Firestone Emphasizes Craftsmanship

Harvey S. Firestone, world famous tire magnate and outstanding industrialist shown working on the tire molds in the mammoth Firestone Factory at Los Angeles.

"There is no American industry where pride of craftsmanship is greater than in the Firestone factories," says R. C. Tucker, vice-president and general sales manager of the Western Firestone factories. "Mr. Firestone has long recognized that it takes something more than materials, skill and equipment to build the best products," explains Tucker. "In the vast Firestone organization this something more is a pulling together spirit among all of the 15,000 designers and builders of Firestone products. Each of these craftsmen is a Firestone stockholder—partner with Mr. Firestone in the business. Each bears responsibility and reward with the active head of the business. To these men sales and profits mean far more than material gain. Efficiency and progress are the natural results."

"The personal direct interest of every employe in making the best tires it is possible to build undoubtedly has been a big factor in the remarkable list of records held by Firestone. No one gets any bigger thrill out of the Indianapolis races, for instance, than Firestone employes, because the tires they build have carried all the winners to victory for twelve consecutive years. The same in the great transcontinental runs and other supreme tests of tire strength and stamina."

"The fact that every tire Firestone builds bears the name Firestone and must measure squarely up to the Firestone quality standards is another important reason for the pride of craftsmanship and the indomitable spirit found in the Firestone factories."

It is more timid than a pink-eyed white rabbit faced by a roaring lion. "Big money" says "think of us lending out millions at half or one per cent a year interest. Why waste your sympathy on the man without a job?"

James Goodwin Hall, head of the anti-prohibition "crusaders" files for amusement, continues to break records, and has just made the round trip from New York to Chicago and back in 9 hours and 56 minutes, beating the time of the crack flier Hawks, from Chicago to New York by two minutes. Hawks will remedy that, probably.

Railroad men of intelligence, knowing that the flying machine will soon be safer than the train, and contemplating a five-hour trip to Chicago, will do some hard thinking. Other hard thinking will be done by sincere prohibitionists, amazed that a man should fly so fast and not on ice water.

Airplanes, driven by Diesel engines, will take passengers from Chicago to New York for five dollars in five hours, and from New York to Seattle for ten dollars in fifteen hours and less. Write that on your tablets.

up, as our grandfathers were surprised when told that a bath tub was first to be installed in the White House.

A great majority of the grandfathers denounced the effeminate extravagance, saying that the president, like his predecessors should be content to walk down to the Potomac, just back of the White House, if he thought a bath necessary.

In Vera Cruz a volcanic eruption by Mount Tlanapa has men and women buried under tons of dirt.

The mountain, never before violent within memory of man, acted badly. With underground rumblings, and the opening of a wide fissure in the mountain side, great streams of mud and water poured in nearby houses.

That might be considered a miracle, rebuking interference with the church by the Vera Cruz government, and is doubtless so interpreted by many. Although the volcano did not hurt the governor responsible for driving out the clergy, it may have frightened him. It is based on the ten buried alive.

The Republic Steel corporation's salaried employes, at Youngstown, Ohio, started work yesterday, under a wage reduction of sixteen and two-thirds per cent. They will work only five days a week, at the old rate, per day. Other workers are not affected. Such cuts remind the man with the white collar that there is virtue in unions, when hard times come. But even unions may have to choose between wage reductions and a shut down.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor predicts disorder if the depression lasts, and wants government and industry to prevent it. It is dangerous to predict disorder for predictions sometimes promote realization.

Mr. Green's idea, however, may be to give capital a "little scare," to promote action.

Nothing is as timid as "big money."

There she took vocal lessons. Maxine is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Charlie White, in Prospect this week.

Tallentee Jackson is expecting Eugene Derrick of Medford to visit her soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Coffman and son, Leonard moved to Keno Sunday, where Bob is employed by the Weyschaefer Co.

ROGUE BARTLETTS QUOTED $2.25 FOR 'XF' IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The first carload of Rogue River Bartlett pears was due here today, normally quoted to retailers at $2.25 for extra fancy and $2 for fancy grade. Yakima extra fancy grade is $2 and $1.75 for fancy.

The Journal said today the movement of Bartletts is getting into full swing in both major shipping sections.

"At Medford and Yakima," the paper said, "the movement is showing normal daily increase in volume. Of particular interest in this year's movement is the circumstance that the crop is so huge and generally so good that much greater care than normal will be exercised in sending out only the cream of the crop."

Great activity in the Yakima region was attributed in part to the extremely low price quoted, $2.00 for No. 1, and $1.00 a ton for No. 2 grade. "These are in fact the lowest prices named along the Pacific coast," the paper said, "and therefore may account for the extremely heavy purchases."

Home canning operations in Bartletts are expected to show a very material increase over normal. Yakima is preparing to aid this movement by liberal advertising, and it is said Rogue river interests may follow suit.

LOWEST PRICE IN 37 YEARS BRITISH WHEAT

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Wheat touched the lowest price in thirty-seven years here today when October futures opened at three shillings 8½ pence per hundredweight (about 53½ cents a bushel).

The result is that thousands of English farmers find themselves in a bad position just when the crop is being harvested. Dumping of foreign wheat into an already over-supplied market is blamed for the drop.

COAST LUMBERMEN WILL BATTLE RATE

LONGVIEW, Wash., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Three west coast lumber groups will combine forces at an interstate commerce hearing at Portland August 12, to protest the requested railroad freight rate increases, said Colonel W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, at a meeting of trustees of that body here yesterday.

The Western Pine association and the Redwood Lumber association are the other two groups. Colonel Greeley will be principal witness for the combined groups on the adverse effect of rate increases on the lumber industry, it was said.
