

Four Hundred Acre Tract For Roseburg Vets Home

Aerial photographs of the 400-acre tract offered by Roseburg as a site for the northwest national soldiers' home shows in detail the land recommended by the federal board of hospitalization for the veterans' toward the southeast, the city being located in the extreme background.

The tract proposed for the federal home is included in the angle of the two roads shown in the foreground of the picture, the paved road in the immediate foreground being the road from Roseburg to the County Club, and the rich Garden valley orchard section.

Across the South Umpqua river, shown in the background of the picture, is located the Oregon state soldiers' home, with a tract of forty acres, which will be included, according to the recommendations of the federal board of hospitalization in the national home and will probably be expanded to form the first unit. Immediately to the left of the ground shown in the photograph is located the Southern Pacific railroad tracks and the Pacific highway. The ground is well drained and of suitable soil for the federal government's use. The large grove at the southeast corner of the tract is to be developed for recreational purposes, according to the plans of the engineers. The land is to be purchased by the city of Roseburg and will be transferred without cost to the federal government.

JAPS SIDESTEP INTERVENTION BY AROUSED RUSSIA

Decision to Stay Out of Harbin Averts Danger of Drawing Soviet Government Into China Squabble

By Glenn Babb.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Immediate danger of Russia being drawn into the Manchurian imbroglio was believed averted today by the decision of the Japanese military not to occupy Harbin.

Japan apparently has determined to keep the Manchurian crisis strictly an issue between China and Japan, excluding all interventions, whether by Russia, the League of Nations or the Kellogg anti-war pact signatories.

Although the Japanese chief of staff in Manchuria had ordered troops to move into Harbin, the Japanese cabinet decided it was not worth while to risk Russian intervention and ordered Changchun made the northern limit of the occupied zone. Instead of sending troops to protect the Japanese community of Harbin, a majority of Japanese residents of the inland Manchurian metropolis are expected to withdraw to safer places within the Japanese military cordon.

Mild Russian Protest.
Although the Chinese press was filled with wild rumors of Russian war preparations above the Siberian border, confirmation was lacking and heretofore Russia has limited herself to a mild protest against the Japanese occupation of the Chinese eastern railway station at Kwantung, which later was evacuated. The Chinese Eastern railway is jointly operated by Russia and China.

If authoritative pronouncements in Tokyo and Shanghai stand good, Japan will not agree to intervention either by the League of Nations or the Kellogg pact signatories. But while Japan—at least the civilian element of her government—is doing her utmost to limit the scope of the present emergency, grave doubts have arisen in the minds of Japanese residents of China as to whether it will be possible to hold within bounds the wave of bitterness against Japan that is sweeping China.

Chinese Move Out.

Hence Japanese communities in many Chinese cities are moving in bodies to places of safety.

At Manchuli, near the Manchurian-Siberia border, all Japanese were reported concentrated at the Japanese consulate, fearing Chinese reprisals. Japanese residents of Tientsin, also in northern Manchuria, were arriving at Harbin, en route to places of safety, while a large portion of the Harbin Japanese community was preparing to leave in the wake of others already departed.

It was reported that Japanese women and children also were moving from the Nanchun district of south-eastern Kirin province, Manchuria, into Korea.

LEGION WARNED NOT TO DEMAND MORE ON BONUS

Administrator Hines of Veterans' Bureau Says Rumor of Criticism Heard—Good Will Is Desirable

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Legionnaires were warned today by a former comrade in arms, Administrator Hines of veterans' affairs, not to risk public good will by demanding further payment on adjusted service certificates.

Speaking from the same rostrum in the crowded hall of the American Legion's annual convention from which President Hoover delivered a stinging appeal on Monday, Hines said "one with his ear to the ground cannot have failed to hear an occasional rumble and criticism directed toward the American Legion because of its anticipated further demands in behalf of the ex-service men."

Good Will Needed.
"We must not forget that the intangible asset of good will is the most valuable we can possibly possess," the former brigadier general said. "The Legion has had it unboundedly. It has it today, but it is a fickle thing and must be carefully guarded. Nothing can vanish more quickly."

Hines urged also that the ex-service men think carefully before demanding at this time for widows and orphans of veterans whose deaths were not caused by war service. But if the Legionnaires should determine to ask this, he added:

Forego Bonus Plea.
"Then, I earnestly urge that the effectiveness of your appeal, in such an admittedly worthy cause, be not permitted to be discounted, as surely it will be, by any other action looking to an even greater encumbrance against the treasury, such as the further payment on adjusted service certificates."

Hines said that from March, 1931, to June, 1932, actual expenditures for veterans of all wars will total approximately two billion dollars, including considerably more than a billion in loans on compensation certificates.

The mounting expenditures for ex-soldiers, he said, have increased steadily in proportion to other government outlays.

PATENTED ROASTING PROCESS CAPTURES FLAVOR OF COFFEE

Accurate Control of Heat Roasts Every Berry to a Perfect Degree

Coffee has the most delicate flavor of any food-product. Yet it is completely developed by Hills Bros' exclusive Controlled Roasting process. As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the watchless, uniform flavor of Hills Bros' Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. The rare blends flow through the roaster in automatically measured lots. The speed of operation and the temperature remain the same. Naturally, Hills Bros' Coffee never varies in flavor.

The usual, bulk-roasting methods can't maintain a uniform roast. That's why ordinary coffees don't have the same wonderful flavor as Hills Bros' Coffee. Controlled Roasting is patented.

Vacuum cans keep Hills Bros' Coffee fresh always. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of these cans. Even ordinary, "air-tight" cans do not keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros' Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

TINY FOREST FIRE SOON CONTROLLED

A small forest fire, the first since September 9, two weeks ago, broke out in Crater National forest at Grench gulch in the Applegate district last evening, in some dead logs alongside the highway.

Because of being discovered in time before it could gain much headway the fire was placed under control comparatively quickly after it had burned over an area of only 150 square feet. A tossed away cigarette or cigar stub by some passerby caused the fire.

At first Hugh B. Rankin, supervisor of the forest in telling of the fire today, spoke of it as the last one of the year, then hastily rapping on wood qualified the statement by adding he hoped it was the last one.
