

MEDFORD MAIL TRIBUNE

"Everyone in Southern Oregon reads the Mail Tribune"
Daily and Sunday
MEDFORD PRINTING CO.
22-27-29 N. Fir St. Phone 15

MEMBERS OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches received by it or otherwise credited to this paper, and also to the local news published herein. All rights for publication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

MEMBER OF UNITED PRESS
MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS
Advertising Representatives
M. C. MOOREHEAD & COMPANY
Office in Medford, Oregon, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland.

Ye Smudge Pot

(By Arthur Perry)
A two-year old Idaho lad is able to play an alto saxophone, which is no grounds for parental pride and bragging.

Auto sales throughout the land show an increase in July. The purchasers believed the salesman, when he testified: "This car will pay for itself."

"The bride is a Sigma girl, and full of harm"—(From Wedding Notice) The groom is an energetic son of a pioneer family.

ALWAYS A SURPLUS
(Fountain Inn Tribune)
There is some sentiment in favor of running the school only seven months, the idea being that education is a waste of time and effort anyway, but the majority seems more inclined to agree with Mr. Glady, who delivered his opinion at a meeting last week and concluded rather plaintively: "There's enough dam fools in this town now."

It's about time state editors started penning stirring editorials on "Autumn Glories of the Oregon Country."

Jim Morgan, another working farmer from the Hinton Creek neighborhood, was in town doing some week end trading.—(Hermiston News) The working farmer is something like the writing newspaperman.

The times next winter will be so tough, more Austins will be using the sidewalks than the highways, say the professional pessimists.

C. Yens Tengwald has returned from the East, in a parboiled condition, and forgot to state there is a strong sentiment in the Middle West for the return of President Hoover.

"A young couple were parked until 11 o'clock Tuesday evening near the Community church, and drove away without the reporter getting their names"—(Orleans Jottings). Anyway, it was none of your business.

The Portland drummers offer the only hopeful sign for an early return of Prosperity. They are no longer as genial as an undertaker.

The Milk War seems to be about as lively as a Rogue river fish bill controversy—no milk-and-water affair.

ADD DEPRESSION HORRORS
(Exchange)
Uncle Mat Drummond, who used to be a farmer and now runs a filling station, has had his machine shaved off.

His children, all grown up, never before saw him with his upper lip bare; and unless they love him very much they probably wish he had kept that part of his face a secret until the end.

Every so often an automobile with a California license drifts down the street.

Does anybody know how the well-known starving Armenians are coming along these days with their eating?

THE CAR-IN-LAW
(Albany Democrat-Herald)
Dear Miss Dix—I have been married seven years. Have three adorable children and a fine husband and everything we want. He will not let me drive the family car. Miss Dix, I made many sacrifices to pay for this car. In fact, I do without the things I really need in order to meet the payments, but my husband will not let me use it.

"With both legs broken, and internal injuries feared, Whittlaw finds it difficult to be cheerful."—(Huntington Times) He's the type that is always looking on the dark side of things.

The Older Girls have started worrying about their winter furs, and now is the time for males to give a thought to their overcoats.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL NETS $12 IN JACKSONVILLE
JACKSONVILLE, Ore., Aug. 5.—(Special)—The ice cream social given by the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church on the lawn of the old court house Saturday evening was well attended with $12 taken in.

GOOD WORK!

THE decision to turn over the solution of the city sewage problem to a representative citizens committee, is an excellent one, and is the sort of program behind which the people of Medford can wholeheartedly and enthusiastically unite.
WHAT EVERYONE WANTS IS THE PROTECTION OF THE HEALTH OF THIS COMMUNITY,—the elimination of Bear Creek, as a constant menace to that health, and a public nuisance.

There are many conflicting opinions, as to the best way of doing this; but we believe there is a general unanimity of opinion, that under existing circumstances it should be done as cheaply as possible, with only such expenditures as the proper and immediate protection of the community health, demands.

