

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Juanita Basora had her past, and she is in Dixie's gambling place. The veil of her costume gives her security, and Dixie, his wife, Molly, Conchita and her son, Gabrean, treat her kindly. As for Umberto, Gabrean protects her from him. Eric Lindbergh, at the resort with Adrián Ponce, Mrs. Belaise and Kirk Stannard, her grandsons, tries to tear off Juanita's veil. She evades him, trembling because she has just seen Señor Basora of Mexico join the party. Through a thief's trick Dixie secures Mrs. Belaise's necklace and next day sends Juanita, introduced as Señora Flores, to return it, saying she had found it. The elated Mrs. Belaise is disappointed when the girl refuses a reward. Kirk asks Juanita to allow him to call on her.

Chapter 12 KIRK RETURNS A CALL

LOOKS like you didn't find out much," Dixie remarked, donning the modernistic pyjamas Molly had decreed for him. "Not very communicative, I take it."

Molly was in bed, her small face looking weary on the great pillow. "No, she don't talk much," said Molly.

"But she ought to know the geography of the house. Naturally, she's not expected to discover the location of the safe on one visit—but we ought to get something out of her. All we know is, they've asked her back. That's the biggest part of the business, but it's not all."

"Divvy, beautiful, what you want to do this thing for? What you want to go in with Umberto for? He'll get us all in trouble yet."

"Oh, no, he won't. Umberto's my right hand. How much reforming you want to do in one year? I've got rid of the hooch, haven't I?"

"Divvy, you know Umberto's run-around this very night. Things are a trifle now—you say so yourself—and if you're mixed up with Umberto, ain't and abettin' him—you'll go when he goes—and what's goner become of me and the baby?"

"So that's why you aren't more enterprising in pumping Juanita. You ought to know that people expecting a family are keener than ever to feather their nest. You didn't need to look at things this way."

"I've always hated your connection with Umberto. Oh, Divvy, I'm so afraid—"

"You're so afraid you're holding out on me 'bout Juanita's concerned."

"Think what you please, Divvy. You know the girl don't talk much."

"I know well enough I can get on without her," Dixie answered. He got into his bath robe. Molly was looking at him hopefully.

"You mean you don't intend to see Juanita?"

"Use her, of course. But differently."

"Divvy, we've got money. Let's go somewhere and start all over in something that's not dangerous. Many things are dangerous," remarked Dixie. "Adventurers take chances. So do miners and soldiers. A man must follow his bent. That's the first thing women have to learn. He went over and patted Molly's shoulders. "Go to sleep, kid. You're not going to have any more to do with this."

"I suppose you don't trust me. The thought wrung her heart."

"It's not that. Pick out the clothes for Juanita, and look after her dates. Let it go at that. As far as my getting into trouble is concerned—I won't. When it comes I'll be gone—you with me."

He opened a door beside the armchair, went up a narrow stair to his office. There he sat down at his disordered desk and wrote:

"Marquesa Carlota de Lutz y Cabrera
312 Michigan Street
New Orleans
Dear Marquesa:
"Will you kindly call at my office tomorrow—Thursday—night at nine o'clock?"

JASON DIVITT.

He opened the other door and dropped the letter down the mail chute of the Tljon hotel.

Kirk Stannard telephoned the Tljon on Thursday afternoon, desiring to call on Señora Flores. In touch presently with an agreeable female voice—not the señorita's—he was told that Señora Flores would see him that evening from eight till nine o'clock. She would be in the patio.

It was on an errand for Nelly that Kirk was calling, or he allowed himself to call it that. Mrs. Belaise told him that Señora Flores looked like Delphine, his mother, and when Kirk confessed to the feeling of having seen the señorita before, she added, "That is it." Kirk could not see Juanita's resemblance to his mother's pictures, yet he would not dismiss Nelly's mind of a thing that seemed

U. S. TO INSTALL RADIO BEACON AT MEDFORD AIRPORT

Medford is one of the six cities of the Pacific coast chosen as location for a directive radio beacon service station in the new system being installed by the department of commerce. It was announced today.

Work on installation of the new station, to be situated northwest of the present airway radio station, will start in the immediate future.

Under the new system pilots flying mail-passenger planes on the Seattle-San Diego airway of the Boeing System maintained by United Air Lines will be guided by the entire length of the 1206 mile route by directive radio beacon service.

The department has authorized the installation of 30 radio beacons on the nation's network. Five will be on the coast air line. They will be located at Seattle, Portland, Medford, Shasta City, Gilroy and San Diego.

They will be installed and maintained by the Department of Commerce, the local station to be under the direction and control of the present airway station on the Crater Lake highway.

The function of the directive radio beacon service is to provide a continuous series of radio signals by means of which the pilot is enabled to determine whether or not he is flying on his true course. When the pilot hears "dot-dash" in his radio receiver, he knows he is bearing to the left of his designated route; white if he hears "dash-dot" he knows he is deviating to the right. When the signals blend into a continuous stream of dashes, the pilot is assured that his plane is on the correct line of flight.

This government service will complement the plane-ground voice radio telephone communication, which is operated by the company. Radio stations are located at Seattle, Portland, Medford, Redding, Oakland, Fresno, Bakersfield, Los Angeles and San Diego.

COLUMBIA SALMON CATCH DWINDLING

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Salmon catches on the lower Columbia river last night dropped 50 to 75 per cent from the record takes of Monday night, Astoria canneries reported today.

The summer fishing season closed at noon today.

The greatest run of salmon for the season entered the river last week end and Sunday night fishermen almost swamped their boats with their huge loads. Some veteran guide fishermen said the run was the greatest since 1903.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, ice, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

It's this bile that is flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARVER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. "I feel like a new man." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the life flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carver's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carver's Little Liver Pills on the red label. How a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Crack Train Held As Bull Cavorts in Depot Grounds

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A bull broke away from the Pennsylvania yards early today, charged into the train shed, delayed the crack Cincinnati Limited and tore up hundreds of laws before it was killed by a police radio scout car.

A patrolman was gored when officers attempted to drive the animal from the tunnel which runs under the city to the Panhandle tracks.

The limited was detained when railroad officials warned passengers not to board or leave the train while recaps, police and trainmen tried to drive the animal from the station.

Sales Leadership

Four people have purchased the Buick Eight to every one buyer of any other of the thirteen eights in Buick's price range during the twelve months since its introduction. This four-to-one preference—in days when America is scrutinizing values more closely than ever before—fully confirms the value leadership of The Eight as Buick Builds It. It is this outstanding value which causes 89 per cent of all Buick owners to buy Buicks again and again.

* Buick has sold four times as many eights as the next most popular eight in its field, August 1, 1930, through July, 1931, according to official figures by R. L. Polk & Co.
