

TOURIST INCREASE PLAN RELATED TO BOARD BY HANSEN

New Association Approved by Chamber—Hawley to Speak at Next Forum—McCoy Succeeds Vining

Work planned by the Shasta Cascades Wonderland association was presented members of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors last night by Lew Hansen of Ashland and approved by the group, which also welcomed Mr. Hansen as Jackson county's director in the organization, composed of nine northern California and southern Oregon counties.

A map of the wonderland, which according to the organization's plans, will become one of the greatest fields in the United States for vacationists is now on display in the Chamber of Commerce building. Promotion of tourist travel through the Mt. Lassen and Crater Lake national parks area will be the leading goal of the organization.

Hawley to speak September 8 was named by the Forum committee as date for the September forum, which will be held in connection with the Oregon Reclamation congress banquet at the Hotel Medford with Representative W. C. Hawley and John L. Haw of St. Paul, agricultural economist for the Northern Pacific railroad, as speakers.

The October forum will feature a talk by Dr. James Gilbert of the University of Oregon, who has announced taxation as his topic.

B. E. Harder presented the report of the labor investigation committee, which was accepted and the committee dismissed.

McCoy Named Prof. Irving Vining, who was named as Jackson county's representative on the Oregon Chamber of Commerce board has declined to serve, it was announced, and O. E. McCoy, banker of Ashland, was approved by the board as his successor. The program and by-laws for the newly re-organized state chamber were presented and will be given thorough consideration by the board, which will report on the program at the next regular meeting.

CHICKS FIND MANURE PILE IS POOR PROXY FOR OLD MOTHER HEN

"It's the wrong environment—peep, peep,"—so said the down little chicks, recently hatched in the manure pile at Judge Alex Sparrow's farm.

Deserted unintentionally by the old hen, who died on the nest when they were but embryos in the egg, the chickens were cast into the manure pile.

Days went by and no more thought was given to their once anticipated break into the world. A week went by. Then the caretaker at Kirtland farm heard much "peeping" in the region of the manure pile. It didn't quit but took on increased volume and a note of insistence.

He had quite forgotten the eggs, but decided to investigate the noise. He started into the pile with the pitchfork and the peeping became louder. The next forkful revealed a nest of little chickens, who immediately evolved from their warm home to shake the fertilizer from their fluffy wings and to find a mother who clucks.

CANDY PLENTIFUL FOR KIDDIES BRINGING PAGE

A large supply of candy bars is in the Mail Tribune office, and children are reminded that when each boy and girl brings in his color page, he receives a bar. Only pages entered for prizes must be completely colored, which gives the smaller children an opportunity to present their pages.

FALL OPENING MAY BE SEPTEMBER 14 EVENT

Preliminary plans for annual fall opening in Medford were outlined this morning at a meeting of the Retail Trade committee of the chamber of commerce.

September 14 was named as probable date for the opening. A definite date will be set and the program announced following Thursday's meeting. It is hoped the fall opening may be held in connection with the inauguration of the home products promotion campaign in this city.

Fred Tice Drives Old Stage Again

Among old time stage drivers who attended the bridge dedication at Treka Saturday was Fred Tice of Medford, about whom the Treka Journal has the following to say:

"Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tice of Medford arrived in Treka this morning to attend the Pioneers Bridge dedication. Mr. Tice drove the 6-horse Concord stage at the celebration today. Mr. Tice drove stage in '78 and '80 from Rock Point to Levens Station, a 45 mile drive on the old stage route in southern Oregon, and the old stage road was closely aligned to the present highway. It was at Levens station that Mr. Tice lost a six-horse team by spring flood waters in Cow creek March 4, 1879, in the night. Bridges were scarce in those days and fording was the common method. Mr. Tice was about 21 in those days and when his horses got in a whirlpool he kept a cool head and saved the express box and its contents. Later Mr. Tice was transferred to the Siskiyou mountains and drove to Cole station above Hill.

"Cole station at that time was a home station where the stages met. Treka was the next home station and headquarters at this time. Col. Stone of Treka was superintendent and paymaster of the line from Roseburg, Oregon, to Redding. Men were paid with gold coin, as there were no checks, and little paper money. Drivers were paid $50, board and lodging. In Oregon $55. Oregon had six-horse teams and California only four-horse teams.

