

MORE DELAY FOR KINGSLEY LOOMS WITH NEW PLEA

Attorneys for Killer Polishing Motion for Rehearing—Expense to Jackson County Continues Mount

Attorneys for James E. Kingsley, confessed and convicted slayer of Sam G. Prescott, Ashland policeman, last January, are working on a motion for a rehearing, which will be filed with the supreme court this week. The action automatically stays the re-sentencing of Kingsley to hang, until the motion is acted upon by the supreme court, now on its annual vacation. Kingsley recently lost his appeal to the supreme court, and would have been resented next Monday, the expiration of the 20 days allowed by law for the filing of the mandate.

The fight for the life of Kingsley, to date, has entailed an expenditure by Jackson county of $765.40, with an estimated expenditure of $82.55 for the pending legal action.

EX-POLICE CHIEF ALLEGES DAMAGE

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Stanley Jones, former Klamath Falls police chief, filed suit in circuit court here yesterday for $20,000 damages against the Herald Publishing company.

He alleges his reputation as attorney and his personal reputation was "held up to ridicule" and damaged by an article in the Herald June 13. He declares the article implied him by inference that he had absconded from the city, abandoning his residence and business, and violating ordinances by leaving without permission of the mayor and council.

Jones contended he was attending a meeting of law officers in Eugene with permission of the city officials.

TWO BOYS HELD AS FOREST INCENDIARIES

SALEM, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Investigation of reports from Silverton that two youths, aged 14 and 18, were being held by a fire lookout in the north Santiam timbered area as suspects in starting the forest fire 25 miles southeast of Silverton, was under way today by J. W. Ferguson of Molalla.

The fire, which raged unchecked in a 50-acre tract of logged-off land near Camp 15 of the Silver Falls Timber company, was discovered Sunday by a group of loggers, who have been fighting it. Fifteen more men were sent to the scene last night and more will be sent today, it was announced.

PATRONS OF SCHOOL WANT CHARGES AIRD

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 11.—David Lee Byers, Sutherland school superintendent, has filed suit in circuit court here to enjoin ten residents of the district and Edith Acker, county school superintendent, from appealing from the decision of the Sutherland school directors, who last May dismissed charges of misconduct brought against him.

On May 22 the directors dismissed charges that Byers had made improper advances toward teachers, with the ruling that there was no evidence to sustain the accusations. Byers was given a renewal of contract over protests of a group of patrons of the district.

PANGBORN, HERNDON WILL BE CONFINED

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo today said the public prosecutor there had decided to order the confinement of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., American aviators, pending the outcome of an investigation of charges that they flew over fortified areas in Japan without permission.

The two fliers, who failed in an attempt to set a new speed record around the world, have been undergoing questioning by Japanese officials for several days.

NEW FRUIT TREE SPRAY HARMLESS FOR MANKIND

Rotenone, a new poison for spraying fruit trees, is deadly to insects but harmless to man, laboratory tests (right) have shown. The poison was developed by Dr. R. C. Roark (left) of the United States department of agriculture.

ROTENONE DEADLY ONLY TO INSECTS EXPERTS DECLARE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A spray that is sure death to fruit-eating insects but harmless to humans who eat the fruit is claimed by the U. S. department of agriculture. It is the result of long research and a world-wide hunt for an insect poison harmful only to insects.

Many insect poisons now in use, explains Dr. R. C. Roark, chemist of the Department of Agriculture, contain ingredients, such as arsenic, that are harmful to animals and humans if taken in sufficient quantities.

The new poison, called rotenone, gets insects "coming and going." It kills them if they eat it, and also if it comes in contact with their bodies externally.

Scientists of the Department of Agriculture, experimenting on themselves, ate quantities of the powder deliberately but suffered no ill effects.

The ingredients used in making rotenone were discovered not by scientists but by primitive natives of South America and the East Indies. The poison occurs in the roots of several tropical plants, especially cube (pronounced coo-bay) and derris.

The natives use the poisons in fishing, making an extract of the roots of the plants, and pouring it into a stream. The poison, though greatly diluted, intoxicates or stupefies the fish so that they are easily captured.

Eating the poisoned fish has no ill effects on the natives, explorers noticed, and this fact indicated to scientists that the poison might be the kind they were seeking.

Rotenone can be used as the basis of household insect powders, for animal powders, such as flea dusts, and for preparations to kill plant lice and fruit-eating insects, Dr. Roark says.

It is believed the plants from which the poison is extracted can be cultivated in tropical countries and perhaps in the southernmost parts of the United States, making this country independent of outside supplies.

The Department of Agriculture also is experimenting to see if the poisons can be produced synthetically.

PENDLETON ASKED TO SHIFT ROUNDUP FOR BI-CENTENNIAL

PENDLETON, Ore., Aug. 11.—(AP) Recognition of America's premier round-up has come from the national capital.

The suggestion that the Pendleton round-up be transplanted to Washington, D. C., for the District of Columbia Washington bi-centennial next year, was received today by the round-up management here.

In offering the suggestion, Arnold Kruckman, member of the executive committee, said: "I don't believe this part of the Atlantic coast has ever seen a genuine round-up, by genuine cowpunchers, riding real range horses."

"I think if the Pendleton round-up were produced here as part of this Washington bi-centennial it would make a profound impression upon the people who live in the east."

Henry W. Collins, president of the round-up, expressed pleasure at the recognition of Pendleton's annual show, but said "I'm afraid Mr. Kruckman doesn't realize the difficulties or the cost of picking up the round-up and transporting it to Washington. I doubt if $250,000 would foot the bill even if we did not take all the show."

RIVER POLLUTION WILL BE STUDIED

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The state game commission at its regular meeting here Monday authorized scientific investigation and study of the question of Oregon stream pollution, in hopes of gathering sufficient definite and accurate data on which to proceed with further action.

The question of deputy game warden appointments was to come before the commission at the afternoon session.

The game commission decided to take no action to close the regular duck hunting season, although disconcerting drought reports have come from the duck hunting areas. However, if closing orders should be agreed upon by California, Washington and British Columbia, Oregon would fall in line, the commission agreed.

BABY SEAL FOUND ON PORTLAND BOULEVARD

PORTLAND, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A decidedly misplaced baby seal was found on the railroad tracks on Sandy Boulevard by A. Ernst, on his way to work.

The tiny seal was flippety-flopping along the tracks when Ernst found him. The animal displayed considerable good humor at meeting someone and behaved in a friendly manner. Ernst took the wanderer home and then turned it over to humane society officers.