THE first step then is to determine, what the cheapest practical method is. And this is obviously not the job of the citizens committee, or the city council; of any layman, or any group of laymen; but the job of the best sanitary engineer that can be obtained.

The securing of such expert, impartial and authoritative advice is precisely what the citizens committee proposes to do. This may cost a few hundred dollars, but as has been previously pointed out in this column, it would be money well invested.

Then with the best plan DETERMINED, we are confident that under the leadership of such a representative and public spirited committee as has been formed, this plan can be put into execution, the entire city can get together, regard the sewage disposal controversy as settled, and go on to more immediate and pressing concerns.

A FINE AD FOR SOUTHERN OREGON

THE attempt to improve the harbor at Crescent City has been going on so many years, and with so few tangible results, that a very general impression has been created, that the Northern California-Southern Oregon Development Association which sponsors it, is nothing but a wistful-waiting organization made up of hot-air luncheon speeches and nothing else.

This is untrue. The job is a big one, and progress necessarily has been slow. But genuine progress has been made, and this organization has accomplished one thing, which is an outstanding and worth while achievement in itself.

It remained for the Christian Science Monitor, aside from its religious origin, one of the best and most widely circulated daily newspapers in the country, to point this out.

IN a recent issue, on the front page, the Monitor called attention to what the Northern California-Southern Oregon Development Association has done in the way of developing a spirit of neighborly cooperation and constructive betterment between two rival states.

With the states of Texas and Oklahoma, staging a miniature civil war, over a toll bridge, and the traditional border antagonism supposed to exist between states thus emphasized, this article was unusually timely.

An unusual spirit of friendliness and cooperation DOES exist between Southern Oregon and Northern California, and this association, working for a better harbor at Crescent City is chiefly responsible for it.

Regardless of whether a deep water harbor is secured,—and we believe it will be,—this achievement in itself, justifies the existence of the Northern California and Southern Oregon Development Association, and the time, money and effort its members have contributed toward giving this vast and isolated region an adequate outlet to the sea.

NOW IS THE TIME TO START

GOVERNOR Meier is to be commended for starting NOW, to devise ways and means to properly care for the unemployed in Oregon this winter.

We don't agree with Chairman Payne of the Red Cross, that unemployment relief is exclusively a local problem.

It is, in our judgment, not an exclusive problem in any direction. It is essentially a HUMAN problem, and should be solved, by no unit alone, but by the cooperation of all units,—local, state and federal.

The nation has a job to do, the state has a job to do, the local community has a job to do. To place the burden entirely upon any one of them, would be flagrantly unfair; to relieve ANY ONE of them, from all responsibility, would be equally unfair.

Governor Meier serves notice now that Oregon is going to do its bit. The example he has set for Oregon should be followed by every state in the union.

"One for all, and all for one," should be the motto for unemployment relief this winter. With such unity and cooperation the crisis which appears unavoidable, can be surmounted with the minimum sacrifice and the maximum benefit; with anything less, it can't be.

Communications

A Suggestion on Court House

To the Editor:

As we will soon be placing under construction the new court house, might it not be a good suggestion, to dig the basement and foundations by hand. This will afford employment for a lot of men, and even if it does cost a little more it will be the best thing that could happen to the community.

I think that this plan might be carried out on the roads and other places where machinery is used to replace hand labor.

Anything that can be done to create a pay roll is of the most vital consequence at this time. We used to do it, why cannot we do it now. W. B. C. Medford, Aug. 3. (Name on file.)

Can Communism Hold Out?

To the Editor:

There is now much rejoicing in the press over the fact that Russia is adopting capitalistic methods of exploitation, viz. piece work and unequal pay.
Harrat is very happy indeed. His high paid editors write almost as logically and convincingly as the cigarette and tooth paste advertisers—but on things Russian, mostly from false premises.