"The fare for passengers was 10 cents per mile. Each passenger was allowed 40 pounds of baggage. "About 200 head of good horses were used on the stage division from Roseburg to Redding. It took 12 drivers on that division. There were 25 hostlers who cared for the horses

BLAZE BLISTERS JUNIOR PORTER

Junior Porter, with a number of other high school boys were gathered in a huddle around a perpetual motion machine operated with pennies, about 10 o'clock last night in DeVoe's west side establishment, discussing plans ament the coming opening of school.

All of a sudden the group separated excitedly, with shouts of "Get some water quick!" and Junior emerged holding his right pocket flap open, and rushing over to the soda fountain, called to Carl Bigelow and "Speedy," his assistant. "Pour some water into that pocket quick. Save me!"

Carl, recognizing an emergency, at once emptied a cup of hot coffee he was about to serve a customer into the pocket, and the startled "Speedy" dumped an ice cream soda into the same opening.

Junior straightened up with a sigh of relief, signifying he was saved. He was wearing corduroy trousers with wide pocket flaps protruding, and it seems that while the boys were talking the lighted portion of a cigarette fell into the pocket, burning him severely on the left leg, and a big hole in the pocket before Bigelow and Speedy rescued him.

It was the first time Junior had ever been on fire, hence his agitation.

APPLEGATE FIRE SOON SUBDUED

A forest fire which started yesterday afternoon in Crater National forest a mile from the Steamboat ranch in the Applegate section, and burned over hundreds of acres of brush land until this morning when it was said to be in a fairly satisfactory condition, resulted in over one hundred fire fighters being rushed from Medford to the scene late in the afternoon, and last night. No further fire fighters are wanted, and some of those sent out last night were scheduled to be returned today to the city unless conditions changed.

TABLE ROCK FIRE BURNS 200 ACRES

By 10 a. m. today a forest fire which had broke out in brush and grass on the east side of lower Table Rock, state protected land, at 4 p. m. yesterday, was controlled after burning over 200 acres.

The fire, which started two miles from the Modoc orchard, did not endanger any ranch property and was fought by seven men under District Fire Warden Phillips.

The fire in the Parsnip Creek district which burned over an area of several hundred acres of the Rogue River Timber Company's stumpage in a burned over O. and C. grant land section since Friday was under control, according to a phone message received from the Prospect area this noon.

and stages and were paid $95, lodge and board. These were considered fine wages in those days.

"Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tice are past 70 years young, hale and hearty. Mr. Tice still has a heavy head of hair, and all his teeth and is wonderfully well preserved for a man who had so much early day hardship.

"Such pioneers as Mr. and Mrs. Tice are a real pleasure to meet.

"Tom Burnett of Roseburg is also here today. He drove out of Roseburg, and like Fred Tice, had many harsh early day experiences that read like fiction.

"Tom Burnett is well known up and down the line, and it is a real joy to have him and all the old time men and women in our midst today."

SCHOOL BUSES AND DRIVERS TO BE SCRUTINIZED

Following a conference between Captain L. M. Bown of the state police and District Attorney George A. Coddling, all school buses in use in Jackson county will be examined this week for mechanical perfection and the drivers thereof examined for mental and physical fitness. It is estimated that 300 children ride daily during the school year in school buses. County School Superintendent Mrs. Susanne Homes Carter is co-operating with the two state agencies.

Under the new rules, all school buses must be in perfect mechanical condition, equipped with mirrors, lights and the door controlled by the driver. If a bus fails to meet these requirements, it will be placed out of commission.

In connection with official action a campaign of education on safety rules will be conducted among the children and their parents.

Captain Bown said that the action was taken "to prevent any horror, by reason of any unconscious driving, and to eliminate as far as humanly possible, any hazard, however small, that might endanger the lives of children. I understand there has never been a school bus accident in this county. We are going to erect every safeguard against one, and the rules and regulations governing school buses will be enforced to the letter."

Similar campaigns will be conducted by the state police and county officials in all counties of the state.

SALON HONORS GO TO LOCAL PHOTOS

The Southern Oregon Photographers association won salon honors at the Pacific International convention in Sacramento last week for the best association display. Medford photographers announce.

J. Vern Shangle won salon honors on his photograph of John Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kirk, which was entered in his individual display. He and A. E. Beasley also won gold seals on photographs.

The southern Oregon delegation of portrait photographers had a 100 per cent representation at the convention. Local photographers describe the weather in the southern state as unbearably hot and the water poor, and announce that they are "mighty glad" to be home today.
