans to start within the month. Numerous requests for membership from small American museums may cause delay, however, until November 1.

Regarding the "lost race" Captain Carpelan said:

"I have studied carefully the reports of Lumholz and Nicholson, the only white men who have seen them, and I feel rather confident that we shall find them.

"I dislike saying anything about missing links, as one is apt to be frowned upon in lay circles, but I am certain that tre Borneo race is a link to the past which anthropologists have sought."

The expedition also will seek the Pangolin, a remnant, as the scientist puts it, of the "lost world." "The animal is known to exist," he said, "but no specimen has been found. It is about four feet long, covered with a scaly armor and resembles the familiar South American anteater."

Several millionaire New Yorkers are backing the enterprise, which will cost more than $300,000.

PRESIDENT CALLS ON ALL BUREAUS TO CLIP EXPENSES

WASHINTON, July 25.—(AP)—Federal spending agencies today searched their financial accounts anew for the savings asked by President Hoover to reduce a possible billion dollar deficit for this fiscal year.

Cabinet officials have passed on to bureau heads the president's letter calling attention to declining treasury receipts and "the consequent large deficit indicated for 1932."

Bureau chiefs were preparing the special statement of "contemplated ultimate savings" that Mr. Hoover directed be supplied the budget bureau by August 17.

The president's letter said "the situation is a serious one and demands that we all make the most earnest efforts to eliminate or postpone all activities such as may be so treated without serious detriment to the public welfare."

It represented Mr. Hoover's second major effort in recent months to curtail the outward flow of government funds. In May and June he held a series of conferences at his Rapidan camp with members of his cabinet looking to increased economies.

Secretary Adams then advised the president naval savings would total from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. The postoffice department foresaw a $15,000,000 saving, the interior department $4,000,000, the war department $20,000,000 and the agriculture department $20,000,000.

In May, it was made known Mr. Hoover expected total economies in the neighborhood of $150,000,000. Department officials today said the president's new request for a complete picture of government finances indicated his intention to hold the year's outlay even farther below available appropriations.

EX-TEXAS JUDGE PEELS PEN SPUD

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 25 (UP)—John K. Brady, prominent Texas jurist, who broke into the limelight two years ago when he was charged and convicted of the murder of Miss Lenila Highsmith has dropped the judicial dignity of the court and now peels potatoes, teaches, and performs other odd prison jobs, as he serves his sentence.

Brady was sentenced to three years in the state prison, and has served more than six months of his term. He said he did not remember killing the girl, a 23-year-old court stenographer, with whom he acknowledged he "had an affair." He said he was intoxicated at the time.

The former judge was classified, as are all convicts, according to his physical condition. He is now 60.

Prison officials have made use of both his extensive legal training and his high education. He has not been made a trusty, although prison officials say he follows every prison rule.

FIERY OKLAHOMA EXECUTIVE HIES TO BRIDGE WAR

DURANT, Okla., July 25.—(AP)—Bristling with determination and packing an ancient horse pistol, Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma took the field tonight in personal command of his troops in the Red River bridge war.

The fiery executive left the capitol at Oklahoma City this afternoon to come to the seat of operations in the martial law zone at the end of the Denison-Durant toll bridge.

He announced he would hold the fort with his detachments of Oklahoma National Guardsmen against any attempts of authorities of the eastern Oklahoma federal district court to enforce an injunction issued today at Muskogee by Federal Judge Colin C. Neblett of New Mexico.

The temporary injunction, naming Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett and other Oklahoma officials, but not the governor, restrained the maintenance of a barricade erected on Oklahoma soil to prevent travel over the toll span.

While Murray's military preparations went forward, it appeared that no "enemy" would show up to try a bout with the commander-in-chief.

United States Marshal Clark Wasson at Muskogee said no deputies would be sent to the bridge to carry out the restraining order.