Russia is trying to evolve a socialist economy in the midst of capitalism—a most difficult piece of social engineering. Social evolution, in common with all other forms of evolution, does not follow a straight line. The "curve" is a zig-zag one; so any new stage of society, being ushered into life will have many ups and downs and Russia will prove no exception to the law. In biological language, socialism is a mutation entering into the most outstanding fact of life—the struggle for existence and into a most hostile environment. Biological mutations, unless they have good survival properties, invariably go down in the struggle. This law is true of sociological ones also, unless supported with greatest care. "This care is being given by the communists unreservedly and recklessly, heroically. How much longer can they hold out, who can say?

If capitalism were not on her "last legs," the undersigned long ago would have abandoned hope for the survival of the infant. But the "monstrous" seems to be gaining strength, notwithstanding the fact that little or no milk in the form of loans, etc., was given it by its mother, capitalism. It's a case of a nation raising Lesevel by her bootstraps!
As the undersigned sees it, the problem of this age is the reunion of labor and its means of production—capital. Russia is making giant strides in this direction. "Piece work and unequal pay is a scheme calculated to work positively toward this end and until she returns her accumulations of capital to private individuals for private exploitation of the detestable masses, tears of joy for her return to "sanity"—to capitalism—are, in the humble opinion of the undersigned "out of order."
Gold Hill, Aug. 3. R. HEGNER.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady in care of The Mail Tribune.

ARE YOU A HYPO OR A HYPER.

We evolutionists are alarmed at the way the sexes are approaching each other in clothes, habits, work, play, physical appearance. The males of the species are growing ever more effeminate; the females are attempting to substitute vulgarity and coarseness for the wholesome influence of a good physical training. The virtue of self-denial or self-discipline is becoming obsolete.

Fearing perhaps that before long it may become too difficult to distinguish the sexes, Dr. R. B. Bean has divided mankind into two types, namely, meso-onto-morpha, and hyper-onto-morpha, according to the predominance of tissues derived from different embryonal layers. For short we may call them hypos and hypers.

Hypos have greater relative development of bone, muscle and other connective tissues. Hypers have greater relative development of brain, lungs and alimentary tract. Typus run to bone and brawn; hypers run to brain and trunk.

The hypo is herbivorous, the hyper carnivorous. The carnivorous animal needs brains in order to stalk, capture and subdue the dull-witted herbivora.

Hypo means under or beneath. The hypo type of individual is short or of medium stature, stocky but with long limbs, large hands and feet and large face in comparison with head size. The nose is rather small but wide, the eyes are small and far apart. The intestine is long, twenty to twenty-five feet—it has to be long to digest carbohydrate food. A hypo makes a good policeman, butcher, hall porter, cook, salesman, barber, janitor, cannery or fireman. Hypers are steady, plodding, honest and brave. You can depend on a man if you know how long his intestine is. He must have 7½ intestines, you know. You can gauge the length of his intestines by the size of his hoof. A man with small feet and very large nose will bear watching. It is just as well to count your money and conceal your jewelry when you meet a man with a large head and a small face and large eyes and small hands.

Hypers have a predilection for arteriosclerosis, ague, arthritis, tuberculosis, influenza and neuritis in pretty packages. They rather like to be packaged, and once they've given a testimonial they rarely revoke it when it becomes apparent to the whole world they have been packaged.

Hypers, on the other hand, make good lawyers, ministers, editors, scientists, authors, politicians and businessmen. They do well at anything that offers a chance of a good living without work. They are to lungers, singers, speakers, side-show barkers, baseball fans, auctioneers. They are good sprinters. Their favorite diversions are "nervousness," stomach trouble, poor circulation and "auto-intoxication." They like their medicine well wrapped in plausibility, but have a supreme contempt for mere pills and potions.

Hypers are slender, whether tall or small. They have long trunks and short limbs, a long, high narrow nose, large eyes set rather close together, small hands and feet. They are narrow chested, hatchet-faced, gaunt in build. Their intestine is only 12 to 15 feet long. They are short-lived birds.

