

CATTLEMAN SHOT IN DUEL AT BRAY OVER RANGE LAND

Old Western Scenes Re-enacted When Stockman Goes Gunning for Sheepman Who Fenced Pasture

YREKA, Cal., Sept. 4.—(AP) A page out of the old west, when cattlemen and sheep men battled with guns over range land, had been enacted here today, and as a result, a cattleman was dead and a sheep raiser in jail.

The perennial dispute between raisers of sheep and cattle had culminated in the shooting of Fred McManus, 60, stockman, by Tom Flournoy, 50, sheepman.

The argument started over a fence between adjoining ranges in the wild country near Forks, in Tehama county, when Flournoy erected a barrier to keep McManus' cattle off his sheep range.

Meet With Rifles
It came to a head Wednesday when the two met, both with rifles, in the little town of Bray.

McManus was in the town's only store, witnesses said, when Flournoy approached, rifle in hand, and told the proprietor he wanted to see McManus. The stockman came outside the door, carrying his rifle, and witnesses said Flournoy opened fire without warning.

Slayer Surrenders
McManus went down immediately, fatally wounded in the chest. Flournoy handed his gun to a bystander, and surrendered to the constable. A coroner's inquest absolved him of blame, stating the verdict the shooting was in self-defense, but authorities were holding him in jail pending further investigation.

"I simply beat him to it," Flournoy declared. Witnesses said McManus was "gunning" for the sheepman.

LATE CRAWFORDS
REACH PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 4.—(AP)—A slightly better tone is appearing in the butter and egg markets of the middle-west and east.

In the local field, feeling is unsettled as to the future of both the butter and egg markets in the next few weeks. Both are being bothered by surplus stocks that apparently have no tendency to move at present levels.

The first shipment of late Crawford peaches of any size for the season was received this morning from the Dalles. Although the color and flavor of these peaches were good, the sizes were small and they sold at around 35 cents a box.

Large sizes of the J. H. Hale variety of peaches had a slightly stronger market in wholesale circles today. Top quality was quoted up to 85 cents, almost a dime above Thursday's level.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The stock market was left rather groggy today, after yesterday's spill, and as traders were disinclined to extend commitments in advance of the three-day week end closing, the market ended the week in an uncertain frame of mind.

90-DAY SENTENCE EASED BY COURT

Frank Goodman, following a raid on his home on North Riverside by the police and deputy sheriffs several days ago, was given a sentence of 90 days in jail, in Judge Taylor's court today on the charge of possession.

Inasmuch as he has a wife, who just got out of the hospital, and six children ranging from 6 to 16 years, and was without money, no fine was imposed and Judge Taylor suspended all but five days of the sentence, to enable Goodman at the conclusion of serving the five days, to go to work and support his family.

Goodman, who works around a pool room, has been suspected several weeks of being a bootlegger and possible moonshine manufacturer. When his house was raided nine pints of moonshine were found by the police in the cellar. Goodman maintained that he did not know anything about them or about several gallon moonshine jugs and a syphon found a few minutes later in the kitchen.

In Kentucky Feud

MONTICELLO, Ky., Sept. 4.—(AP)—A long standing feud between members of two mountain families flared again here last night and Lon Guffey, 35, and Otho Lovelace were fatally wounded in a pistol battle at the county fair grounds.

Guffey, who slew Lovelace's brother, Lyle, July 12, encountered Otho in the midst of a crowd of several thousand persons.

BAKES FIRST PIE AFTER 20 YEARS ON PEAR ORCHARD

After living on an orchard for the past 20 years a resident of the West-side district baked her first pear pie last week, according to report received at the Mail Tribune this morning, and found it delicious.

The pear pie idea had never occurred to her until she read the recipe in the Mail Tribune. She had, however, used the fruit for many other dainties and submit the following conserve recipe: Take five pounds of firm pears, peel and cut into quarters. Add four pounds of sugar and let stand over night. Add a pound of seedless raisins, the rind of two oranges, the juice of three oranges and two lemons. Cook until clear. Remove from fire, add one-half pound of walnut meats. Seal.

A report has also come to the Mail Tribune that pear pies are being served in the California Oregon Power company construction camp at Prospect.

CRATER FIREMEN RETURN TO DUTY

Karl Janouch, assistant supervisor, and Albert Young and O. W. Stevenson, Applegate fire guards, of the Crater National Forest staff, arrived back in Medford last night from fighting a big forest fire in Montana for the past two weeks, and resumed their regular duties today.

They saw some hard fire fighting while away in District No. 1, which includes northeast Washington, northwest Montana and northern Idaho, and composed the Crater national forest delegation of experienced fire fighters loaned temporarily to that district, to aid in the forest fire fighting there as boxes in charge of squads of the many fire fighters engaged.

The most of their service was on the ten mile long fire, covering about 20 square miles near Thompson Falls, Montana, and which 300 men combated. Janouch was in charge of one sector of the fire fighting, 125 men under him, and Young and Stevenson acted as his foreman in this sector.

The humidity increasing and the winds dying down improved weather conditions, enabling control of this big fire, thus enabling the Crater forest delegation to return home.

was reported at the hospital and has revealed no more facts regarding her identity.

The woman entered the Greene & Shore service station on North Riverside Wednesday evening and soon after fell to the ground, suffering from a hemorrhage. She has been unconscious most of the time.