It is easier to decide whether you're a hypo or a hyper than it is to decide whether you're a republican or a democrat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sweating Feet

In answer to numerous requests, here is the suggestion I offer for the relief of excessive or odorous sweating of the feet. Get two ounces of standard Formaldehyde solution from the drugist. Put it in a pint bottle, and then fill the bottle with water. In moderate cases, treat the shoe linings once a month or oftener, by pouring an ounce or two of your solution into the shoe, swishing it around to wet the entire insole and lining, and then draining it into the next shoe, and so on, treating all your shoes and slippers. Then let them stand drying in the air and sun 24 hours before you wear them. In worse cases, sponge the solution directly on the soles and between the toes, every alternate evening for four or five times. Let it dry before putting on stockings. Keep your fingers out of the solution and do not apply it to other portions of the skin. Formaldehyde is harmless to cloth and leather, tho it may prove too irritating for some sensitive skins. Further advice about the control of excessive sweating of feet, hands or other areas will be found in a monograph which any reader may have on request (no clipping will suffice). Enclose with your request a stamped envelope bearing your address. EGGS ARE DOWN BUT WILL THEY STAY DOWN?

What do you think of my taking half a dozen raw eggs each morning and noon, in order to put on weight? (M. P.)

Answer—Perhaps you can down 'em more readily in the raw condition, but they are rather more digestible and nutritious if cooked to suit your taste. If you can take the eggs raw, even half that many, regularly over a period of weeks, you are pretty sure to gain weight. But I do not recommend concentrating on one food for such purpose. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for Gaining Weight. Eyesight Hokum in the Wood Pulp Magazines

Is there any truth in having normal eyesight restored without the aid of glasses, by special eye exercises, as offered in ——— magazines? (T. M. C.)

Answer—Not more than you could put in your eye without feeling it.

FLIGHT O' TIME

(Medford and Jackson County History from the Files of The Mail Tribune of 20 and 10 Years Ago.)

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
August 5, 1921.
(It was Friday.)
Pear prices go 60 cents better than a year ago.

Some of the ministers of the city uphold the discharge of Patrolman Hemstreet and others oppose, and letters are printed by the Mail Tribune to that effect.

Evidence accumulates that Portland and Multnomah officialdom is controlled by the Ku Klux Klan.

Present system of parking and double parking called "backwoodsy" by editor in editorial.

Bear Creek orchard shipped first car of valley Bartlett's east.

Don Clark, orchardist, narrowly averts loss of an eye when fish hook catches in it.

O. C. Boggs will play Dr. R. W. Stearns in the city tennis tournament.

July was a perfect month, with an average temperature of 70 degrees.

Lee (Dub) Watson, detained for driving on the wrong side of the road, pays $10 fine for not having a driver's license.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
August 5, 1911.
(It was Saturday.)
Government expert figures that in 4000 years Crater lake will overflow and make the valley a huge lake.

Medford is given "puff" by Collier's Weekly.

Battling Nelson has little trouble in giving Tommy Gaffney, "pride of Roseburg," a severe lacing in boxing bout at the Nat. before record crowd.

Mrs. C. M. Kidd is confined to her home on North Central avenue with illness.

SUNDOWN STORIES

SEEING THE MOON
By Mary Graham Bonner.

The Little Black Clock took John and Peggy in one of the strangest looking airplanes

"It doesn't make any buzzing sound," said John.

"Dear me, no, they stopped that noise years and years ago," said Black Clock said.

"Ah, we've landed. Now we see the moon."

"The children looked up and saw the moon, but it looked so much larger and nearer than before."

"Yes, it has come nearer through the years," the Clock said, "and it is becoming more neighborly all the time. You know how years and years ago it was near us, too—years and years before any of us were born. Well, now it is coming nearer once more."

"But you see that here we can see the moon. On the other side of the earth the people must journey half the way around the globe to see it."

"It doesn't take them any time to make the trip and then, too, you see a day is so long that a great deal can be accomplished in a day."

"I don't know what would have happened if they hadn't made the day longer. I think it was kind of the Tides to do this—with the help of the Moon, of course."

Peggy and John beelined many people getting out of an airplane bus and gazing at the moon.

"I'm so glad about this," said Peggy. "I've always thought the moon was so beautiful and there was one time when you took us on a trip that I felt worried about the moon."

Tomorrow—Peggy's Moon Thoughts.

IN VACATION TIME
Don't forget to keep in touch with the old home town when you leave for your summer vacation. Have your Mail Tribune forwarded to the new address. Phone 4 Main 73 and the matter will be promptly attended to.

Talks To Parents

"Old Enough to Know" (By Alice Judson Peale)

One of the privileges, which parents have always allowed themselves is that of freely telling their children when they do something which shows thoughtlessness, irresponsibility, clumsiness, or lack of self-control, that they are "old enough to know better."

But when really is a child "old enough to know better?" Investigations have shown that there are certain specific accomplishments and levels of socialized behavior which we can definitely expect at certain ages, but how often do the parents who tell their children they are old enough to know better actually know what they have a right to expect of their particular child at his particular age?

The child is handicapped at different stages of his growth not only by his mental immaturity which makes it impossible often for him to understand things as thoroughly as his parents assume that he should, but also by an emotional immaturity which prevents his exercising sufficient self-control.

Furthermore, the development of self-control, and of such virtues as consideration and fairness depends very directly on the way he is being trained. A mother who has been at no pains to keep Johnny happy and busy, and who has shown favoritism to his baby sister, has no right to hold him responsible when in a fit of jealousy, he pulls sister's hair or breaks her doll.

He may be old enough to know perfectly how reprehensible his behavior is, but that does not mean that without help he is able to control his unusual impulses. Telling a child he is old enough to know better is only a means of reproach; it does not help him to solve his problem, while he resents the blame it implies, especially because he probably knows quite well that he has been in the wrong.

Brisbane's Today

(Continued from Page One)
by running good ships to Europe all one class, fare $100.

Whether they make him president or not, the people will remember with admiration, the news concerning Governor Roosevelt of New York. A former victim of infantile paralysis, now fortunately recovered, Governor Roosevelt has given to New York's department of health a pint of his blood to be used in combating an outbreak of the dreadful infantile paralysis in New York City.

A serum made from the blood of those that have recovered from the disease is found to be the best remedy.

The government having proved that running ships is one of the several things that it does not know how to do, is about to dispose of some shipping. It is understood that Kermit Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, in the east and a western group, the Dollar Line interests, Herbert Fleischacker of San Francisco and others, will make bids. The government of Merritt Starr is dead aged 75. He was the best selling Standard Oil, a twenty-nine million that Judge Keneaw Merritt dia ordered Standard Oil looked like "big money" days, but almost any octopus could pay it.

Judge Landis now rides and his judgment can aside.

Phone 542. Well known refuse. City Sanitary Dept.

HERMETICALLY SEALED against dust and dirt - rust and corrosion. The Great New Majestic Refrigerator ELECTRIC and guaranteed for 3 years.

The heart of the Majestic Refrigerator, the motor and hermetically sealed at the factory... sealed against dust and against rust and corrosion, against amateur tampering... expensive repair bills. Sealed within is the continuous bath which need never be changed. The few simple parts of the run on a film of oil, wear very slowly and should last a long time. Having used highest quality materials, shaped and assembled to rigid standards of inspection, Majestic unhesitatingly this refrigerator with a 3-year guarantee.

The New Majestic Refrigerator With the 3-Year Guarantee in exactly the size to best fill YOUR requirements is now on display at Palmer Music House "We Sell Happiness" Corner Main and Bartlett Streets Phone 700 Let us show you how MAJESTIC is the greatest value in the field of electrical refrigeration